GENERAL NEWS.

During 1904 there were 7500 murders in the United States and 37 lynchings.

The grape growing district of Michigan produced 2,500,000 baskets of that fruit last season.

One hundred persons bathed in the Atlantic at Atlantic City, N. J. New Year's day, with the temperature at 24 above zero.

The Chicago Tribune's statistical department is authority for the statement that 400,000 men were killed in all wars during 1904.

The Bridgeport, Conn., police station was lately robbed of a $200 cash register, the chief's fur overcoat and several revolvers and knives.

The Chase National Bank of New York, lately advanced $20,000 on a forged bill of lading of Louisiana cotton. No trace of either money or manipulator.

There were defalcations and embezzlements in the United States during 1904 to the amount of $4,742,567. During last year the losses by fire in the United States and Canada amounted to $245,000,000.

The total valuation of precious stones imported during 1904 through the New York port was $26,091,275—the largest of any one year in the history of that port. The best previous record was for 1902—$25,412,775.

Differences over the importation of laborers from Jamaica to Panama have arisen with the Jamaican government, and that plan is all off. Five hundred will be taken from Porto Rico for a starter, to test the climate.

According to Prof. Andrew J. Devoe, the prophet of Hackensack, N. J., 1905 will see an orange famine, a cotton panic, a bad day for the inauguration, a severely hot summer and a cyclonic storm which will sweep the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida.

NORTHWEST NEWS.

The last British warship at Esquimalt has been ordered to the China station, to reinforce the British naval forces in the Far East.

Seattle's chain gang last year not only paid for its board and lodging, but the city realized a profit of $3253 from its work on the street.

The third annual meeting of the osteopathic doctors of Oregon is being held at the Imperial hotel in Portland, with 40 in attendance.

George Graham, a Ravensdale, Wash., saloonkeeper, while endeavoring to get upon a train at Covington, fell, was run over and ground into pieces at midnight of January 5. Mrs. Lillie Warner, living near Eugene, was killed instantly by a falling tree. The tree was old and decayed and toppled over without warning. Mrs. Warner was 41 years of age.

In a quarrel in a saloon at South Bend, Wash., Vincent Duckwitz knocked D. W. Swan down. His head struck the rail in front of the bar, breaking his neck, killing him instantly.

J. G. Taylor has arrived at Seattle from Alaska, claiming to have found in Arctic waters over 1000 pounds of ambergris which he has stored at Valdez. Ambergris is worth $500 per pound.

H. C. Newton, manager of the Edison theater at Seattle, has disappeared. His enemies claim he has defaulted, but cannot prove it; his friends think he has suicided, but have no evidence to that effect.

$20 acre ranch. Four hundred acres on river bottom, 60 acres set to alfalfa. Well improved; good orchard; running water. One among the best in the county. Price is right. We have other and smaller propositions equally good.

SEEKING MEMBERS

MODERN WOODMEN OPEN OFFICES IN PENDLETON.

R. A. Mullenger, District Deputy Head Consul, Takes Charge of the Work in Eight Eastern and Central Oregon Counties—Will Make a Vigorous Campaign for Members—The Territory is Practically New and a Large Number of Local Lodges Will Be Organized.

In order to institute a revival of interest and meet the sharp competition in fraternal insurance lines in this territory, the Modern Woodmen of America have made Pendleton headquarters for one of the head officers of the order and will prosecute a vigorous campaign for members in the practically virgin field of Central and Eastern Oregon.

R. A. Mullenger, formerly of Kalispel, Mont., has arrived in the city and will open offices and represent the order here. His official position in the order is district deputy head consul of the Modern Woodmen of America, and his territory for the present will include the counties of Umatilla, Morrow, Gilliam, Sherman, Wheeler, Wasco, Crook and Grant, and he will begin at once an active campaign in his territory.

Mr. Mullenger is an experienced insurance worker and is highly spoken with the field to which he has been sent by the order. He has been in the fraternal insurance work for eight years in Michigan, Montana, and other northern states.

After he becomes familiar with his territory, and finds a suitable house, Mr. Mullenger will move his family here and make this his future home. He is visiting his sister, Mrs. John H. Wilson, wife of the principal teacher at the Umatilla Indian school, whom he has not seen for 15 years, before entering actively upon his duties.

The Modern Woodmen have a strong lodge in this city, but the outside territory is practically untouched and Mr. Mullenger hopes to organize a large number of local lodges in the small towns of his eight counties.

Mr. Mullenger will be at Hotel Bickers until he secures suitable offices.

East Oregonian's Circulation.

- Advertisers who have any doubt about the relative circulation of Pendleton newspapers, should read the postoffice report for the past quarter. Uncle Sam doesn't boost any favorite paper, you know; he just tells the plain, unvarnished truth.
- Here is the report of Pendleton postoffice for the months of October, November and December:
- Total newspaper postage received $68.42
- Paid by the East Oregonian $4.19
- Paid by all others $24.24
- It will be seen by this report that the Morning Tribune, the Hakawinn and the Business College Monthly, combined, paid but $24.24 for the past three months, while the East Oregonian alone, paid $44.19, or nearly double that paid by all others.
- One more carrier has been added by the East Oregonian this week, to meet the rapidly growing circulation on the south hill. These cold facts are presented to advertisers who seek to reach the people.
