Look Higher.
Never cultivate second or third rate folk except for artistic purposes. Meet them, if you must; leave them when you can. You need expect nothing from them that they can conscientiously withhold, for they are after your goods while keeping a strict and jealous watch upon their own. All you can get from them is material, never any spiritual, intellectual, wise, sane or moral or helpful messages.

Ainu Women.
When Ainu, especially Ainu women, meet after a separation that has lasted some time they have a pretty way of telling each other their experiences in a sort of chant, and in the pleasant sound of their singularly sweet voices one forgets their wild and unkempt looks. The Japanese women are equally remarkable for the sweetness of their voices, but have the advantage over their Ainu sisters of delicate and dainty ways, the charm of which the most stolid globe trotter is constrained to own. If the women of Ainu-moshi-ri, as the Ainu call their land, are the drudges of the men in their youth and middle age their opportunity for revenge comes with the lapse of years.

The curses of an angry old woman excite the utmost terror in the bravest bear hunter. He flies, panic struck, from such names as shumumash (many deer), tononeppo (bald pated bear) or, worst of all, rai-guru (corpse) or inao-sak-gura (godless fellow). After death her ghost is regarded with even deeper dread.

A Bird Friendship.
The rector of Woolstone, Mr. Gilbert Coventry, told me of a wild rock dove which one of his stable boys had reared from the nest. It slept in the open, however, and had full liberty. Soon the good things on the rector's table attracted it, and it would appear through the open window at mealtimes, take hot soup with much zest and even sip sherry from a wineglass. At night it often slipped in and slept in the rector's bed on its back under the coverlet. One Sunday morning during the reading of the lesson the dove flew swiftly through an open window into the church and settled on the rector's head. Broad smiles spread over the faces of the elders and audible litters came from the youngsters. A gentle touch sent the bird down to the edge of the clerk's desk below, where it sat undisturbed.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Art of Making Hay.

How and when men first learned to make hay will probably never be known, for haymaking is a "process," and the product is not simply sun dried grass, but grass which has been partly fermented, and is as much the work of men's hands as flour or cider. Probably its discovery was due to accident, but possibly man learned it from the pikas, the "calling hares" of the steppes, which cut and stack hay for the winter. That idea would fit in nicely with the theory that central Asia was the "home of the Aryan race" if we were still allowed to believe it, and hay-making is certainly an art manfully practiced in cold countries for winter forage.—London Spectator.

Myrtle.

The creeping plant we call myrtle is not a myrtle at all, but should be called by its proper name, periwinkle. Botanically it is Vinca minor. Long ago it used to be called "the ivy of the ground." Chaucer mentions it as "fresh pervincke, rich of hew." The large blue flowers are very pretty. In Tuscany it is known as "the death flower" on account of its being so often planted upon graves, a custom which is beginning to prevail in this country. There is a pretty variegated leaved variety and also a sport with white flowers not so pretty as the blue.

A Poser.

A verbatim fragment from the law courts:
King's Counsel (examining witness)—Did you—I know you did not, but I am bound to put it to you—on the 25th—? was not the 25th really? It was the 24th; it is a mistake in my brief—see the defendant—he is not the defendant really; he is the plaintiff—there is a counter claim, but you would not understand that—yes or no?
Witness—What?—St. James Gazette.

In Nature's Kitchen.

A woman who teaches in a college for girls vouches for the truth of this story. She presides over one of the college dining tables at which sit a dozen students:
One day some curly lettuce was brought on. A freshman looked at it and exclaimed: "How clever of the cook to crisp it that way! How does she do it?"

Easily Settled.

Long Haired Visitor (entering timidly)—I have here a little poem written on snow and—
Editor (interrupting hastily)—Written on snow! We can't use anything that isn't written on paper. Sorry. Turn the knob to the right. That's it. Good morning.

A Sharp Dig.

Mrs. Buxom—That hateful Mrs. Knox made a very mean comment upon my age today.
Mr. Buxom—Did she say you were getting old?
Mrs. Buxom—No, indeed! She said I "still looked quite young."—Exchange.

Heaped.

"Hi Peck hed ter git out o' bed 'n' mail a letter fer thet sharp tongued wife o' hisn."
"Pore feller! Driv from pillar ter post!"—Princeton Tiger.

Up at Night.

Parke—Does your baby keep you up nights?
Lane—I should say so. Why, I haven't been home before midnight for a month.—Life.

Fitting.

"What's your idea in beginning with vic and ending your dinner backward?"
"My stomach's upset."—Cornell Widow.

All fortune never crushed that man whom good fortune deceived not.—Ben Jonson.
