PIONEER OF OREGON

M. M. OWEN IN PENDLETON 52 YEARS AGO.

Remembers an Indian Garden on Present Site of O. R. & N. Stockyards—Has Vivid Recollection of the Long Trip Across the Plains and Its Many Incidents.

An interesting old pioneer is M. M. Owens, father of A. J. Owens of South Thompson street. Mr. Owens, Sr., crossed the plains in 1852, and that fall—in early September, camped upon what is now a portion of the townsite of Pendleton.

Mr. Owens is one of the best preserved old gentlemen in the state. Though 82 years of age he is the equal, physically and mentally, of the average man 22 years younger. He recalls with great distinctness many events of the long journey from Macoupin county, Ill., which began the 28th day of March and ended October 4, in the Willamette valley.

Across the Plains.

The party when it left Illinois comprised probably 20 families, but it divided by agreement when the country occupied by the more hostile Indians was passed, and when the Blue mountains were reached and until the John Day river was reached it consisted of M. D. Gillam and family, M. M. Owens, his wife and one child, and Rev. Jesse Moreland and family—a total of 15 persons. Mr. Moreland was a Methodist minister and the father of the well known Judge Moreland of Portland, and was also a brother-in-law of Mr. Owens.

On the John Day river the Gillams left the two other families and deflected to the Columbia, reaching it at The Dalles, where they took a steamer for the remainder of the trip.

The little party consisting of the Owens and Morelands crossed the Cascades six miles south of Hood River, having followed the Barlow route. Mr. Owens remembers that the day the party struck the Cascades was very beautiful, but immediately it began to rain, and rained incessantly all through the Cascades. At no time, although once within six miles of it, did this party see the Columbia river.

Deaths on the Journey.

There were two deaths in the party between Illinois and the coast, one of which was the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owens. The child died after leaving St. Joseph, Mo., and before reaching the Platte river in Nebraska, and was buried a short distance from the trail.

The immigration to the coast was immense that year, to which was due the fact that scarcely any game was seen along the route, and also scarcely an Indian. The latter were afraid of the superior numbers of the immigrants and of the military, both of which were aggressively on the defensive all that season.

Mr. Owens recalls that although a large party of which he was a member divided twice—in the Platte country and again in Western Wyoming—that they reunited when the Snake river district was reached on account of the Indians therein being hostile but they were not molested.

Remembers Pendleton.

M. D. Gillam was elected captain of the reunited forces and remained in command until the Blue mountains were reached, when a third division of the party took place, and the three families first mentioned wended their way early in September down from the mountains and reached the Umatilla river from a southeasterly direction, coming down off the bluffs by the old trail which followed practically the route now described by Thompson street, in this city.

Near the trail and under the bluff, close by where the O. R. & N. stockyards now are was an Indian garden, of about a quarter of an acre in extent.

The last permanent settlement of white people seen as the immigrants came westward was on the Platte, in Eastern Nebraska. From the Platte to the Willamette no white people were seen at any time except soldiers and other immigrants. One exception to this was at La Grande, where an immigrant, finding that he carried a stock of provisions and perhaps other goods in excess of his own needs, set up a temporary store to dispose of the stuff to other immigrants who were more needy.

Mr. Owens lived in Clackamas county 28 years, then moved to Portland, where he has resided for the balance of the 52 years he has lived in Oregon.

New Jersey Democrats.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 15.—The democratic state convention was called to order here at noon today by William B. Gourley, chairman of the state committee. The convention will name a candidate for governor and presidential electors. The preponderance of sentiment appears to favor Charles S. Black, of Jersey City, for the gubernatorial nomination. Black is the choice of former Senator Smith, Jr., and his nomination appears probable.

Addresses on Finance.

New York, Sept. 15.—The sessions of this, the second day of the American Bankers' Association convention, opened with prayer by Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, of St. Patrick's cathedral. After an hour or so spent in informal discussion of practical banking questions the convention listened to addresses as follows: "The Western Banker," W. C. Robinson, Westfield, Kan.; "Emergency Circulation," A. J. Frame, Waukesha, Wis.; "Banks and Trust Companies," Eugene E. Prussig, Chicago. The convention will end tomorrow.

Rockefeller received $1,950,000.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. F. W. Schmidt & Co., special agents.

PORT WINE TONIC

Port Wine—Iron and Oregon Grape Root.

The demand for a gentle and effective tonic to stimulate and recuperate the debilitated system, has induced THE OREGON WINE & LIQUOR CO. to place on the market THE PORT WINE TONIC, assuring their patrons that it will speedily tone up the system of persons suffering from all forms of indigestion, dyspepsia, Nervous Debility or Malarial complaints to which people of all parts of the country are subjected. It contains no poisonous ingredients and can be taken by the weakest persons with the best results. As a strengthening tonic and appetizer it has no equal.

Prepared with the greatest care. The principal parts are composed of Selected Oregon Grape Root, Iron and our Famous Cucumonga (14-year-old) Port.

Port Wine is acknowledged by physicians today to be more strengthening than meat. Oregon Grape Root is noted for its blood-giving and purifying qualities, while the iron rebuilds and tones up the entire system. The result is a remedy unequalled for general medicinal purposes and a beverage pleasing to the taste.

Prepared and bottled under our personal supervision and guaranteed exactly as represented.

Ask your druggist or grocer for it, and take no other.

DIRECTIONS—From three to four wine glasses each day.

In Jugs Only—Full quarts, 75c; Half gallon, $1.25; Gallon, $2.25.
