I know not where lies Eden-land; I only know 'tis like unto God's kingdom, ever right at hand— Ever right here in reach of you! Put forth thy hand, or great or small, In storm or sun, by sea or wood, And say, as God has said of all, Behold, it all is amply good! I know not where lies Eden-land— I only say put forth thy hand! —Joaquin Miller.

INCORRIGIBLES ARE BARRED.

President Roosevelt has opened a kindergarten for disowned island governments, runaway republics, scapegoat insurrectionists and all the nondescript rag-tag and bob-tail fragments of civilization and savagery in every quarter of the world.

The last saucy incorrigible to be taken under the protecting wing is San Domingo, whose affairs the United States will now direct and whose uprisings she will soothe until further orders.

Nobody else in the world has been able to make a decent government of San Domingo. For this reason the experiment will be fascinating to Mr. Roosevelt. He will watch the incubation of good government and order in that nest of hissing revolutionists with more than ordinary interest.

But San Domingo is the limit. Let us close the doors of the kindergarten to other incorrigibles. Let us take the kinks out of Panama and San Domingo and the Sultan of Sulu and vice Yaguagons and the Igorrotes before we add more hapless orphans to the Roosevelt reformatory.

The old hen can only cover a given number of chicks with her motherly wings. The limit is now reached. If any more are added, their nakedness will be exposed, for the very good reason that the old hen has spread herself to the limit.

Just a little "intensive farming," as the agricultural college professors say, is now in order. Just a little trimming down and cutting to fit, among the misfit orphans now under the great American roof, should be attended to, before other dog-eating, defiant swarms of savages are gathered into the fold.

The multiplying negroes at home, the prolific Filipinos on 5000 islands in the Orient, the canal zone and its ever increasing intricacies, and now San Domingo, with its essence of 500 revolutions balled down for one dose for the United States—these pressing problems are world wide in their ramifications and demand more grey matter, in their solution, than has ever yet been found in one cranium.

The United States is able to cope with gigantic things. But the government must assimilate some of these things before swallowing others equally as large.

It is an easy matter to contract trouble, but it is another thing to meet it gracefully and dispose of it without loss of dignity or cuticle.

Before admitting any more incorrigibles to the American reformatory, let us tame the undiscovered faces in the Philippines, Americanize the canal zone and dig the canal, take haughty San Domingo by the two shoulders and thrust her down upon her seat so rudely that she will see stars, batter out the rough edges of the Hawaiian constitution, brush away the befogging clouds of the negro problem, and kick the trusts out of American business circles!

After that, we can take up something else. But let us clean up the jobs now on our hands.

While Mayor George H. Williams and Chief of Police Hunt of Portland, wink at the unspeakable vices of Portland, take toll from it and allow it to spread, plain, bluff, honest Tom Word takes the law in his own hands and routs the leeches from their dens. It is new blood at work in Portland's sordid veins. It is new life coursing through the mortifying social body. It is new vim vitalizing the old city. The same is true of other Oregon cities. Baker and Union counties are now closed tight on Sundays. Sheriffs Brown and Pennington, of those counties, laughed at the assurance of the cowardly city governments, that it was useless to attempt such a thing. Without noise or ostentation, back doors, front doors, side doors and cellar doors were closed on Sundays in Baker and Union counties. It was a simple thing, with one determined man back of it. And now the saloon men are glad it is so. They spend one day and night at home with their families away from the distractions of their business. They lock up willingly on Saturday night and stay away until Monday morning.

The Review of Reviews for February advocates the abolition of the tariff on Canadian lumber and wood pulp in order to alleviate the suffering caused in the United States by high prices of lumber and also to relieve the extortionate price of common newspaper. The high price of paper in the United States is due largely to the decreasing supply of wood pulp, while in Canada are millions of acres of spruce trees decaying and yielding no benefits to humanity. American consumers should be allowed to use these Canadian forests. The tariff that stands in the way, is enriching American trusts at the expense of American consumers. It is the acme of folly to maintain this prohibitive duty on products that are needed in this country and which are found in abundance just across the Canadian border. The price of newspaper is advancing so rapidly that publishers must increase the prices or go out of business, while millions of acres of pulp timber is rotting on Canadian mountains, awaiting a deliverer.

The first steps of a profitable advertising scheme for Umatilla county, were taken Tuesday night, when President Boris, of the Commercial association, promised to appoint a committee to arrange a case at the O. R. & N. depot, in which a comprehensive exhibit of Umatilla county resources are to be displayed. Hundreds of truth-hungry tourists would carry away memories of such an exhibit that would develop into settlers, homeseekers and investors for the county, later. The matter cannot be carried into execution too quickly for the good of the county. The excursion rates go into effect February 15 and the rush will start a few days later.

So great is the need of railroads in Louisiana that an amendment to the state constitution has been proposed by which all railroads built within that state for the next five years, would be exempt from all taxation. This is equal to a state subsidy, and should stimulate railroad building. If there is any possible prospect for future traffic. Louisiana is both blessed and handicapped by the Mississippi river, upon which the traffic of the state is carried so cheaply that railroads cannot exist, parallel with that stream.

THE ENGINE'S SONG.

Through city and forest and field and glen I rush with the roaring train; My strength is the strength of a thousand men. My brain is my master's brain. I borrow the senses of him within Who watches the gleaming line; His pulses I feel through my frame of steel. His courage and will are mine. I hear, as I swerve on the upland curve, The echoing hills rejoice To answer the knell of my brazen bell. The laugh of my giant voice. And, white in the glare of the golden ray, Or red in the furnace-light, My smoke is a pillar of cloud by day, A pillar of flame by night. —Arthur Guiterman.

OIL FOR THE BODY

You can't lose an atom without feeling it. The body is like an engine, a watch, a machine; must be kept in good order to run right. That's the reason Scott's Emulsion is so successful in all wasting diseases. It feeds, nourishes and strengthens when ordinary food won't. Doctors say Scott's Emulsion is the best nourishment for those who are not as well as they should be—young or old.
