MORE EDUCATION

PENDLETON GRADUATES WILL ATTEND COLLEGE.

Most of 1904 Graduating Class of the High School Will Go to Some Higher Institution This Year—Chloe Stanfield to Whitman—Bertha Alexander to St. Helen's, Dell McCarty and Fred Hartman to Eugene, James Reeves, Se Williams, Myrtle Disney and Nell Jay to Pullman.

The class which graduated last spring from the Pendleton high school seems to have been composed of as ambitious and aspiring young people as perhaps any class of equal size that ever left the Pendleton schools or any other high school in the state. Every member has an abiding ambition to get a higher education, though not all can gratify their intentions this year, while others deem it best to take up business for a time, or for other reasons postpone active school work. The coming year will see the various members of the class disposed as follows:

Roy Alexander will put in his time the coming year in the Alexander Department Store, with a business career as his ultimate ambition, after a university training later on.

Will Wyrick's intention to attend a university the coming year has been temporarily frustrated by the accident which cost him the larger part of his left hand, and which upset many of his plans. However, he will continue his studies to some extent, and take a post graduate course under Prof. Conklin's direction.

Miss Chloe Stanfield will attend Whitman college.

Miss Bertha Alexander will attend St. Helen's Hall, at Portland—the famous ladies' seminary under the management of the state organization of the Episcopal church.

Dell McCarty will attend the State University at Eugene the coming year, with the intention of graduating. He will take the historic and economic course, in preparation for the study of law.

Fred Hartman will also attend the State University.

James Reeves, Se Williams, Myrtle Disney and Nell Jay will attend the Washington State Agricultural College at Pullman the coming year, where the Misses Disney and Jay will make a specialty of domestic science.

Fred Vincent will attend the Washington State University, at Seattle, and make a specialty of applied electric science.

Miss Ivy Kimbrell intends to take up an advanced course in drawing and music at a Portland institution exclusively devoted to those branches.

Ed Jay will spend the winter with the firm of Brock & McComas, and will probably follow pharmacy as a profession.

Sound business practice is as important, here, as the wealth of nature.
