IN A BAD WAY.

Many a Pendleton Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak or aching; When urinary troubles set in; Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Here's local evidence to prove it: Mrs. G. W. Brown, who lives at the corner of Turner and B. Streets, says: "I was unable to stoop without suffering the most intense pain across the small of my back and through my kidneys. I got my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Brock & McComas drug store. I was so sore and lame that I could not stoop at the sink to wash. Doan's Kidney Pills did away with the trouble. If I did not honestly think that Doan's Kidney Pills acted up to the representations made by them I would not set my name to an endorsement. I know others who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with the same satisfaction."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

POPULATION GROWS

OVER THIRTEEN PER CENT IN FOUR YEARS.

Every County in Oregon Shows an Increase—Umatilla County Now Has Nineteen Thousand Five Hundred—Statistics Compiled by Labor Commissioner Hoff—How Increase Was Ascertained.

State Labor Commissioner G. P. Hoff has compiled a table of the population of Oregon, giving the increase in each county from 1900 to 1904. His census shows that an increase of 13 per cent has been enjoyed by the state since 1900.

In 1900 the population of the state was 412,528, and, according to Commissioner Hoff, it is now 470,924, an increase of 14,396.

Umatilla county is credited with but 19,501 people, while the census of 1900 gave her 18,049. This is considered to be a low estimate of this county's population, as the voting strength and school population show that there are not less than 22,000 people in the county.

Among the counties showing a decrease in population since 1900, are Curry, Gilliam, Harney, Lake, Lincoln, Linn and Marion.

The table showing the population of the several counties of the state and the total of the state follows:

| County. | 1900. | 1904. |

IN GRIP OF TRUST.

Seattle Stockman Says Cattle Buyers Are in a Pool.

The ranchers of Western Washington are thoroughly aroused over the treatment they are receiving from the local meat trust, says the Seattle Star. They say it is worse than useless to ship their stock to Seattle, as their cattle is not looked upon with such favor as cattle brought here from points east of the Cascades. George W. Lawrence of Eva, Clallam county, has had several experiences that satisfy him that his product is not wanted in the local market.

Lawrence raises a great number of fine beef cattle yearly. He wants a market, but cannot find it here. He believes that Seattle should be a good market and the people of this section would be willing to eat home-raised meat, if the trust would allow it. But when he presents the subject of prices to the local slaughter houses, he is met with the statement that Washington beef is not so good as that from the East.

BLOW AIMED AT PORTLAND.

California Capital Seeks to Capture Trade of Central Oregon.

The Corvallis & Eastern, a railroad that has had the most checkered career of all Oregon roads, is the subject of negotiations between its present head, A. B. Hammond, and California capitalists, says the Oregon Daily Journal.

The Californians have a plan to extend the road across Haystack pass in the Cascades, and through the country watered by the head streams of the Deschutes river, then make a long curve southeasterly through the Harney county lake country, their ultimate goal being a connection with the Short Line at Ontario.

A road in which they are now interested is being built northward through Northern California and is nearly to the Oregon state line. This road would be extended in a northwesterly direction to connect with the projected Corvallis line at a point in Harney county.

All this region is now for hundreds of miles without transportation facilities. It contains hundreds of thousands of acres of alluvial soil that will be vastly productive as soon as irrigation reaches it. It has the greatest timber wealth of the entire Northwest, and it is certain to attract railway builders from some quarter within the next decade.

The scheme of the Californians has for its central object the capture of this territory and the drawing of its products and trade to San Francisco. Should the project succeed it would be a blow to Portland.

ORIGIN OF THE TIBETANS.

Legend Ascribes It to a Monkey and a Female Demon.

"Speaking of Tibet I am reminded of one of the curious legends of that country," said a man who likes old stories, "and while I do not vouch for it, you can have it for what it is worth. It is one of the many legends of that Middle Asiatic country, Tibet was originally inhabited by wild animals and demons. At a certain period God sent there the king of the monkeys who led the life of a hermit; his exclusive occupation was the performance of religious duties, and he was absorbed in the pursuit of knowledge of non-entity. When he was just on the point of obtaining the object of his mission he was disturbed in his contemplations by the visit of a female Maggus. The Maggus, ugly demons, can adopt any figure they please. One assumed the form of a beautiful creature and proposed to the king of monkeys to marry her. He at first alleged his monastic duties, but at last he married her, and their descendants are the people of Tibet. They believe in metempsychosis and are proud of their descent from a monkey, because he is one of the most cunning of animals. The first human king was by name Seger-Sandhitu-Khaghan-Tul-Essen, whose youth resembles that of Moses, for he was exposed by his father and afterward found in a copper box swimming on the River Ganga."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TO BUY FAIR SITE.

Mayor Williams Thinks State Should Present Grounds to Portland.

To buy the Lewis and Clark fair grounds, together with many of the improvements, and make it a permanent addition to the City park, is a proposition that is suggested by Mayor Williams. It is his opinion that the addition to the grounds and much of the display would make the Portland City park equal to anything of its kind in the West, says the Telegram.

"Everybody who visits the grounds" said the mayor this morning, "is delighted with their beauty. When Secretary Shaw saw them recently he was not slow in expressing his pleasure, and the same impressions have been made on nearly all the visitors who have seen them."

"The site could be bought by funds obtained by issuing bonds to be paid in about 12 years. That could be done with ease, and would not be a hardship on the city. We need such an addition to our park and we will never have another opportunity like that of next year to get it."

"It is possible, too, that the next legislature can be induced to buy the grounds and present them to the city. I have talked with many people in regard to the matter, and it seems that everyone is in favor of obtaining the grounds. The sentiment is so strong in the matter that I am quite sure an effort will be made to buy the site for the city or give the city permission to purchase it by the sale of bonds."

German Editors in Session.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 15.—The National Federation of German-American Journalists began its annual convention in Milwaukee today. Members are in attendance from Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and a number of other cities. The Wisconsin association of German editors is holding a meeting in conjunction with the convention of the national organization.

CO-OPERATION IN IRRIGATION

MONTANA SETTLEMENT THAT IS UNIQUE.

Sixty 160-Acre Farms Reclaimed by a Colony of People Who Now Own Land With Perpetual Water Right to Make Them Independently Rich—Water Insures a Crop Every Year.

Hinsdale, Mont., Sept. 15.—Eastern farmers would have their eyes opened as to the value of the water running through their farms if they could see the irrigation development in the Milk River valley, and how easy it is to construct small irrigation systems. An irrigation canal has just been completed at Hinsdale—the Rock Creek canal—which will water 50 160-acre farms. Every particle of the work has been done by the owners of these farms. Each man's work and team has been credited against the cost of the construction, and the actual cash outlay has been less than $1 per acre.

The total cost of building the dam, the main canal and the lateral ditches and actually getting the water onto the land, is about $5 per acre. This is an extremely favorable condition and the men who have gone into this undertaking are fortunate. They now have land with a perpetual water right, which is the safest security for a mortgage of any property in the world.

The crops are assured and the homestead will produce $1500 a year, above all expenses and being, as surely as though it were a sub-station of the government with that salary attached.

Better than that, it will produce, with intelligent handling by some of the owners, $2000 or $2500 for agriculture in this entire Northwest is but just emerging from a state of comparatively crude farming.

Here is a total annual farm production of $629,700 from land which until now has produced at the most not to exceed 250 head of cattle.

And this is a very conservative basis of what can be expected during the early years of the community before the raising of such intensive crops as berries, fruit orchards, melons, sugar beets, etc., are engaged in, when the income will be far greater.

The solid and substantial edifice upon which this irrigation colony is planted is crop insurance. The ditches are the insurance. The premium which they cost is slight—only a few cents per acre for maintenance and the results are made certain by them.
