LOCAL WHEAT DROPS.

Farmers Confidently Expect 80 Cents for 1904 Crop, However.
The local wheat market has been on a steady decline for the past two days and is quoted today: Club, 67 cents and bluestem 73 1/2 cents. Yesterday and today about 15,000 sacks of grain were disposed of.
Many farmers are of the opinion that prices will again advance but the grainmen take a different view. A farmer remarked to E. W. McComas this afternoon:
"When are you going to give me 80 cents for my wheat?"
The reply was: "You will have to wait several weeks, I am afraid."
Old Soldier Wanted.
Mayor Matlock received a letter today from T. E. Miller, of McMinnville, inquiring about George Westfall, the old soldier who arrived here last week from Portland. It is alleged that the old man jumped his board bill and that the story of his having been robbed in Portland and that he walked to Pendleton, are mere dreams.

FASHION CHANGES

MRS. A. M. CLARK TELLS OF NEWEST STYLES WORN.

Business in the East is Treacherous—Stock of Cloaks, Suits and Millinery for Peoples Warehouse is Four Times as Large as Before Ordered—Cloak and Suit Styles Have Changed Since Spring—New Colors and Forms Have Been Introduced.

Mrs. Anna Clark was absent in the East 10 weeks, six weeks of which time was spent in New York City entirely in the interest of her department of the Peoples Warehouse, taking her pick of novelties in cloaks, suits and millinery, besides buying an unusually large stock of staples for the department. Altogether, she selected a stock about four times as large for this department as was ever purchased for it before, its aggregate value reaching nearly $20,000.
Four weeks Mrs. Clark spent in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and at her old home in New Hampshire, but she unreservedly admits that she is very glad to return and that homesickness did not leave her until she stepped off the depot platform at Pendleton. The weather for the most part in the East was simply beastly, being mostly a succession of rain and electrical storms extremely disagreeable to be out in.
Business conditions in the East are treacherous and dull—weighed down by the strikes and the unusual uncertainties of a presidential election year. Business men know all about the more prosperous conditions prevailing in the Northwest, and the announcement that a buyer is from this region brings them almost falling over each other in their anxiety to show samples and quote the lowest rates accorded buyers from any section of the United States.
Styles Change Often.
Mrs. Clark calls attention to the fact that the styles in suits and cloaks have entirely changed from those shown by the traveling men in the early spring. The most decided and fashionable style is a tourist and butcher coat—a loose-backed garment with a strap.
The most popular and ultra-fashionable shades in millinery will be emerald green and burnt orange, while the colorings for tailor-made suits come largely in browns, blues and fine mannish mixtures, which shades are also shown in the tourist and butcher coats.
The "opening," about September 1, will be a treat to all observant ladies who appreciate the evolution of styles. Mrs. Clark will put on display many imported models in suits, cloaks and exclusive pattern hats. "The latest and the prettiest from the metropolitan markets," is this year's motto in the cloak and suit and millinery department of the Peoples Warehouse.

Bought One Carload.
J. C. Lonergan has succeeded in selecting from almost 400 head of beef cattle put upon the market at Hilgard, just one carload fit for shipment. The owners of the remainder are at liberty to take them back into the brush and go to feeding. It is believed the market will lift in ample time to afford opportunity for something worth while on these animals by the time they are ready for the shambles.

Heavy rains in Montana have put out the terrible forest fires and helped the ranges considerably.
