TWO PHILOSOPHIES.

A woman wrote for a magazine the following sentiment: 'Here's to the noblest—thankful hearts that take the bread of pain, the bitter cup of woe, and dare to feel content for old joy's sake. Among the thorns where roses used to blow.' Another woman wrote a rejoinder: 'Here's to the noblest—valiant hands that take the bread of pain, the bitter cup of woe, and thrust them back into the dark and make another garden where new roses bloom.' —San Francisco Star.

The man who said "figures won't lie," lived before the day of tabulated advance election returns.

Football, mince pie and cranberry sauce have arrived on the scene simultaneously. The turkey is coming. Times must be unusually dull at Baker City. A paper railroad has not been built into the Seven Devils for six weeks.

If you are a property owner and are interested in good government, and good moral conditions, don't fail to attend the meeting of the Citizen's League tonight.

Special Agent Green, of the land office department, says he has the land frauds all cornered in this state. This sounds well on paper, but the settlers out on the creeks and foothills doubt it.

Several states are to be auctioned off to the contesting parties. The electoral vote will go to the one sending in the biggest campaign fund. Clean politics exist only in the minds of beautiful old women and in magazine articles. Everything is dirty in the campaign.

No wonder the thinking world revolts at George Meredith's suggestion of a temporary marriage. On the Pacific Coast can yet be traced the cancerous roots of California's contract marriage system. Fully three-fourths of the crime of California in the past 20 years can be traced to the contract marriage. Young women were made the prey of fiends, who deserted them at the end of the infamous contract. Children grew to manhood and womanhood with the bitterest hatred for the deserting father implanted in their hearts. Women murdered and committed suicide and the prisons and asylums were filled with the sad tragedies of the contract marriage. Meredith is crazy. He should be denied a wife on any kind of terms. He isn't a safe husband.

Through the confession of a young man who recently forged a farmer's name to a check in this city, it has been learned how many of the minor forgeries that harass the business world originate. A young fellow of this vicinity who had worked in the harvest, came to town and spent his money with the tin horns that lie in wait for such chances and when he had no more money and was in debt at the joint he visited, it was suggested that he write a check for the amount of his debt. He was told by a "bouncer" who had him in charge, that it would be all right. No one would ever know who wrote the check and it was perfectly safe. With the aid of the "bouncer" the ignorant boy forged the name of the farmer, the check was cashed out in town, the joint received its pay and the boy must stand the consequences. Very few men will voluntarily forge a name to a check for a small amount of money, if they are not unduly influenced. It is the white shirt hobo who is back of the crime.

PENDELTON IS RESPONSIBLE.

Beginning tomorrow the Daily East Oregonian will run a colored supplement of four pages, with each Saturday edition of the paper. Pendleton business men and Pendleton institutions, by their continued increasing patronage, have made it possible to reach this standard.

In tomorrow's 16-page edition of the East Oregonian will be almost 1000 inches of display advertising. In the 10-page edition of today are over 800 inches, and every inch of this advertising contains a business bargain for readers of the papers.

The increased size and wider scope of the East Oregonian is founded upon a permanent and highly appreciated business patronage. If such heavy advertising did not mean something, it did not contain a message, this 800 and 1000 inches of space would not be used. And if the paper did not go into almost every home in the city, it could not afford to make these continued improvements and incur these continuous heavy expenses.

In canvassing for new subscribers to the paper, the solicitor finds entire streets in which the Daily East Oregonian goes into every home. Out of 29 blocks in the residence district north of the river, 94 per cent of the homes are visited by the East Oregonian. This record enables the paper to give its readers additional features and bring its advertisers increased returns.

The circulation in the outside towns has been increased about 80 per cent in the past two weeks, giving Pendleton business houses access to the greatest possible number of out-of-town people.

The promise is repeated that as the business of the paper increases, the increasing profits will be expended in better facilities for collecting and printing the news. A new linotype and a new $5000 press are among the immediate needs of the paper if the present phenomenal business continues.

The East Oregonian intends to ever be, as it has been in the past, the fearless champion of the people's rights and the leading news medium in Eastern Oregon.

FLEES FROM UTAH.

Rather than answer the charges that his paper had been subsidized by Mormon church influences, Judge C. C. Goodwin of Salt Lake City, who has spent the greater part of his life denouncing the Mormon influence in Utah, has fled the state and is now editorial writer on the Helena, Mont., Record. Judge Goodwin left Salt Lake 10 days before his absence was discovered. "Goodwin's Weekly" was founded shortly after Judge Goodwin's retirement from the editorial management of the Salt Lake Tribune. In the weekly he continued his policy of fighting the Mormons. His son was business manager. At the recent republican convention Senator-Apostle Smoot is said to have caused the nomination of J. C. Cutler for governor. His other candidates also were nominated. It was openly charged that his influence as an apostle in the Mormon church was the real cause of his success in politics.

The Tribune, the official organ of the republican party in Utah, immediately bolted the Smoot nominees and announced its antagonism to the ticket. In order to gain newspaper support the Smoot people obtained the support of Goodwin's Weekly, and Truth, another weekly published in Salt Lake. The manner in which their support was enlisted was questioned. Immediately Judge Goodwin left the city, where he has fought for years against church influence in politics. He went to Helena, where he is now an editorial writer. Judge Goodwin is well known in Portland.—Oregon Daily Journal.

ARCHBISHOP'S SALARY.

The salary of the archbishop of Canterbury is $75,000 per year. According to the Post-Express writer, this salary is derived from the treasury of the church, the income of which is estimated at $40,000,000.

The archbishop's official residence is at "Lambeth Place," which is situated on the banks of the Thames almost opposite the houses of parliament at Winchester. The Post-Express writer adds: "In this palace, the archbishop entertains in great state during the London season. Dr. Davidson is described as a plain looking man, neither decorative nor impressive. He is said to have a keen sense of humor, and, like all men of humor, he is exceptionally broad-minded, which is shown by his intimate friendship with the clergy of different religious denominations.

The archbishop of Canterbury enjoys many prerogatives. The most important is that of heading the commission of dignitaries of the real who form a council of regency in the event of an interregnum. The last occasion on which the primate of all England was called upon to fill this office was on the death of Queen Anne. Several days elapsed before her successor, George I. reached England from Hanover.

The archbishop also enjoys the privilege of ranking next to royalty, and on all state occasions he takes precedence over all others in the king's domain. Curiously enough, the wife of the archbishop of Canterbury has no official rank whatever, and is addressed the same as any lady in private life.

ASPIRATION.

Oh, let the past go by! With its folly and its pain, It was heaven's test to try. If our spirit might attain, For its love shall e'er endure, And its faith inspire still, And its hopes be symbol sure Of the hope that shall fulfill.

Oh, let the past go by! We have shrouned all its sin In the deeps where memories lie— Let us higher levels win! From the valley of our tears, Lo, the beckoning hills arise: And the altar of the years Wafts its incense to the skies. —Frances M. Milne in Club Life.

"TENTATIVE" MARRIAGE.

George Meredith's plea for the tentative marriage—for the contract which would legalize the union of man and woman for a definite period of time, "40 years, 40 hours or 40 minutes" as he puts it in the columns of London newspapers—has caused the uproar he predicted.

People of the British capital are already stirred and their condemnation of the novelist's scheme for optional wedlock is bringing out sharp criticism. In Chicago his remedy for unhappy marriages is called insane, absurd, impracticable, immoral and unwise. Men and women who were interviewed, as a rule, expressed disgust and ridiculed the suggestion, but when asked to consider it seriously to the sake of argument ventured their condemnation.—Chicago Record-Herald.

"CRIPPLING" THE NAVY.

"Would they cripple the navy?" plaintively ask the republican organs, referring to Judge Parker's stand for departmental economy and to democratic and independent comment thereon. Is it "crippling" merely to remark that the navy that whipped Spain cost $34,000,000 in 1897, while the navy that has no call to whip anything or anybody cost $102,000,000 in the last fiscal year, and has in July and August disbursed even last year's record by $7,000,000?—San Francisco Star.

A. R. Tuttle, editor of the Elgin Recorder died in St. Vincent's hospital in Portland Thursday morning, after a long illness with cancer. He was a native of Oregon and well known and respected.

TAINED BLOOD

Columbus, Ohio, May 19, 1903. Some four years ago I was suffering from impure blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing flesh, and had an all-gone tired feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking seven or eight bottles my skin was cleared of all eruptions and took on a ruddy, healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite I increased in weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again my old self. I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and strongly advise its use to all those in need of such medicine. VICTOR STRUBINS, Cor. Barthman and Washington Aves.

Wheeling, W. V., May 25, 1903. My system was run down and my joints ached and pained me considerably. I had used S. S. S. before and knew what it was, so I purchased a bottle of it and have taken several bottles and the aches and pains are gone, my blood has been cleared and my general health built up. I can testify to it as a blood purifier and tonic. 1533 Market St. JOHN C. STRIN.
