

SOCIETY EVENTS

That Cupid has played havoc in the ranks of the young people is very much in evidence by the number of October weddings which have opened the social season in Pendleton with a whirl. Three weddings have occurred this week and one slated for next week, with three other marriages not far distant. There will not be many left of the so-called, old crowd among the younger set, and a new one will come forth.

Miss Eldena Hendley and Miss Lavelle Moorhouse, who have been recipients of a series of "showers" for the past few weeks, were the honored guests Monday evening at a prettily appointed dinner party at Hotel Bickers, given by a number of their friends. The table decorations were done in red, and covers were laid for fourteen. Mrs. Clarence Penland and Mrs. Lawrence Frazier acted as chaperons to the following young ladies giving the dinner: Misses Edna Thompson, Maud Sheridan, Nellie Cameron, Winnie Privett, Hazel Bickers, Jessie Hartman, Esma Sawtell and Ethel Johnson.

Miss Blanch Horn of Pilot Rock, and Miss Flo Hallock of Portland, were the out-of-town guests.

Ferguson-Adams.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ferguson on East Lewis street, was the scene of a charming wedding on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, when their daughter, Mae, became the bride of Clarence Ralph Adams. The bride's sister, Mrs. K. A. Llewellyn played the wedding march as the bridal couple entered the drawing room, which had been decorated with beautiful foliage of autumn leaves, Oregon grape and myrtle, interspersed with cut flowers. The chandeliers and archways were similarly draped. The Rev. Robert Warner, of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated at the ceremony. The bride, who is a very attractive young lady, appeared radiant in her bridal gown of white Persian lawn, elaborately trimmed in ribbons and lace, worn over white silk. She held a cluster of bride's roses in her hand. There were no attendants.

About 25 guests were present, mostly relatives of the bride and groom, who showered congratulations upon the newly wedded pair. In the dining room, which was attractive in its arrangement of cut flowers and foliage, Mrs. W. S. Ferguson presided, assisted by Miss Myrtle Hill, who served a delightful collation to the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Adams are well known in Pendleton society, and the number of beautiful presents received attested the popularity of the young couple, who carry with them the best wishes of their friends to their new home at Spokane. The out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding were Dr. Ferguson of The Dalles. The bride's going-away gown was brown cloth with hat to match.

MacDonald-Moorhouse.

Favored by good wishes, the admiring attentions of a host of friends and relatives, the wedding of Miss Lavelle Moorhouse, and William J. MacDonald Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, was all that could have been wished for in beauty and the successful culmination of plans for the entertainment of guests. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moorhouse on Water street, the Rev. Andreas Bard of Walla Walla, officiating. The house was darkened and, with the soft lights of the waxen tapers, together with the autumn foliage used in decoration, made a remarkably effective setting for an October wedding. In the back parlor a pretty background was formed, where the bridal party wended its way to the soft strains of "Here Comes the Bride," played by Miss Hazel Bickers. The maid of honor, Miss Edna Thompson, who was becomingly gowned in violet organdie over violet taffeta, preceded the bride, who entered the parlor on the arm of her father, by whom she was given away. The bride wore a wedding gown of silk organdie, on train, over white taffeta, completely enveloped by a bridal veil that fell to the hem of her gown. Both she and the maid of honor carried shower bouquets of bride roses. In the back parlor the bridal party was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Mark Moorhouse, where the nuptial knot was tied, the ring service being used. Strains from the "Flower Song" were softly rendered throughout the service, after which light refreshments were served in the dining room, where Mrs. Leona Thompson and Mrs. J. A. Borie presided, assisted by Miss Nellie Cameron, Jessie Hartman and Miss Flo Hallock. The receiving party were Miss Maud Sheridan and Miss Blanch Horn.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left the same evening for their future home at Bellingham, Wash. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents from their numerous friends.

Harrison-Isaac.

Miss Edith Maud Isaac and William Henry Harrison were the principals on Wednesday evening in a pretty wedding, solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. W. Sullivan, on West Court street. In the presence of about 40 invited guests. The decorations used in the attractive parlors were roses and madeira vines. A floral arch was arranged in the northwest corner of the room, under which the bridal party stood. Promptly at 9 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Eva Wood, the maid of honor, Miss Minnie Jones, attended by J. A. Isaac, brother of the bride, appeared, followed by the bride and groom. The bride, a tall blonde, was richly dressed in white silk illusion, over white silk, trimmed in lace. The maid of honor was becomingly gowned in pale blue silk mull and carried pink roses. The Rev. Van Nuys, of the First Presbyterian church, met the bridal party beneath the floral arch and pronounced the words that made them man and wife, the impressive ring service being used.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room, where Mrs. F. F. Perham poured coffee, assisted by three sprightly misses, Nora Younger, Irene LaDow and Fay Sullivan.

The gifts received by the young couple were beautiful and numerous. The bride has made her home in Pendleton for the past few years, and has many friends. The groom, who is also well known, is connected with Younger & Son's grocery store as salesman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison dispensed with a wedding trip immediately going to housekeeping in a cozy home prepared for them on Adams avenue. The out-of-town guests present were Dr. and Mrs. Richardson of La Grande, and S. T. Isaac, of Helix.

A New "500" Club.

Another "500" club has been formed to meet on Monday evenings of each week. The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William Shultz, Tuesday evening of this week. Mrs. Edwin Switzer won the honors of the evening for the highest number of points. Following is the personnel of the club: Mesdames Leona Thompson, W. J. Furnish, F. W. Vincent, Thomas Ayers, William Shultz, C. J. Smith, Fred Shoemaker, C. E.

Anniversary Gathering.

Mrs. Harry Fowler tendered her mother, Mrs. B. S. Waffle, a surprise at her home Thursday afternoon from 2:30 until 5 o'clock, by inviting in a number of her mother's old-time friends to participate in the celebration of her 63d birthday anniversary. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in reciting reminiscences of their childhood days. Mrs. Fowler was assisted by Mrs. D. B. Waffle.

Social and Personal Notes.

The Wednesday Whist Club met this week with Mrs. Fred Judd.

Mrs. J. E. Robinson was the hostess this week for the Monday Whist Club.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Vincent are spending a few days visiting friends in Portland.

Mrs. Frank Clopton returned Thursday evening after a pleasant 10 days' visit in Portland.

Mrs. Charles J. Ferguson and baby will leave tomorrow for a week's visit with relatives in Walla Walla.

Mrs. Otto Boettcher has returned from Chicago with the intention of remaining in Pendleton permanently.

Mrs. Lina Sturgis and sons, James and Creek, were among a number who left this week to attend the World's Fair.

Mrs. C. E. Roosevelt, who has been confined to the house for the past two weeks by illness, is now able to be about.

Miss Mazie Skiles spent yesterday at Walla Walla the guest of her brother, Roy, who is attending Whitman College.

Donald Robinson was host to a small party of his friends Friday afternoon, the occasion being the seventh anniversary of his birth.

Miss Anna Bracken, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles Ferguson, the past three months, has returned to her home in Walla Walla.

Judge and Mrs. Hartman accompanied by their daughter Jessie, left Thursday for the St. Louis exposition. They expect to be absent about six weeks, visiting in Eastern cities before their return.

Thomas G. Halley, accompanied by his wife and two children, left on Wednesday for an extended Eastern trip, visiting Mrs. Halley's former home in Iowa, also New York City, Washington and other cities. Before their return they will visit the St. Louis fair.

State Presbyterian Synod.

The State Presbyterian synod will meet at Portland October 13, and be in session for five days. It will be attended from this county by five delegates, so far as is known now. They will be Rev. Van Nuys and Elder James Crawford of his church; Rev. Diven of the Temple, and Rev. B. F. Harper and Elder Van Vranken of Milton. This session of the state synod is expected to confirm the recent division of the Eastern Oregon presbytery. Among the celebrities to be present are expected Dr. John Dixon of New York, representing the home mission board, and some representatives of the national evangelistic committee—probably Dr. John P. Calhoun.

Lived Here During the '80s.

T. O. Mohr, a carpenter who was employed in this place during the '80s, his family residing at Athens at the time, has been in town several days. He now resides at Champaign, Ill. From here he will continue his trip to the Sound, being joined at Portland by his family, who arrive there from California, after spending the summer in that state. Mrs. Mohr is a sister of George Hesterburg, who came into the Juniper country from Illinois last spring.

To Dayton for the Winter.

Ben Searles went to Dayton this morning. His brother-in-law, Henry Tipkin and his family, will follow as soon as Mr. Searles can find a dwelling in Dayton for all to occupy. Mr. Searles and Mr. Tipkin have filed on government land in the southern part of the county, and will return to move upon it next spring. They have many acquaintances in and around Dayton, and have employment for the winter in sight there.

Newcomers From Missouri.

George Kramer and family arrived last night from Wright county, Mo. After a short visit with Willis Ott and family, who are relatives, in the Freewater country, they will visit at Lewiston. Their intention is to return to this country to reside next spring. During the winter Mr. Kramer will visit all the localities where government land is yet to be found though he may conclude to invest in improved property.

Want to go Into Business.

James Harbaugh, a harness maker Normal, Ill., is visiting his brother, M. H. Harbaugh, who arrived last week from Boise after a short residence in that place. The intention of both is to locate in some of the smaller towns—the former to open a harness shop, and the latter to open a notion and racket store.

Seat Sales at Tallman's.

It was announced by mistake yesterday evening that the seat sales for "Salammbô" were in progress at Brook & McComas. It should have said "At Tallman's drug store," where the Fraser theater tickets will be sold this season.

WAS WITH CUSTER

MAJOR CHARLES A.

VARUNN IN PENDLETON.

Was Chief of Indian Scouts at Time of the Custer Massacre—Was the Man Who Discovered the Sioux Camp on the Little Big Horn—Has Been a Member of the Seventh Cavalry Since 1872—Is Now a Member of the Ninth, at Fort Walla Walla.

Major Charles A. Varunn, the officer who lay all night in the "Crow's Nest," and on the morning of June 25, 1876, located the Indian village into which swept General Custer and his ill-fated detachment of the Seventh United States cavalry, was in Pendleton yesterday. Major Varunn was then a second lieutenant in command of the Indian scouts, under Custer. He was present during all the campaigning with that officer and was but a few miles away during the battle of the Little Big Horn in which General Custer and all the men with him were slain.

Don't Like Notoriety.

Major Varunn is the survivor of a score of Indian battles and carries a medal of honor for gallant service during the Custer campaign. For over 22 years he has worn the uniform of an officer of the United States and has until a month ago seen all of his service with the Seventh cavalry. He was recently transferred to the Ninth and was in Pendleton yesterday on his way to Fort Walla Walla to report to his commanding officer.

The major, like the majority of those who are entitled to the "ribbon knot," is reticent regarding the part he played in the memorable fight with the Indian hordes. "It's all in history," he remarked, when pressed for an account of the battle of the Little Big Horn. "Much has been said about the fight that is not true, but it would take me a week to tell it all."

"I was a second lieutenant in Troop A, of the Seventh, but had command of Indian scouts at the time of the massacre." But at this point of the narrative the major used a strong military expression and refused to further tell of his own personal deeds.

Magazine Articles Untrue.

Speaking of the series of articles by Cyrus Townsend Brady, running in Pearson's magazine, entitled "Indian Fights and Fighters," in which the Custer fight is graphically described, Major Varunn declares that the author is off in many points. "There is much of Dr. Brady's story that is correct," he said, "and there is a lot more that is manufactured from the brain of a clever writer of fiction."

In his description of the Little Big Horn battle, Dr. Brady refers to Lieutenant Varunn and a picture of the officer appears in the July issue of Pearson's.

The major was stationed at Chattanooga, Tenn., when transferred and ordered to report at Fort Walla Walla. Col. Edwin S. Godfrey, commanding the Ninth cavalry, was for years in the Seventh. The colonel also carries a medal of honor.

Major Varunn is possibly 34 years of age. His mustache and hair are flecked with gray. He stands a little above the medium in height and his every move denotes the military man. He dressed in mufti while in Pendleton, but there were those who did not know who were heard to remark: "There goes an army officer."

W. C. T. U. ELECTION.

New Corps of Officers Chosen—Next Meeting October 21.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Gwinn for reorganization and the election of officers.

Mrs. M. A. Rader was continued as presiding officer for the time being, but was not elected president. Her tenure of that position is temporary and she will probably be succeeded at the next meeting of the order by a regularly elected president. Mrs. Leslie was chosen secretary and Mrs. M. A. Rader treasurer.

The following ladies were chosen to represent the activities of the order in the various evangelical churches of the city: Congregational, Mrs. S. A. Lowell; Presbyterian, Mrs. W. A. Storie; Christian, Mrs. C. E. Hoover; Methodist Episcopal, Mrs. C. F. Brown. Mrs. Hoover was continued in charge of the Loyal Temperance Legion work, the most effective juvenile temperance organization in the world.

The next meeting of the order will be with Mrs. Gwinn on Friday afternoon, October 21.

Mrs. Robie Seeks Divorce.

Julia A. Robie today filed action for divorce in the state circuit court against Hugh H. Robie. The allegations are that the defendant has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner and at one time threatened to stab her with a knife.

No Local Market.

LAWYER CAN'T CURE ITCH.

Excited Man Mistakes Attorney Ben K. Davis for Dr. Cole.

"People never stop to read the signs on office doors," remarked Ben K. Davis, an attorney, this morning. "Excited patients are always mistaking this office for a doctor's establishment because there is one on each side of it."

"See that hand," exclaimed a wild-eyed man who rushed in here the other day, and he thrust the diseased mitt under my nose. 'Guess I've got the itch.'"

"I did the best I could to focus my eyes on the member, and asked him what difference it made to me if he had leprosy."

"Why, ain't you Dr. Cole?" he asked in surprised tones.

"No," I replied, "I'm one of those fellows who attend to you after the doctor and undertaker have finished."
