HEAVIEST TRAFFIC IN HISTORY OF O. R. & N.

About 1100 Cars Now Waiting Shipment on the System-Sidetracks Filled and Rolling Stock and Motive Power Taxed to the Limit-Crews Working Overtime and Engines Kept Moving Continuously--Men are Being Hired and Promoted and More Are Needed.

Three hundred cars standing in the O. R. & N. yards at Wallula, 300 at Umatilla and 500 in Portland and adjacent sidetracks, every freight crew on the road working more than full time, engines going night and day, four and five extra trains a day each way, and every car on the system in use, is part of the story of the rush of business on the O. R. & N. system. Never in the history of the road has business been so good as it is now, and never was the rolling stock and motive power taxed as it is now to handle the increasing traffic. Most of the traffic increase is in the shipment of wheat to the East, and the resumption of the large lumber mills has also added to the volume. It is said by trainmen on The Dalles-Umatilia division, that there is scarcely a sidetrack on the division at which trains can pass for the loaded cars standing on the tracks. The main yards at Umatilla are filled full of cars and the system is alive with trains from end to end.
