JAPANESE EDUCATION.

Little Empire Pays Out Three Times as Much as Russia for Schools.
In 1890, according to Mulhall, the Russians were the most illiterate people in Europe, 85 per cent of the population being unable to read or write. The illiteracy in the other nations of Europe are as follows: Spain, 72 per cent; Italy, 53; Austria, 45; Ireland, 23; Belgium, 20; France, 14; Netherlands, 14; England, 9; Germany, 4. Japan pays out three times as much per capita as Russia for education, and has a compulsory education law requiring children between the ages of 6 and 14 to attend schools. Last year nearly 5,000,000 children were in attendance in the public schools. The government maintains 54 normal schools for the education of teachers, which have 1000 instructors and nearly 1800 students. France attributed her overwhelming defeat in the seven months' war with Germany in 1870 to the superiority of the German public school, and France has been expending vast sums of money on her schools and is now almost up to the standard of Germany.

TOBACCO CONSUMPTION.

Remarkable Statistics Showing Volume of That Business.
It is shown by the internal revenue statistics relating to tobacco, in that industry there is prosperity of a high order. During the fiscal year closed June 30 last, the revenue from $6,707,471, 863 cigars was $20,122,415.59, which is a falling in revenue of $236,756.01 and a decline in cigar production for the year of 78,918,679 cigars. In chewing and smoking tobacco there was, however, a tremendous increase. These two forms of "the filthy weed" yielded a revenue of $19,712,042.61 which was an increase of $1,077,799.92 in one year. The quantity produced was 328,650, 710 pounds, which was an increase of nearly 18,000,000 pounds in a 12-month. There is a notable increase in the production of little cigars, and the cigarettes manufactured numbered 3,226,682,261, or an increase of 194,788,529.

Stock Water Drying Up.

E. M. Warren, who was over from his Coburg farm today, informed the Guard that the small creeks and water holes which have furnished water for many years, are all drying up, something never before known by the oldest inhabitant. The swales and sloughs which are full of water all winter, but which partially dry up every summer, leaving numerous ponds during the entire dry season, have completely dried up this summer and the farmers are being compelled to pasture their stock elsewhere or dig wells in their fields. The exceedingly dry weather which has prevailed since last May is responsible for this shortage of water.—Eugene Guard.

Got Him Killed at Last.

Gen. A. R. Chaffee, at a soldiers' banquet, told about a quartermaster, who entered on the books of his company, at the close of a certain battle: "John Smith, killed July 7," etc. But a day or two later it turned out that John Smith had not been killed after all. He had only been wounded. The quartermaster, on receipt of this news, wrote under the first entry: "Killed by mistake." Finally, though, there came a bulletin announcing the death of Smith in the hospital. This fact the quartermaster recorded as follows: "Rekilled by order."

According to a German statistician there are 620,955 miles of railway in the world, of which the North American continent has 233,186 miles, the mileage of the United States alone being about 207,000, or 40 per cent of the entire mileage of the globe.

A Well-Dressed Man

IT IS FAIR TO ASSUME THAT YOU WANT TO BE WELL DRESSED; MOST MEN DO. WELL DRESSED MEANS: TO WEAR CLOTHES THAT ARE CORRECT IN STYLE; THAT FIT; THAT ARE MADE OF GOOD MATERIALS, AND TAILORED IN SUCH A WAY AS TO KEEP THEIR SHAPE WHILE YOU WEAR THEM. THAT'S ALL IT DOES MEAN, NO MATTER WHAT THEY COST; NO MATTER WHO MAKES THEM; IF YOUR CLOTHES DON'T MEET THOSE REQUIREMENTS, YOU'RE NOT WELL DRESSED. OUR FALL STOCK IS NOW HERE FOR YOUR INSPECTION.

IN FAR-AWAY NOME

HOW THEY LIVE IN THAT DISTANT CORNER.

Frank W. Swanton, Postmaster of the Northern City, Speaks of Conditions to Portland Paper—Nome Has a Summer Population of 12,000, While But 3000 Remain in During the Winter.

"People generally have an entirely erroneous impression of the way we live in Nome," said Frank W. Swanton, postmaster of the Alaskan city, who with his wife is visiting J. F. Compton, 694 East Alder street. "We have electric lights, steam heat and all the other accommodations in our homes that you have down here in the states," says the Oregon Daily Journal.

Mr. Swanton has been in Alaska for five years, and declares that he will remain for several years more. There are many other cities in the world, he says, that are far less desirable than the Alaskan town.

"The place is, of course, nothing but a mining camp, and the ground is frozen too long to permit the erection of substantial buildings, but we are just as comfortable and convenient as they are in any other place. A number of rich men proposed a short time ago to erect a big, fireproof building in the center of the city, but the engineers proved that it could not be done successfully. Accordingly the idea was abandoned."

Nome, says Mr. Swanton, has a winter population of only 3000 or 4000, but during the summer months there are between 10,000 and 12,000. There are many tourists, and this traffic is constantly growing.

"We have a great many tourists," he said, "and the number is increasing. There is always cold there, and in the summer many people make the trip. The big transportation companies are encouraging the business and people from all over the country are beginning to make the trip."

Dog teams are used in transferring mails from Nome to Skagway, a distance of 2000 miles. The teams with the mail leave the two places on the first of November and reach their destination the first of January.

"There is great excitement when the mail comes in," Mr. Swanton said. "People will wait up all night to receive letters from home when the announcement is made that the teams are expected to arrive at a certain time. What we regarded as quite a feat was accomplished a short time ago when I mailed a message to Washington City and received a reply in four days. The message, of course, was sent a part of the distance by telegraph."

"Conditions will be better, however, in the future. The government will have the telegraph line completed by that time and we will be in more direct communication with the outside world."

It is the first time Mr. Swanton has been "on the outside" since he first went to Alaska. He received permission from the government officials, and is visiting in this city during his vacation.
