NEW ARMY RIFLE

MODEL FOR THE UNITED STATES IS GOOD.

More Rapid Fire. Greater Accuracy and More Simple Arrangement—40,000 Have Been Issued. 100,000 Will Be Distributed—Pressure About 49,000 Pounds Per Square Inch—Bullet Driven 54 Inches Into White Pine.

Ordnance experts of the United States army, after months of work, have succeeded in constructing a magazine rifle which is believed to be superior to any in use in foreign armies at this time.

Every government arsenal in the United States with the necessary facilities is working night and day turning out the new arm, and 49,000 of them have already been completed.

None will be issued to the troops of the regular establishment, however, until 100,000—the number requisite to supply the maximum strength of the army on a war footing—have been completed. At the present rate of progress this will be about December 1.

The rifle which has been in use since the Spanish-American war will be returned to the arsenals, and later released to the various militia organizations now armed with the ancient Springfield rifle, which is regarded as almost as obsolete as the old flintlock or percussion cap guns.

The caliber of the new rifle is smaller than that now in use, being about .29, while the initial velocity and penetrating power are both greater. The new rifle is also several inches shorter than the old arm.

The ejecting projects downward in the new arm, and the magazine has a capacity of five cartridges and can be filled with ease and rapidity. The gun, fully assembled, weighs a trifling more than eight pounds, and is exceptionally well balanced, making ease of discharge and accuracy of aim a feature of importance.

Some idea of the efficiency of the new arm can be gained when it is known that 23 aimed shots have been fired in one minute with the rifle used as a single loader, and 25 shots in the same time using magazine fire. Firing from the hip without aim, 27 shots have been fired in one minute using the rifle as a single loader, and 35 shots in one minute from the magazine.

With an ordinary service charge the pressure in the rifle chamber is about 49,000 pounds per square inch, and maximum energy of the recoil is 18.98 feet pounds, and the maximum effective fighting range is 4,781 yards. The exceptional penetrating powers of the rifle were illustrated in a test held some time ago.

With a full service charge the rifle, fired at a distance of 50 feet, drove its missile 54.5 inches into white pine butts and penetrated a steel plate nearly one-half an inch thick.

The bullet which will be used in the arm has a core of lead and tin composition in a jacket of cupronickel, and when fired with a service charge has a muzzle velocity of 2300 feet a second.

CRAZY MAN AT LARGE.

J. S. Nesbith of Avon, Idaho, in the Woods With Dogs and Rifle.

A special from Moscow to the Oregon Daily Journal says: Sheriff J. J. Keane tonight received a message from Avon postoffice, located about 29 or 40 miles from Moscow, asking that assistance be sent to capture J. S. Nesbith.

From such information as the sheriff's office is able to obtain, it appears that Nesbith, who resides in the Avon neighborhood, left his home Saturday morning with his Winchester and two dogs. When he left he acted queerly and it is feared he is either roaming about the country insane or has committed suicide. The entire neighborhood has been searching for him but without success and his son has offered a reward of $100 to the person who finds his father. Nesbith came to Latah county about a year and a half ago from North Dakota.

"For Her Sake."

Considering the equipment of the piece and the reputed merit of the play as a dramatic offering, the presentation of the new Russo-Siberian play, "For Her Sake," ought to meet with general favor from the patrons of the Fraser, where the new play is to be seen the evening of September 29. There are some intensely dramatic scenes in this play, one of them being a flogging scene, illustrative of the daily course of events in the convict mines of Siberia. The victim of the scourge is a mermaid maiden upon whom a Russian prince of the blood has centered his affections, and who has involved himself and her in a conspiracy, which has its termination and final happy conclusion in one of the czar's penal colonies. The company is a very large one, and is said to be unusually competent for the work it has in hand.

"A Texas Steer."

It is regarded as by far the best production from Hoyt's pen. "A Texas Steer" is a character who jumps from a Texas frontier town, with all its wild fun and peculiarities, to the national capital, the funny and amusing side of both localities being mirrored, it is said, with great accuracy. Many well-tempered shafts are hurled at political shams and absurdities. This clever comedy comes to the Fraser next Tuesday, September 29.

At any rate the meteorite that plunged through a Paducah (Ky.) lumber pile found "good country board."

GOOD WORK.

Daily in Pendleton—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Every reader has heard of the Kidney Pills. Their good effects in Pendleton are constantly adding instances by public testimony. No proof of merit can be had from the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

W. W. Healy, expressman, 17-18 West Tenth street, corner 17th street, and well known to the residents of Pendleton, says: "Four years ago, I have been afflicted with kidney disorders, caused by heavy lifting required in my occupation. The pain was such that I was unable to stoop or gain without pain and effort. Kidney secretions were irregularly at night and caused me annoyance. When I first heard of the Kidney Pills, I decided to get a box at Brock & Co.'s drug store. They have relieved me to a very great extent, both the backache and the urinary troubles, and I have the greatest confidence in them."
