TO STOP RANGE WARS

NEW LAW WOULD HOLD COUNTIES RESPONSIBLE.

Representative Steiner Introduces a Bill to Make Counties Liable for All Stock Killed in Range Wars and Riots—Owners of Stock so Killed Can Recover 50 Per Cent of the Real Value of the Stock—Aim of the Law Is to Stop Sheep Shooting.

Following is a copy of house bill No. 262, introduced by Representative Steiner, and is intended to stop range wars, by making counties responsible for 50 per cent of the value of all stock so killed:

A bill for an act to make counties and municipal corporations liable for injury to and destruction of, cattle, sheep, horses, swine and goats within their respective limits, and providing for the time and manner of enforcing payment therefor.

Be it enacted by the people of the state of Oregon:

Section 1. That whenever in any county or municipal corporation in this state, any cattle, sheep, horses, swine and goats shall be injured or destroyed by any outlaw, or person or persons in disguise, mob or riot, the owner of such property shall be entitled to recover of the county or municipal corporation in which such property was located at the time it was injured or destroyed, 50 per cent of the reasonable value thereof, at the time and place where injured or destroyed.

Sec. 2. That claims for sad damages allowed in section 1 of this act shall be first presented to the county court in the county in which such damages occurred within 20 days from the occurrence of such damages, with proof of loss, and shall be acted upon by said court as other claims are now passed upon. That in case the decision of the county court is unsatisfactory to the party claiming damages it shall be entitled to appeal from the decision of such county court to the circuit court of said county. In case of such an appeal from the county court to the circuit court the same shall be commenced by the filing of a complaint in the said circuit court of the said county, and the service of summons shall be had as an ordinary action at law. It shall be sufficient service in such actions to serve the summons and copy of the complaint upon the county clerk of the county defendant. In case such damages be against the municipality, they shall file their proof of damages with the recorder of such municipality within 20 days after the happening of such damages and such claims shall be passed upon as other claims are now passed upon in such municipalities, and in case the party desires an appeal from the decision of the city council of such municipality, he shall proceed as above provided from the county court; the copy of the complaint and the service of summons shall be served upon the recorder of such municipality, and such actions shall be prosecuted to final determination according to the laws of this state and the practice of the courts relative to actions between private individuals.

Sec. 3. That any action commenced by virtue of this act shall be commenced within one year after the act complained of is committed, after which no action can be commenced hereunder and the county or municipal corporation is released from all liability on account of such injury or destruction of said property.

Sec. 4. All judgments recovered in persuance of the provisions of this act shall be satisfied in the same manner as other judgments against counties and other public corporations as provided in section 362 of Bellinger and Cotton's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Oregon.

Sec. 5. That if at any time before the payment of the money recoverable under the provisions of this act, the offenders shall be apprehended and duly tried, convicted and punished, such conviction and punishment shall operate as satisfaction of the judgment in the particular case. If the offenders herein described shall be apprehended and undergoing trial or in custody of the law awaiting trial for the offense about which the action is brought, the court, or in vacation, the judge thereof, may oh a proper showing suspend proceedings in the suit for damages until the result of the trial of the apprehended person or persons shall be known.

Sec. 6. That the provisions of this act are necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace and safety, and an emergency exists, and this act shall take effect and be in full force from and after its approval by the governor.

A Grim Tragedy.

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oklahoma, Ind., writes; "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by Tallman & Co., druggists. Trial bottle free.

OSTEOPATHY

Pelvic Diseases of Women.

It is estimated that less than 10 per cent of women are in perfect health. Why this alarming state? For the answer to the greater part of it, we must look to the so-called pelvic diseases, or female troubles. It is rare indeed to find a woman in the active period of life entirely free from all these ailments. Is if any wonder that scientists are constantly asserting the degeneracy of the human race, when these must be the mothers of it, or that in France and Germany the death rate exceeds the births? Is it any wonder that so many false cures are heralded, and that for years quacks have made this their harvest field? With years of suffering and distress, aches in back, ovaries and uterus, with their reflex accompaniments, headaches, digestive disorders, bladder trouble, etc., is it any wonder that woman submits to the burning caustics, pessary, electric shock, and finally the surgeon's knife, only to find herself at last unsexed, a nervous wreck and a hopeless invalid? Such is the story of a hundred in our own town. Cannot science end this awful tale? If not, a new and hardier race must take the stage. He who brings this story to a close will be greater than any now on history's pages. Such a one is now striving hard for this glorious cause in the person of Dr. Andrew T. Still, the founder of osteopathy. Said Mrs. Senator Jos. B. Foraker, "If the founder of Osteopathy does nothing more in this life than what he has done to relieve the suffering of women, his name will go down the ages as the greatest physician of any age, and one of the benefactors of the race."

Is this eulogy merited? Let us examine his theory and see if it be reasonable, for we should reason on healing, although we have never done so. The body is not a mystery, but works by law, just as truly as any other machine. So have a reason.

The uterus and ovaries have an abundant and delicately balanced nerve and blood supply on which they depend to functionate, or perform their duty of life, procreation. Because of this abundance and delicacy of nerve and blood supply, they are easily disturbed. At this point Dr. Still began by asking, "How does this disturbance come about?" Strange it is that no physician ever asked this before, or if he asked, failed to get an answer. Dr. Still never stopped until he had an answer.

The blood to the female organs, as well as to all parts is controlled by the raso-motor nerves. These arise in the spinal cord, pass out between the vertebrae, thence downward through tissues and over joints to the organs. Cut the vaso-motor nerve to any vessel and the vessel wall is paralyzed. Then the force of the blood within the vessel spleads the wall, accumulating an excess of blood, an inflammation or congestion. With these facts of physiology as a starting point, Dr. Still began the search for the agent cutting the vaso-motor nerve. Diligent search recvealed that the vertebrae between which the nerve leaves the spinal cord, were slightly displaced, the ribs, the 11th and 12th, were drawn down and together, and that the pelvic bones, commonly called the hip bones, were twisted. "An idea," says Dr. Still. "These bring pressure and cut off the nerves as they pass by them. If I straighten these it should get the desired result." He did the work. The result you have in the above quotation from the wife of Ohio's greatest senator.

You have been duped long enough. Henceforth proceed by reason. Investigate. There are several in our town who have been treated. Get a complete explanation and understand. Pick the wheat from the chaff, for pretenders are numerous and will infest our state until Senator Brownell's bill, now before the legislature, becomes a law and compels all osteopaths to go before an examining board. Don't judge Osteopathy by what some pretender has been able to give you. Would you judge medicine from the work of a quack?

Frequently we hear, "I have a uterine displacement, so Osteopathy can't help me." Does not the displacement come from the stretching of the ligaments, weakened by poor nourishment? What will correct it? Prop it up with a pessary, or correct the blood supply and nourish the ligaments back to strength?

Because you cannot detect the slight displacements of bones, don't be positive there are none. Trained fingers will find them and point them out to your satisfaction. Medical doctors, those who never investigate, often assert that these displacements do not exist. Any such we cordially invite to call, as we have some excellent examples of all classes of displacements among our patients.

Osteopathy makes no claim to cure all cases. Some mild cases are incurable, some very bad cases are easily cured. Most depends on the causes, whether it be a removable condition or not. Then comes in the recuperative power of the body. The longer the case is delayed the more the recuperative power is lost.

Give Osteopathy a chance to save you before submitting to the surgeon's knife, which must forever destroy you as a woman, unsex you, wreck your nervous system, subject you to the terrible initiative of the scar tissue and leave you incapable of motherhood, and unfitted in body and mind for wifehood, a barren wreck on the sands of time, just living because you have not been called away.

There is a chance for you. It costs nothing to investigate fully with Doctors Hoisington, Despain block, Pendleton, Ore., who are graduates under Dr. Still, the founder. They will gladly answer any question.

WAS EXECUTED 226 YEARS AGO.

Wreathing in London of Statue of King Charles I.

London, Jan. 30.—Two hundred and twenty-six years ago today Charles I was executed by his subjects and latter-day Jacobites observed the anniversary as usual by placing wreaths on the statue in Trafalgar square. That is to say, they would like to place these floral emblems personally, but sad to relate the garlands are now always laid in position by the rude hands of Hanoverian policemen.

The reason for this is somewhat amusing. The floral observance commenced some 15 years ago, and all would have gone well but for a modest bunch of violets placed among the other decorations. It was not the flowers but the card to which they were attached, which caused the rumpus. This card was the white lid of a milliner's box inked round with a deep black border. In the center were printed in large letters the words: "Remember, oh king and martyr we have not forgotten. Long live Queen Mary." Next day there was a paragraph in all the papers calling attention to the "disloyal" inscription, and when parliament met a question was put to the home secretary. The consequence was the placing of Jacobite wreaths under the censorship of the office of works, where all tributes now have to be sent.
