HINKLE RETURNS FROM GRAND AERIE

Baltimore Meeting of Eagles the Greatest Ever Convened.

ORDER NOW HAS OVER 800,000 MEMBERS.

Baltimore Kept "Open House" During the Stay of the Eagles in the City—Badges Worn by the Order Were Passports to Every Theater, Pleasure Resort, Banquet and Ball in the City—Mr. Hinkle was Appointed State Deputy Grand President for Oregon—Is Now Supreme Officer in the State.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hinkle returned yesterday over the Northern Pacific from their World's Fair trip.

They left here on September 5, in company with Clark Wood, stopping over en route at Salt Lake and Denver. Mrs. Hinkle and Mr. Wood stopped at St. Louis and Mr. Hinkle went on to Baltimore as a delegate from Pendleton Oerie No. 28, F. O. E. to the grand aerie in session at Baltimore from September 12 to 17, returning to St. Louis September 20, and remaining until September 26.

Mr. Hinkle says the Eagles meeting at Baltimore was one of the greatest ever. Over 1000 representatives from every state and territory in the United States and a number from the British provinces were present.

The order is in a most healthful condition, having now over 850 aerics with a total membership of 300,000.

There were a number of aspirants for the office of grand worthy president, but on the last day of the session the majority of the representatives appeared to be centering upon Captain John F. Pelletier, of Kansas City, Mo., who was elected unanimously, as was also the other grand officers.

Oregon's Representatives.

Oregon was represented by Mr. Hinkle, of Pendleton, who held the proxies of nine aerics in the state, and J. N. Laws and Joseph Gribler, of Astoria; John Watson, of Portland, and J. L. Reed, of Ontario.

Upon the unanimous indorsement of the lodges in Oregon, Mr. Hinkle was appointed state deputy grand president; John Gribler was elected grand inside guard, and the other representatives from this state were accorded recognition upon various committees.

Mr. Hinkle's appointment places him at the head of the order in the state of Oregon. He will have general supervision over the various subordinate aerics and will determine all questions of appeal.

Mr. Hinkle says Baltimore is unmatched by any city in the world for her hospitality and skill in entertaining supreme lodge bodies. Baltimore aerics kept open house during the entire week at the Maryland theater for Eagles and their ladies, where everything to eat and drink the market afforded, was served free. Placeards were even posted throughout the building saying that the waiters were paid the top wages. "Please do not tip them."

Handsome badges were issued to each delegate by which talismen all doors to theaters, shows, excursions, dances and innumerable attractions, throughout the city were thrown open with the cry of "Welcome Eagles, you yea."

St. Louis Fair is Great.

Speaking of the fair at St. Louis, Mr. Hinkle says it is unquestionably the greatest the world has ever seen or will see again in our generation. It is really too big to be practicable, and future efforts in that line, in his opinion, will be on a smaller scale, but with greater regard for the permanency of buildings.

He says from a Westerner's point of view no excessive amount of graft is observable. Living is cheap, as compared with Baltimore, Washington or New York. The charges for everything on the grounds are measurably higher owing to the fact that all people holding concessions of any kind have had their buildings to erect for a short season of profit at their own expense and in addition thereto they pay 25 per cent of their gross receipts to the fair commission.

Board and room is very reasonable in any down town hotels or private residences.

Lewis and Clark Fair Advertised.

The Lewis and Clark fair is much talked of by the people of the East. Nearly everyone you meet is asking about it. All of the best attractions on the Pike will move to Portland during the winter and be ready for the opening next summer.

THE ARMY MULE IS NOW DOOMED

GOVERNMENT WILL BUY HORSES FOR ALL PURPOSES.

Department of the Columbia Will Quit Using the Slow-footed Mule in All Branches and Will Replace Him With the Swifter Horse—Change Will Be Made in the Next Four Weeks—Will Cost $150 Per Span for Suitable Horses.

The army mule, that long-eared mongrel that has ever been identified as chief among the non-combatants of Uncle Sam's warriors, is soon to be a thing of the past in the department of the Columbia. The mule is too slow of foot is the reason assigned for the change and as soon as possible horses will furnish all the motive power at the Washington, Idaho and Oregon military posts.

In days gone by in every department of the army where heavy draft work was required, mules were used. They hauled the quartermasters' wagons, the commissary stores, the fire apparatus at the posts, the sprinkling wagons and even the ambulances. Horses were used simply as mounts and in the field artillery and cavalry branches.

It is said that to provide the department with draft horses and roadsters will cost the government about $150 a span. The mules now in use will be sold. The change, will take place within the next four weeks.

WON'T BETRAY HIS FRIEND.

Henry Lacy, Posted Drunkard, Refuses to Say Who Gave Him Liquor.

Henry Lacy, a posted drunkard, is in the city jail serving an unexpired sentence of five days for breaking his parole and getting drunk. When he serves the old sentence he will be brought up and sentenced for the last offense.

Lacy when first arrested several days ago, refused to inform the court where he secured his liquor. Upon promises, later to divulge the name of the guilty person, he was released, but failed to make good his word. Last night he was found to be under the influence of liquor and was re-arrested.

W. Mahan was this morning sentenced to three days in the city jail for drunkenness.

NO NEW NAME FOR REFORM SCHOOL

Superintendent N. H. Looney Says Public Sentiment is Against It.

ROY HUTCHINSON TO BE TAKEN BACK TO SCHOOL.

Boy Was Out on Parole and Will Be Taken Into Custody Again—In Speaking of the Reform School, Mr. Looney Says the Most Appropriate Name Would Be Industrial School, or Some Name Suggestive of the Aims of the Institution—Now 97 Boys in the School.

Superintendent N. H. Looney, of the state reform school at Salem, came to Pendleton last night to take back with him Roy Hutchinson, a paroled pupil. Young Hutchinson is returned to the school for incorrigibility.

Superintendent Looney is the official who recently suggested that the name of the boys' reformatory be changed to some more fitting name, such as industrial school.

"When I saw the attitude assumed by the newspapers and others," said Mr. Looney, "I immediately dropped the subject. Personally, it makes no difference to me whether they call it reform school or Mount Hood, but when it is taken into consideration that the inmates make almost every article of their own clothing, besides learning different trades, I believe industrial school is a more fitting name for the institution."

"I now have 97 boys in the school. There are no girls and there is no state institution provided for the care of incorrigibles of that sex. The Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, at Portland, is the nearest approach."

Indians Don't Like Confinement.

Discussing the numerous escapes of boys and girls from the Indian school at Chemewa, Mr. Looney said: "It is not an uncommon thing for pupils to run away from that institution. When you bring an Indian boy from some reservation and place him in the school he is like a wild colt. He doesn't understand the restraint and has to be tamed down and made to understand before he is content to stay."

"It is like removing an older Indian from his old hunting grounds and penning him up in a reservation in a strange locality. He gets homesick and slips away at the first opportunity."

GUY FITCH PHELPS.

Prominent Speaker Coming to Assist in Tent Meeting.

Rev. Guy Fitch Phelps, of the United Evangelical church, Dayton, Or., who is coming to assist in the gospel services now being conducted in the large tent on the north side. Mr. Phelps never fails to interest his audiences.

He will remain several weeks to assist Rev. Lovell in the work now being started. There will be no service at the tent tonight. Tomorrow's services will be at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Mr. Phelps will speak each evening next week. Remember the tent is nicely warmed and comfortably seated. All are invited.

WARD MANKER MISSING.

Punished for Truancy, Has Disappeared From Home.

Mrs. D. Forsythe punished her 10-year-old son, Ward Manker, because he played truant from school. This was last Thursday morning. Since then the child has not been seen. The police and the distracted mother are searching for the missing boy, but he has not been located.

Mrs. Forsythe formerly resided in Walla Walla and it is thought by the police that the lad has gone there. It is not believed that any harm has come to the boy and the Walla Walla authorities have been notified to watch for him.

It is thought by some that possibly the child might have been kidnapped, but the authorities are of the opinion that he ran away because of the punishment he received. The Manker boy is small for his age. He is light complexioned and fairly well dressed.

Indiana Town Destroyed.

Flat Rock, Ind., Oct. 8.—Fire early this morning destroyed a large part of the town. Loss, $100,000.

CELEBRATED PRISON REFORMER HERE

Mother Smith, whose face is familiar to every prison official in the Northwest, visited the county jail this morning and conducted services with the inmates. Mother Smith has followed prison reform work for many years and is continually on the road. She is affiliated with no one church organization, although she generally addresses Salvation Army gatherings wherever possible. Mother Smith was at the jail at 8 o'clock this morning and remained with the prisoners for half an hour. She departed at 9 o'clock for Walla Walla, where she will preach in the county jail and the state penitentiary.

"I have been preaching in the prisons for the past 26 years," said Mother Smith, "and I have never yet asked for a cent. I am not preaching for a salary or for the church, but for the uplifting of the poor unfortunate in the jails and reformatories. I conduct regular services at the Salem and Walla Walla penitentiaries and at the Multnomah county jail. I always stop at the other jails whenever possible."

"I used to go to the Walla Walla prison once every two weeks, but the ministers there desired to be allowed to conduct services and I have lengthened the interval between my visits." Mother Smith is a firm believer in the power of the Almighty to provide for her. "I have started out on trips with no possible way, apparently, of getting through," she said, "but somehow the Lord has provided."

The prisoners at the Umatilla county jail had not yet breakfasted when Mother Smith appeared, yet they gladly welcomed her and awaited her departure before partaking of their food. One prisoner apologized to her for not having the place tidied up in anticipation of her coming. "But we didn't expect you," he explained. "They never know when to expect me," she remarked, in relating the incident. "I never know myself just what I am going to do next."
