O. R. & N. RIVER FOLDER.

Beautiful Panorama of the Columbia River Just Issued.

The passenger department of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company has just issued a beautiful and costly panoramic folder entitled "The Columbia River, through the Cascade Mountains to the Pacific Ocean."

From Arlington to Portland and from Portland to the Pacific ocean, every curve of the river and every point of interest are shown, while Mt. Hood, Mt. Adams and Mt. St. Helens, perpetually covered with snow, stand out in all their beauty.

On the back of the map is an interesting story in detail of the trip from Huntington to Portland, and from Portland to the ocean, not overlooking the beaches and the San Francisco trip by ocean.

A copy of this folder may be secured by sending four cents in stamps (to pay postage) to A. L. Craig, general passenger agent of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, Portland, Ore. By sending the address of some friend in the East, and four cents in postage, the folder will be promptly mailed.

CANADA'S HOLY RAILROAD.

Run "Especially for Accommodation of Pilgrims."

In these days, when railroads are run more for what there is in them for a favored few than for the accommodation of the general public, it may be interesting to recall the fact that there is right here in North America a "holy railroad," says the New York Times.

This is a little line 21 miles long, from Quebec to Ste. Anne de Beaupre. It is sacred because it claims to run "especially for the accommodation of pilgrims" and, above all, because at its opening a few years since it was formally blessed, with all its belongings, by Cardinal Taschereau.

Every Sunday the trains are crowded by devotees in search of the blessing of the good Saint Anne, who is credited with the miraculous power of healing, and on July 26, Saint Anne's day, the road can not accommodate the enormous crowds which flock to her.

Think of riding on a holy railroad! But those who have traveled on it know that they must not expect the comforts of paragon. It may be called "holy," but it seems to be run, none the less, with an eye to dividends. The charges are high and the service poor.

THE REINDEER OF ALASKA.

Wisdom of Their Introduction More Apparent Every Day.

The wisdom of the government's efforts to introduce the reindeer into Alaska grows more and more apparent every day.

In the near future these animals will be found to be of immense value in the opening up of the country. The country is especially adapted to these animals, owing to the immense amount of long white moss, covering about 400,000 acres in Alaska, which they feed upon.

In using dogs the natives have to take along fish for food, but with the reindeer all they have to do is to turn them loose, and they will immediately paw away the snow and find their moss food. In order to familiarize the Eskimos with these animals the missionary stations at which they are being educated have taken up the plan of showing them how to properly care for and use them.

The great drawback has been in obtaining the reindeer. All along the northern Siberian coast, where they are so numerous, it is difficult to get the natives to part with them, owing to their superstition about the animals and those which were obtained were secured through barter.

Notwithstanding this, a herd of 6000 was collected and they are rapidly increasing in numbers. The government is now spending $25,000 annually for the education of the Eskimos in the care and use of these valuable animals.

The capacity of a reindeer for team work is remarkable. As their hoofs are very broad and the body light, they are able to travel over the snow's crust without breaking in. They can carry a sled of 600 pounds from 50 to 90 miles a day, and it is found with relays at every 50 miles, the mails can be carried at the rate of 200 miles a day. If the mineral industry continues to grow 50,000 teams of reindeer would not supply the demand.

Finished Harvesting.
George Perringer has finished harvesting about 600 acres on the reservation. He used a Rigby-Clove combined harvester for the entire amount and threshed out the heaviest yield yet reported on 76 acres, this amount averaging more than 51 bushels.
