SKETCH OF GEO. ARMSTRONG.

Review of the Life of Pendleton's Well Known Citizen.

George C. Armstrong was born in Peoria, Ill. Nov. 29, 1843, and died in Pendleton, Or., February 18, 1905, aged 61 years, 2 months, 25 days.
From Illinois he moved to Kansas in 1867, and settled in Marshall county. He was married to Miss Nettie M. Baker, of Blue Rapids, Kan., in 1873, and in 1882 they removed to Oregon, settling in this city. In March, 1883, he established his home at what is now 513 Lilletth street, when there was scarcely a house in that part of the city. For 22 years he has resided continuously in this home.
Mr. Armstrong's health began to fail while yet in the East. With a hope of improving his strength, they crossed the plains by team. The next year after reaching here, he had a severe attack of typhoid fever from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He took frequent trips in quest of health, but never received permanent help. Many physicians were consulted, but all gave the same opinion that permanent recovery was impossible. Just a few days before his death he was planning a trip to the coast this season.
The last three weeks of his life were marked by greater freedom from pain than he had enjoyed for some time. The immediate cause of his death was hemorrhage of the brain. His last illness was brief, lasting but three days.
On account of ill health he did not enter active business life, but gave some attention to loaning money, living a quiet and retired life.
He was very widely and favorably known both in this city and in different parts of the state.
He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, with whom he has traveled the pathway of life for a little more than a quarter of a century; an only daughter, Mrs. C. J. Hamilton, of this city; an aged mother, familiarly known as Grandma Armstrong; John H. and L. D. Armstrong, brothers, all of this city.
He was a lover of music, especially church hymns. He would frequently ask the daughter to play and sing "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder."
He leaves a wide circle of friends, many of whom are among the early citizens of the place, who greatly mourn the loss of a true and honored citizen and friend. —A. E.
