FISH HATCHERY ON THE WALLOWA

OREGON ASKED TO ESTABLISH NEW PLANT.

Fish Warden Van Dusen Would Start a Large Hatchery in Wallowa Canyon Where Irrigation Could Not Interfere With the Stream—Had Looked With Favor on Umatilla River, But Irrigation Rights Would Interfere With Project.

At the coming session of the Oregon legislature, Fish Warden Van Dusen will ask for an appropriation for a new fish hatchery, on the Wallowa river, about five miles below the wagon bridge, on the main Wallowa road from Elgin.

The site to be selected for the hatchery is one of the most ideal spots for such a plant in the West and the rugged character of the country precludes the possibility of settlement in the vicinity, and thus there is no danger of the hatchery being hampered by irrigation, ditches above, nor from an interference with its use of the water from settlers below.

The first requirement for a successful hatchery is a stream of clear water in which a storage area, for keeping the fish until the spawning season can be obtained and the Wallowa canyon affords such a stream. It is the intention of Mr. Van Dusen, if the legislature authorizes the hatchery, to make it a trout and salmon hatchery, from which all of Eastern Oregon can be supplied with all varieties of game fish.

While Mr. Van Dusen had looked with favor upon the Upper Umatilla river as a suitable location for a hatchery, after investigation he has found that the water rights of irrigators will interfere too much with the flow of the stream and may cause disastrous results to the hatchery, as the irrigated area of the tributary country increases.

For this reason he will ask for a reservation on the Wallowa river, and hopes to secure sufficient aid from the legislature to enable him to carry out the project.

The other hatcheries of the state are all in a highly prosperous condition, and the demand for fish to restock the streams after the constant depletion of the stock by fishermen, is now taxing the capacity of all the hatcheries in the state.

CANADIAN WHEAT CROP.

Alarming Reports From Northwest Are Said to Be Unfounded.

Consul General Holloway writes as follows to the department of commerce and labor on the wheat crop of Manitoba and the Northwest territory:

Telegrams from Winnipeg state that during the last week several representatives of American companies have been in Manitoba, and have succeeded in causing a good deal of uneasiness among the farmers and grain traders.

Samples of grain pulled in the fields in nearly every district in the Northwest have been received at the Winnipeg grain exchange. A few show signs of rust, but most of the samples indicate that the grain is in healthy condition.

The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company has just received replies by wire from 70 of its 95 elevators in Manitoba and the Northwest territories, giving the condition of the wheat crop to date. Particular attention was called to damage from rust. These replies are on the whole very reassuring. Of the 70 stations heard from, 39 report no damage at all, 16 report only slight damage, and 15 report damage all the from 15 to 30 per cent. The districts most affected are located on the Souris branch and the western half of the Delorane branch, where the crop is heaviest.

Taken as a whole, these reports indicate an average damage of under 10 per cent in Manitoba, and practically none in the territories. The average yield from these stations is 19 bushels to the acre and the average date of general harvesting is August 27, assuming favorable weather. There are under crop approximately 3,500,000 acres, so that the total yield is estimated at about 65,000,000 bushels. This is the estimate made about a week ago by the Bankers' Association.

BIG WAR POSTAL CARD.

How All Jap Soldiers Send Word to Their Anxious Friends.

The Japanese government has found a novel and excellent use for post cards.

Realizing that, for various reasons, the soldiers on campaign may not have leisure or opportunity to write home to his family, the military authorities have supplied to each army a sufficient number of post cards ready printed, to which the soldier has only to affix his name, or more exactly, his seal, each Japanese soldier carrying one with him as part of his outfit.

On all cards the same message is printed: "This is to let you know that I am alive and well. I cannot give you my address, not knowing where I shall be tomorrow; but your letters reach me some time or other if you reply to the place the name of which is printed in the postmark. Greetings to my family and friends."

This is an idea which might well be copied by other nations. At once practical and humane, it would cost little and save many thousands of people from unnecessary anxiety and pain.

SOLIDIFIED HONEY.

W. H. Pennington of Ontario, Shipped Carload to Portland.

W. H. Pennington of Ontario, who took the first prize on comb and first prize on strained honey at the irrigation convention just held at Ontario, has invented a new formula for preserving honey in a solidified form, so it can be enclosed in an oiled paper sack, to prevent it sticking to the paper, and kept in any quantity through the warmest weather.

He had several displays of honey in this form on exhibition at the convention and has just sold a carload of it to a Portland firm of wholesale grocers.

The greatest difficulty with marketing honey in cans and jars is that it candies and cannot be poured out without melting.

In this solidified form it can be cut off in slices like butter, and the difficulty of honey cans is done away with.

Mr. Pennington will make a specialty of this form of honey after this.

He is the most extensive honey and bee grower in the state.
