CIRCUS PICKPOCKET.
Citizens of Milton Have an Exciting Experience With a Thief.

While industriously picking the pockets of Milton citizens as they were rushing for the O. R. & N. train yesterday morning, an unknown pickpocket was caught red handed by one of his victims, and despite the fierce fight he put up, was landed in the Milton jail.

Milton citizens enjoy circuses, and a crowd of over 100 assembled at the Milton depot to take the train to Walla Walla.

In attempting to snatch a pocket-book from E. L. Tanke, a merchant of Milton, who was placing his family on board the train, Mr. Tanke observed the act and immediately grappled with the man.

W. S. Mayberry, a friend of Mr. Tanke, was standing close by and he also grabbed the fellow, who was fighting fiercely. Others took a hand in the affair and in a few minutes the pickpocket was lying secure on the depot platform. A constable was telephoned for and the man was taken to the Milton jail.

HANEY AN AGITATOR.

Tried to Organize a Strike Among Laborers on Electric Power Site.

Ed Haney, who a year ago jumped his bail of $250, while awaiting trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and who was retaken a few days ago, bears an unsavory reputation among employees of the Washington & Oregon Power Co.

Previous to his arrest last week, Haney was employed by the Washington & Oregon Power Company and had charge of one of the line crews. G. F. Hawley, one of the men in Haney's crew alleges that the man stole a revolver from him a short time ago.

It is reported that last Thursday when the linemen received their pay, Haney attempted to get them to go on a strike for higher wages and shorter hours. Several of the men came to town with Haney and became intoxicated and were discharged. The day previous to his arrest, Haney was himself dismissed.

On "The Abandoned Land." W. T. Fancher this year raised a very profitable grain crop 12 miles west of Pendleton, on land that was once known as "the abandoned land," north of the river. On 900 acres he raised nearly 20,000 bushels, the average being from 30 to 35 bushels. Eighty acres of barley yielded 1007 sacks. The place is known as the "Old Scott Place."
