Farm Hands to Palouse.

The employment agencies report that the supply of laborers for the farms is now about equal to the demand. The demand is continuous for the harvest fields because so many men are breaking away and going to the Palouse country, where harvest is only now beginning. They are after several weeks steady work, and to secure it are jumping their jobs here before the farmers can well spare them. There is a demand setting in now for farm hands on year contracts at $30 per month straight and everything found.
