ARRESTS FOLLOW A WOMAN'S STORY

Gov. Hanley Interests Himself and Orders the Case to Be Prosecuted.

CASE OF UNPARALLELED DEGENERATE BRUTALITY

Two Suspects Have Been Arrested on the Strength of a Confession Made by the Divorced Wife of One of Them—One Defendant Has Long Began Under Suspicion of Murdering and Assaulting Miss Schafer in January, 1904—A Bundle of Clothes and a Stone Said to Be Relics.

Bedford, Jan. 19.—Frank Evans was arrested here today charged with the murder of Sarah Schafer, a school teacher, in January of last year. The arrest follows instructions from Governor Hanley to push the case.

Elmer Browning, another suspect, was arrested this afternoon. Evans is about 33, and works a stone mill here. He has a wife and children. Browning is about 35, and has no regular occupation.

Suspicion was first directed to Evans through his conduct. It is alleged he kept close track of all developments of the case, and at times consulted lawyers, saying an attempt was being made to fasten the crime on him.

Story of Browning's Wife

According to the statement alleged to have been made by Mrs. Browning the men laid in wait for the girl at the mouth of an alley. Browning struck her in the head with a stone which he picked up. Evans carried her into the cab shed, where he attempted to criminally assault his victim. Browning, it is alleged, remained on guard at the mouth of the alley.

According to the woman's story Evans brought a bundle of clothing to the house the next morning and asked Browning to destroy it. He turned the bundle over to his wife, but she concealed the clothing under the staircase. She surrendered the bundle when she told the story a few days ago. Evans declares his innocence.

In addition, the clothing evidence, it is said, includes a black tie and a stone, the instrument of death, and also a partially filled bottle of whiskey. It is alleged the divorced wife of Browning delivered a bundle of blood-stained clothing to the authorities, and in a sworn statement testified that according to her husband the murder of Miss Schafer was premeditated.

LIVESTOCK MEN CARRY ALL THEIR POINTS

"Despite the disturbances and the sharp debates and final withdrawal of the Texas cattlemen, it was the best meeting held by the National Livestock association," said James H. Gwinn, of the East Oregonian, concerning the Denver meeting of the association.

"Three vital progressive steps were made by the convention, all of which will further the benefits and influence of this association: First, under the new constitution, the railroads are not allowed representation, either on the executive committee, nor as individual members of the association; second, the stockyards and commission men granted a five days market each week, instead of two days, as formerly; third, a recommendation was made by the general traffic manager of the Union Pacific to his company that a stock train hereafter shall consist of but 15 cars run at a schedule speed of 20 miles per hour.

Triumph for Stockmen. "Each of these vital changes is a triumph for the stockmen, and in addition, a movement is now on foot, looking to the arrangement of special schedules for trainloads of spring lambs, which shrink very rapidly in transit.

"Heretofore the slow movement of stock trains from the Western ranges to the markets has made it a losing proposition to ship lambs, because of the heavy shrinkage of this class of stock. If the new special schedule is arranged for lamb trains, it will mean a new field for Western growers.

New Constitution. "Under the new constitution, the following 10 branches of the livestock industry are represented on the executive committee of the National association: sheep, cattle, horse, goat, swine breeders, pure bred associations, stock feeders, livestock exchanges, packers and stock yards. The railroads have no representation.

RUSSIANS ALLEGE BAD FAITH ON CHINA'S PART

Say That Japan Is Employing Chinese Bandits in Manchuria—Complaining Attitude Toward the Position of the American Government—British Blockade Runner Caught by the Japanese—Russian Spy Convicted by Japanese Court-martial—Russian Strike Is Prodigious

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.—While the czar was returning from the ceremony of blessing the river Neva this afternoon, a shot was fired from a crowd which lined the route. It is presumed the bullet was intended for the emperor. The shot entered a window at the corner of the palace. It is reported a policeman was wounded.

After hearing the shot the emperor casually inquired if any damage had been done. When he entered the palace he went to the room into which the bullet was fired and examined the broken glass. He requested that search be made for the bullet.

Accidental Artillery Shot. From the size of the missiles which broke the windows of the palace it is now believed the shrapnel shell was fired from the other side of the Neva. The missiles were so high none was injured. The czar and his suite were participating in services in the chapel at the time the shot was fired.

Strike of Vast Proportions

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.—The strike among the workmen of Russia continues to grow and rapidly assumes serious proportions. This morning 7000 workmen at the Neva hemp and cord factory joined the strikers. Others are expected to follow by the end of the week. It is believed the number of strikers will reach 100,000. Railway employes are now considering quitting in sympathy. Efforts are being made to make the strike general throughout the country.

Russian Spy Convicted

London, Jan. 19.—A dispatch from Yokohama states that H. B. Collins, of Portuguese parentage, was tried and convicted today on the charge of being a military spy. According to the evidence Collins visited Port Arthur and Tien Tain last year and received 1000 yen from the Russians, together with a private cipher for the transmission of information. From Yokohama last October Collins wired the Russians giving the details of the proposed dispatch of Japanese troops. The penalty is six years imprisonment. Sentence was deferred until January 24.

Sore at Everybody

Washington, Jan. 19.—Russia today, through Ambassador Cassini, presented the state department with a second note of protest against alleged violations of neutrality by China. The note lays particular stress on the Riesenfeld incident in Chefoo harbor, and on the alleged employment of Chinese bandits by the Japanese in Manchuria. It is understood the document also expresses surprise that the American government seems to regard the protestations of the "heathen nations," China and Japan, as of more weight than the representations of Russia. Secretary Hay proceeded to the White House and laid the note before the president.

Washington, Jan. 19.—It is announced this afternoon that the state department has received from all the neutral powers interested in the Far Eastern situation positive assurances to abide by their declarations made in the beginning of the war, to preserve the administrative entity of China.

ATTORNEY MAY BE SUBPOENAED

Claims That Gambling Is Wide Open in Pendleton, and the Prosecuting Attorney, Ever on the Alert, Will Probably Call on Him for a Showdown of His Knowledge of the Facts—All Hands Willing and Anxious to Do Their Full Duty.

Attorney Ben K. Davis, counsel for R. A. Dunn, on trial yesterday in the state circuit court for the crime of larceny from the person, may be summoned before the grand jury to tell what he knows concerning alleged violations of the gambling laws in this city. In his argument before the jury Davis explained that his client followed the occupation of gambler and poolseller.

"If what Mr. Davis says is true," chimed in District Attorney Phelps, "I desire to subpoena him as a witness to tell the grand jury what he knows."

Davis said he was willing, and later when Phelps made his argument before the jury he explained that he stood at all times willing to do his duty, that he was himself a grand jury to probable cases of alleged violation of the laws, and that if gambling was going on, all he desired was some one to come forward who was willing to swear to the complaints.

PENDLETON WILL HAVE CREAMERY

Will Be in Operation Within Two Months From Date, and Within the City.

RESPONSIBLE MEN AND CAPITAL ARE BACK OF IT

Backers and Managers Are in the City, and Are Negotiating for Suitable Quarters—Cream From the Grand Ronde Will Be Reduced Here as the Creameries of That District Have a Surplus—Farmers Interested Are Asked to Leave Names and Addresses at This Office.

After 18 months of incessant labor and solicitation, the East Oregonian has succeeded in bringing a creamery plant to Pendleton.

Within two months a first-class creamery will be in operation in the heart of the city, of sufficient capacity to handle any amount of business that may be developed.

Alex Knight, Jr., of Union, Ore., lately of Philadelphia, and O. E. Harper, manager of the La Grande and Union creameries, are now in the city making arrangements for a suitable location, and will begin the establishment of a modern creamery plant at once.

Mr. Knight will move here and have charge of this plant, while Mr. Harper will continue in charge of the La Grande plant. These gentlemen will be sole owners of the Pendleton plant.

A first-class modern creamery will be established. The first milk to be used, until local dairymen begin furnishing their product, will come from La Grande, where an excess supply is now received by the creamery.

Last year Mr. Harper shipped 35,000 pounds of butter from his La Grande creamery to the Pendleton cold storage plant, for storage, and as this butter was sold in this market, he decided that it was a first-class location for a creamery, and, instead of shipping butter here, his company will now ship the excess cream here and manufacture the butter in this city.

Both these gentlemen are experienced creamery men, and have ample capital to carry out their plans, and the people of Pendleton may be assured that a first-class plant will be established.

Farmers having cows that will be milked for this purpose are kindly invited to leave their addresses and the number of cows at this office. Mr. Knight will not be here permanently for a couple of weeks, after which time he may be found in this city.

These gentlemen were first directed to look over the Pendleton field by George D. Goodhue, of the Commercial Creamery company of Salem, whom the East Oregonian interested in a creamery project in this city two years ago, and who has since been energetically at work in finding suitable men to start a business here.

The matter of a location will probably be decided upon this evening. Several good buildings have been offered for the purpose.

Land Filings in Idaho

Boise, Jan. 19.—The best lands under the government irrigation project are taken but filings are still being made and everyone feels confident that their land will be watered within the next two years. Several notaries public are in the field and are having contracts signed for water which contracts are being readily signed by all who understand the situation, while a few who are ignorant as to the benefits are rather reluctant but after the matter is made plain most of them sign.
