CROWN KING PETER

KING DE JURE BECOMES ACTUAL KING OF SERBIA.

Event Celebrated in the Characteristic Servian Manner, and Under the Auspices of the Established Catholic Church—Will Be Formally Inducted Into Office at High Noon—General Festivities Will Continue During Entire Week.

Vienna, Sept. 20.—Adispatch from Belgrade says: The Servian capital is en fete for the coronation of King Peter tomorrow. The decorations are now practically complete, and, in addition to the route which the coronation procession will follow tomorrow, many other streets have been profusely adorned with flags and bunting. The facades of many houses are almost hidden by long stretches of red, blue and white cloth and their occupants have hung multi-colored tapestries—many of them beautifully embroidered—and other such objects from the windows and balconies. The national colors everywhere predominate.

There are many country folk in town, and picturesque groups of peasants are parading the streets. The men are in quaint costumes—embroidered waistcoats and knee breeches adorned with big silver buttons. The women are dressed in the brightest colors with embroidered shawls on their heads or flowers intertwined in their hair.

The coronation program is to be formally inaugurated tonight, when Gen. Savah Gratch, the premier, preceded by all the members of the cabinet, will bear the crown in state to the cathedral, where it will be received by the metropolitan archbishop in full canonicals and placed on the altar. He will then conduct an elaborate service, which will be duplicated in all the churches of Servia.

The program for tomorrow will begin at daybreak with a salute of 101 guns fired from the Belgrade fortress. At noon precisely, King Peter will leave the palace and proceed to the cathedral. The entire route will be lined with troops, while the king will be under the personal escort of his Swiss guards. The ceremonies at the cathedral will occupy about two hours and will be of a most elaborate character. The festivities attending the coronation will continue through Thursday and Friday and will include a review of the troops, gala performances at the theater and numerous features of outdoor entertainment.
