PIONEER OF 1847

INLAND EMPIRE PACKER
OF FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Old Man Now 92 Years of Age, Who Organized a Pack Train From Walla Walla to Ft. Steele in 1857—Built One of the First Cabins at Walla Walla—In 1862 There Were Three White Women in the Inland Empire.

With a wife who is almost 60 years his junior partner, and with an old cornucop pipe as a solace in his declining years, A. J. Miner, 92 years old, lives in a state of reminiscence at 237 Main avenue in Spokane, says an exchange.

He is probably one of the first men who operated a pack train from Walla Walla to Fort Steele, B. C. Sitting in a favorite rocking chair, with his long, gray beard sweeping across his chest and with his cornucop pipe going full blast, he told of the time when Spokane was nothing but a timber tract and Indians were drying fish for winter use in the woods where the city hall now stands. Mr. Miner packed goods from Walla Walla to Fort Steele in 1857, and frequently passed along the trail which then passed through the present site of the city.

Although Mr. Miner's massive frame is bent with age, and he is only a shadow of his former self, he is still able to read without the aid of glasses and is able to walk about the streets and around the house without the aid of a cane. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1813, and was brought to this country when 1 year old. His father was a member of the Virginia legislature just after the war of 1812.

Crossed Plains in 1847.

In 1847 Mr. Miner and a party of 123 crossed the plains to Oregon and settled near Salem, where he was engaged in raising cattle. He was one of the first men that drove a stake on the site where Walla Walla now stands and built one of the first cabins there.

Mr. Miner said yesterday: "In 1857 I organized a pack train and carried provisions from Walla Walla to Wild Horse, B. C. The first time I passed through the present site of Spokane I saw a crowd of 300 Indians drying fish in the sun in the timber where the city hall now stands on Front avenue. This was the great fishing place for the Indians in those days.
The squaws used to take the fish in dipnets as they were trying to get up over the falls, and the bucks, after the squaws had cleaned them, would dry them in the sun. Although there were no railroads on the Pacific coast in those days, one could get over the country pretty cheap. Cayuses were but 35 apiece, but grub was high.

"I built a store in Elk City, Idaho, in 1861 and run it for years. In those days sugar was $1.25 a pound, boots $10 a pair, and common undershirts were $2 apiece.

Charles Kendall a Pioneer.

"The only house of any kind in the country within miles of Spokane was a small store built by Charles Kendall at Spokane bridge, east of here, in 1862. At that time there were only three white women in the Inland Empire, one of them I think is now living in Spokane, the other was my wife, and I forgot who the other one was."

The Doctor's Twist.

A worthy Glasgow doctor while enjoying a holiday in Arran took the opportunity along with a friend to go whiting fishing. During operations the doctor's slinker came off and was lost.

Here was a dilemma. No sinker, no more fishing that day. Ha! Happy thought! His flask. No sooner said than done. The bottle was filled with salt water, carefully corked and sent down on its mission.

After a few minutes' interval, "Ha," quoth the doctor, "a bite!" And up he pulls at racing speed a fine pair of whiting, one on each hook.

"Ha, doctor, twine this time!" exclaimed his companion.
"Yes," quoth the doctor, "and brought up on the bottle too."—London

To "Make No Bones."

The phrase to "make no bones," which is in such common use, may be generally explained as implying that something is done readily and with no such impediment as a bone might be to one who was eating food. It has been explained to be a modification of an older phrase to "find no bones," which seems to have had reference to bones found in soup and hindrances to the consumer. Some folk not only find but make difficulties and hindrances, at which they are content to stick. In Skelton's "Elymour Rom-myng," 1520, the lady so readily believed the story that she—Sopped it up at once (once).
She found therein no bones.

BAKER COUNTY IN SWEATBOX.

Federal Officials Are Looking Into Possible Land Frauds.

That there is reason to believe that Baker county entries under the timber and stone act are passing through a microscopic investigation at the hands of certain federal officials has been made manifest to a number of people in these parts, but they are not shouting their knowledge from the house tops or mixing it with beverages, says the Baker City Herald.

Two months ago County Clerk Combs was requested by officials at Washington to furnish them with a verified and certified list of all the entries made and filed in this county during the year 1903. The list was furnished as requested and was found to contain 167 names.

Beyond this request he was asked to do nothing but since then several men known to be connected with the several departments involved in land fraud investigations have put in appearances here gone up to Sumpter and out into the John Day country, thence to La Grande and then to Portland. Precaution to avoid publicity of their movements is something in which these speciale are adept and there is little in their wake to tell of their work.

Much of the business involved in the formal acquisition of the great majority of the claims located in Baker county during the year 1903 was done before United States commissioners chiefly in Sumpter. It is said that a number of these commissioners in the timber districts in Oregon have been called to Portland to hold converse with "that man Heney," as he seems to be desirous of ascertaining from them information of which they would naturally be possessed.

Several well known cruisers who have done an extensive business in the past in this part of the state have recently made trips to Portland and those who have returned are not inclined to talk of the matters which took them there, in fact, one of them was decidedly brusque to an old friend yesterday when asked to tell what he had learned in Portland in regard to the land frauds.

IN A BAD WAY.

Many a Pendleton Reader Will Feel

Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;

Becomes lame, weak or aching;

When urinary troubles set in,

Your kidneys are "in a bad way,"

Here's local evidence to prove it!

Mrs. G. W. Brown, who lives at the corner of Turner and B. Streets, says: "I was unable to stoop without suffering the most intense pain across the small of my back and through my kidneys. I got my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Brook & McComas drug store. I was so sore and lame that I could not stoop at the sink to wash. Doan's Kidney Pills did away with the trouble. If I did not honestly think that Doan's Kidney Pills acted up to the representations made by them I would not set my name to an endorsement. I know others who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with the same satisfaction."
