THE SWORDFISH.

Some of the Tropical Species Are of Enormous Size.

A queer fish is the swordfish. It is found in the tropical and subtropical zones of both the eastern and western hemispheres. Some of the tropical species are of enormous size and measure from twelve to fifteen feet in length, with swords at least three feet long. The sword is much the shape of a cone somewhat flattened, the end sharply pointed. It is smooth on the top and sides, but the under part is rough. It is really an elongation of the bones of the upper jaw and is possessed of very great strength, for with these weapons they have been known to pierce the copper sheathing of vessels and heavy plates and timbers; but, although they can drive the sword far into these substances, they cannot draw them out, so break them off and swim away without them.

A large fin extends nearly the length of the back of the creature, which is folded back when the fish is swimming in order that its progress may not be impeded if speed is desired, but when quietly swimming it is often erected and acts as a sail to carry it through the water. The swordfish is very aggressive in its disposition and will often assail fish much larger than itself. Even the whale is not exempt from its attacks. The food of the swordfish consists of smaller fish, which it kills by stabbing them with its sword. There is quite a large business done in swordfishing, as the flesh is used for food. The larger species are caught by harpooning, the smaller in nets.

In Police Court.

In police court this morning Luther Martin and George Braddley were each sentenced to three days in the city jail.

What is a gentleman? I'll tell you. A gentleman is one who keeps his promises made to those who cannot enforce them.

The official reports state that 185,000 coal miners are on strike in Germany—twice the number that went out in 1889.

It transpires that 20 of the 21 men on the federal grand jury voted to indict Senator Mitchell.

WROTE AN AWFUL HAND.

David Dudley Field Was Even Worse Than Horace Greeley.

No compositor could set David Dudley Field's "copy." They tried it in several large law printing offices in New York city, but invariably Mr. Field's manuscript was returned to him for interpretation. His chirography was something wretched. Compared with it, Horace Greeley's screeds were copperplate. In the line of unintelligible "curlycues" the great jurist could give the great editor "cards and spades."

Mr. Field never wrote at a desk while in his office. He had a green baize covered little slab screwed to the arm of his revolving chair, and on this he would write for hours at a time. He turned out "copy" quickly, but days often elapsed before his writings could be put in the hands of the printer. They had to be copied, and all hands in the office took turns at helping to decipher them. Often copies of Mr. Field's briefs had to be returned to him with spaces left for words, and sometimes whole sentences, to be filled in by himself. Then he would wax wrath and declare his writing was as plain as day.

Especially when working on his hobby, codification, Mr. Field's ideas came too fast for legible transmission to paper, and the result was a chaotic appearing mass of characters most bewildering to the unfortunate copyist.

Interesting Letter From New York City

New York, Jan. 21.—President Morris K. Jesup, of the Peary Arctic Club, has sent out an appeal for additional funds to complete the ship in which Robert E. Peary will again seek the North pole. The club has had subscribed, principally from its own membership, about $55,000, and in order to avoid delay, has assumed the responsibility of contracting for, and is now building a special ship of exceptional strength and powerful engines, to be completed about March 1, 1905. This ship is the first ever constructed in this country for Arctic discovery. Additional funds to the amount of $100,000 are necessary for the completion of the ship and the equipment of the expedition.

Sensational reports of an alarming amount of destitution in New York this winter are denied by officers of Charity Organization society. They say that they are taking care of about 10 or 15 per cent more persons than they did at this season last year, but this increase is not due to the fact that there are more unemployed, but is because of a considerable increase this year in pneumonia and kindred diseases. Altogether, they say, conditions are not to be compared with those of the winter of 1893.

The reported intention of W. R. Hearst to run for mayor on a labor ticket is causing much concern in Tammany Hall. Mr. Hearst's purpose not to support Mayor McClellan if the latter be renominated is evidenced by the attitude of the Hearst papers, which, with pen and pencil, are almost daily caricaturing and anathematizing the mayor. What is most feared is that Mr. Hearst will make a campaign for mayor on lines similar to his fight for the presidential nomination. He would make things exceedingly interesting for Tammany if he should spend a quarter as much money in his mayoralty campaign as he did when a presidential candidate.

Every time the government's big guns at Sandy Hook are fired the frame buildings at Lawrence, across the river, quiver like leaves, though the distance is 15 miles. Ceilings have fallen, furnaces have cracked, and mirrors, window panes and fish globes have fallen into fragments as a result, the owners of the houses think, of the explosions on the Hook. This shaking has been going on for a long time, many years, but it has begun to get worse lately. The bigger the guns installed the more the houses quiver and rattle. There is no doubt that the shaking of the houses is directly traceable to the government's guns. But whether the vibration is borne through the air or by means of rock under the ocean there is some disagreement. Some of the residents hold to one theory, some to the other.
