

LEEVE IS REPAIRED

IMPROVEMENTS WILL COST ABOUT $400.

Entire Levee Is Now in Condition to Resist a Record Breaking Flood—River Has Scoured Out a Channel Five Feet Deeper Than It Was When the Levee Was Built—No Fear Now for Damages to Face of the Wall.

Street Commissioner Brown reports that the outside coast of the repairs on the levee this year is an even $400 which amount includes the labor of himself and a deputy.

He states that he has left the levee with a base in some places four to five feet in thickness, rock being piled in its large quantities where the river showed a disposition to persist in its attacks on the levee. In all cases this rock is jilted from the bed rock.

The levee was originally built at varying heights above the bed rock, and in no case upon it. The erosion of the years since it was built has been persistently downward on the south side of the river, until in places the bed of the river has been scoured out four and five feet deeper than it was when the levee was built, and this has taken place in every instance immediately adjacent to the levee. Not in every case has the erosion reached the bed rock, but it has in many cases.

Mr. Brown believes that there is not the slightest danger to be apprehended in the future from the river wearing against the levee until it might give away from the weight of water. This danger has materially decreased as the depth of the river next to the levee increased, as every inch of added depth widens the foundation of the levee, or at least its ability to resist direct pressure. Only a flood of alarming and record-breaking proportions can now affect the levee laterally.

All the danger to be apprehended in the future, according to Mr. Brown, is in the levee being undermined; a danger illustrated by the progress made in that direction near the Failing property, and which has been referred to. And that danger will be averted wherever and as fast as bed rock is reached along the levee upon which to lay a mass of rock for an "underpinning" for the levee.

POLING PLACES.

Election Officers Appointed Last Spring Hold for Two Years.

Something more than four weeks yet remain before the voters of the United States of America assemble to ballot for a president and vice-president.

In some counties the officers who preside over elections are selected by the county courts or board of commissioners shortly before each election. In this county the court names these officials and selects the polling places every two years.

For the four precincts in the city of Pendleton the county court last spring selected the following voting places and officers:

Pendleton—Corner Garden and Webb streets; chairman, T. B. Swearingen; judges, S. A. Alloway, J. A. Horn; clerks, S. S. Darnell, C. H. Penland, J. E. Earl.

North Pendleton—Main and Water streets. Chairman, F. B. Clepton; judges, J. M. Bentley, W. S. Badley; clerks, C. H. Hamilton, Frank Frazier, Lee Moorhouse.

South Pendleton—Court house. Chairman, L. A. Vogel; judges, L. E. Penland, G. Neuman; clerks, J. R. Dickson, T. F. Howard, T. D. Yates.

East Pendleton—Garden and Railroad streets. Chairman, W. R. Withers; judges, William Hiltos, W. R. Hall; clerks, N. Berkeley, F. W. Hendley and J. P. Walker.

BURIAL OF JOSEPH

GREAT NEZ PERCE MUST SLEEP IN WALLOWA.

Dispute of His Kindred Over the Procedure to Be Followed is Causing Great Delay in the Final Ceremony—Prof. E. H. Meany of Washington, Offers to Defray Expenses and Bury the Remains in Wallowa.

"Seven rival kingdoms war o'er Homer, dead. While through the living, Homer begged his bread."

Although there are many reports coming in toward this silent camp of the Nez Percés, there is as yet, no definite word as to when the funeral and the great potluch will be held.

According to the information received at Neapelm through Indian sources there is likely to be a strong dispute over the place of the burial of Chief Joseph.

It was always the order of the dead type that his followers never rest until his bones were laid in the country that he claimed as his own, the Wallowa.

For this Joseph intrigued and worked. But for his death there is every reason to believe that a few months would have seen his life dream carried out, as it is understood the government had plans under way whereby allotments might be made for those Nez Percés who would return to Idaho as farmers.

But to this Joseph would not consent before his death and toward the end his one demand was for burial in the land where rest the bones of his father and mother and children.

The offer of Professor E. H. Meany of the State Historical Society of Washington, to secure the consent of the government to bury the dead type in the Wallowa country and to personally raise the funds to defray the expense, has already caused a dissension among the immediate followers of Joseph.

There are but few of the Indians who followed Joseph into the Colville reservation as prisoners of war who will consent at this time to the burial of their type in Idaho. The reason given for this is that the bitterest enemies of the dead warrior live in that country and the Indians fear his bones will not be allowed to remain there.

Owing to the condition of the corpse, which is merely enclosed in a pine box, weighted with boards and stones and covered with sand to protect it from the coyotes, which roam the hills on which the present burial ground is located, no railroad company would accept it for shipment.

For this reason it would be necessary to take the chief overland on a march something over 150 miles. Should this be done a guard of honor consisting of every Nez Perce brave, Kluchman and wapoose on the reservation would follow the great type.

Among the Indians from outside the agency to arrive is Oileut, son of Looking Glass and a nephew of Chief Joseph. Credited as he is with being the son of the real commander of the Nez Percés during the war, his sword will have great weight, particularly with those of the Nez Percés who in Idaho, have taken up farming and are growing wealthy.

Oileut lives on the Flathead reservation near Arise, Mont., and is one of the richest Indians in that state.

More Tralmen Promoted.

During the rush of business on the O. R. & N. the La Grande division has promoted three firemen to the engineer and also three breakmen have been promoted to the position of conductor. The firemen promoted were Wait Myers, Dave Grow and Ivan Grant and the brakemen are Joe Ruckman, George Gourley and Ed Hart. A new dispatcher has also been employed at La Grande for emergency. Since the O. R. & N. has been in existence, there has never been such a rush of business as is now on.

Dam Finished Today.

Work on the Walters' wing dam will be completed this afternoon. The headgate at the upper end of the race will not be put in at once but the gate at the foot of the race will be utilized for present needs for some time. The concrete above and below the dam is finished. Above the dam it extends just 200 feet; below, to the recent repairs in the levee, or somewhat over 100 feet. The concrete face is just 18 inches thick.

Would Come to Oregon.

Northeastern Iowa Are Suspicious of Irrigation Booms.

Ed Twibell, a new settler west of Pined Rock, a few miles, since that there would probably be quite a large immigration from Northeastern Iowa into that district if there were any assurance that it could be irrigated. Some of his people have been frightened by fake irrigation schemes until they are suspicious and refuse to "take hold" upon the representations of anybody except those in whom old associations have bred confidence.

He states that in Northeastern Iowa in mention Pacific Coast irrigation scheme that does not have some person well known in the residents to vouch for it, is equivalent to endorsing an acknowledged quack-brick scheme. On the other hand, many of the people of that region are too prone to think that there is no part of Eastern Oregon that is safe to locate in that is not irrigated.

Confirms Golconda Deal.

J. A. Howard Says the Company is to Be Reorganized.

J. A. Howard returned yesterday from a trip "outside," presumably beyond Baker City at least as far as Pendleton, certainly to La Grande, on banking and mining business. Regarding the first named mission, he has no word to utter, except to say: "Things are all right," says the Sumpster Miner.

When placed on the stand and called on to give his testimony regarding the mining proposition, Mr.

Howard had some cautious, guarded remarks to make.

He partially confirmed the report placed on the press wire at Pendleton regarding the resumption of negotiations for a reorganization of the Golconda company, and the financing of that deal along same lines. He confirmed that report to the extent that Alexander Prussing of Chicago, has undertaken the task.

GOLCONDA TO OPEN.

H. T. Hendryx Now in Portland, Speaks of the New Deal.

H. T. Hendryx of Sumpster, who has been identified with some of the largest promotions of the Eastern Oregon belt, departed from Portland last evening on the mission of reorganizing the present Golconda company, says the Oregon Daily Journal.

Details of the work now in hand are not vouchsafed, but Mr. Hendryx admitted that the rumors regarding the negotiations were correct. He and Alexander Prussing of Chicago have been working on a plan for reorganizing the Golconda company, and putting it in better condition than the property has been since first taken by the Messrs. English. Arrangements for deep development and exhaustive explorations of levels already opened, while the milling plant resumed on the reserve in sight below the 200-foot level, is a general outline of what would be taken up if everything is adjusted satisfactorily.

Mr. Hendryx' trip to Portland with N. C. Richards, his attorney, was in furtherance of this work, which is said to have attained good progress already. The deal is expected to be closed some time this month, after which work at the mine would be resumed as quickly as possible.
