CAN'T FIND HUTCHINS.

Deserted Wife Seeks Trace of the Missing Editor.

Mrs. R. V. Hutchins of Dayton, Wash., is in Spokane searching for her husband, R. Vance Hutchins, who left home very suddenly early in July without telling his wife or his creditors where he was going, says the Walla Walla Statesman.

Mr. Hutchins was formerly editor of a paper at Dayton. He is a man of pleasant address, about 28 years of age, six feet tall, weight 158 or 160 pounds, and has very dark hair and eyes.

Mrs. Hutchins is searching for him so that affairs can be straightened out. From what has been learned it is believed Hutchins may be on the other side of the boundary.

(Hutchins is well known in Pendleton, having been city editor of the East Oregonian several months about two years ago. He had trouble with a first wife before coming to Pendleton and now the second matrimonial venture seems to have ended disastrously.)
