

THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

In 1889, he "staked" Grant Thornburg to enough lumber to build the old Annex hotel at Granite. It was Brown's kindness at that time that gave Thornburg his first start in this camp.—Sumpter Daily Miner.

One of the most popular young men of North Salmon, Harvey Dunn, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jewett, lies a corpse at his home. He started to the neighbor's Sunday morning with skates on his shoulder. It was his custom to read a short story at school the first thing in the morning, but his seat was vacant. Search was made and his horse was discovered tied to a post near Byrket Lake, on the ice of which lay his coat and hat and his skate tracks led to where the ice had broken over about 10 feet of water.

The body was recovered; one skate was off. It is most probable that the losing of that caused him to fall, breaking the ice, with the above result.—Goldendale Sentinel.

Mrs. Sarah E. Marshall, wife of George Marshall, who lived at North Sixth street, fell into a waste ditch of the Northwest Light & Power company Tuesday evening and drowned. The body was not found until 10 o'clock today.

Fong Fung and Fong Sang, two of the seven Chinamen arrested several weeks ago on the charge of violation of the exclusion act, and who gave bond for their appearance, made such showing this morning before United States Commissioner Jonas Brown, that they were discharged on the evidence submitted, which showed they are merchants. Another was discharged some time ago, so that the cases of four are still pending.—Boise Capital News.

As an example of the severe cold in this vicinity the first of the week we refer to the circumstance of a teamster buying a bottle of whisky at Arlington, put it in his wagon and left town in the evening. Next morning when he wanted a drink he found that the whisky had frozen and broke the bottle. He saved the whisky, brought it back to the dealer and demanded that he be furnished with a new bottle.—Arlington Record.
