

PURE BLOOD

NECESSARY TO HEALTH.

The Brock & McComas Co. Guarantee Vinol to Make Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

"We see every day on our streets many people whose faces plainly show impure and impoverished blood. We want everybody in Pendleton to know that Vinol is a splendid blood purifier and blood maker," said Mr. Brock, of the Brock & McComas Co.

"Vinol is the best preparation we ever sold in our store to make pure, rich, red blood, because it contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach.

"Vinol tones up and strengthens the nerves of the stomach and enables it to obtain from the food eaten the necessary elements to create pure, rich, red blood, and in this way every organ in the body is strengthened and invigorated, and the skin is cleared from all disfiguring eruptions."

Mr. F. W. Bean, of Wilmington, Del., writes: "I suffered for months with poor blood, loss of flesh and strength. My physician prescribed different remedies, none of which helped me. I was discouraged when a friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so and never saw anything like it; it purified and enriched my blood, increased my appetite, and I look and feel like a different man."

"We guarantee Vinol will purify and enrich the blood, create strength and build up every run down person in Pendleton, or stand ready to return the money in every case where it fails." Brock & McComas Co., druggists.

FROM T. C. TAYLOR

PENDLETONIAN EXPRESSES HIMSELF IN HAWAII.

Surprised at the Push and Vigor Exhibited in the Islands and Observes the Social Conditions in the Territory—Only Two Classes Found There: the Extremely Rich and Extremely Poor.

The following interview with T. C. Taylor appears in a recent number of the Hawaii Bulletin, one of the leading papers of Honolulu. It will be read with appreciation by the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor here:

"What do I think of Hawaii? Well, I should very much like to tell you, but I really can't. My thinking and descriptive powers have been put out of business by the wonderful scenes I have visited in this territory. All I can say is that since I arrived here with Mrs. Taylor we have marched from surprise to surprise and the resources, beauty and wealth of the country and the energy of its people which are in evidence everywhere have surpassed my wildest expectations."

Thus spoke T. C. Taylor, a prominent business man of Pendleton, Oregon, when seen at the Hawaiian hotel last evening by a Bulletin reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor arrived here on the last voyage of the Korea and with a party of tourists have been visiting all the interesting places of the islands. They returned from the volcano yesterday on the Mauna Loa and while waiting for the Mongolia which is due here on the 24th, will visit the sugar plantations and points of interest of this island.

Taylor Typical American.

Mr. Taylor is the typical American business man. He is an enthusiastic lover of the beauties of nature, but while reveling in the wondrous panorama offered by Hawaii to the stranger within her gates, never loses an occasion to observe and scrutinize with a business eye all the avenues of commerce and industry open in the places that he visits.

"I notice," said Mr. Taylor, "that all the steamship and railroad folders advertising Hawaii contain an appreciative quotation from Mark Twain. Really that doesn't begin to express what I feel about the islands. First of all Mrs. Taylor and myself have been treated right royally both here and on Hawaii. The hospitality and courtesy of the people are not surpassed anywhere; why, look at this hotel tonight," and Mr. Taylor, with a comprehensive gesture of the hand, pointed to the dining room and the banals of the Hawaiian where a large number of guests were being entertained at a Valentine's party; "can you imagine anything like this on the mainland? I guess not. I used to think that Hawaii was like all tropical countries, a land of listlessness and sleep and all that sort of thing, but I must apologize and admit that I was badly mistaken."

"The working energy of your business men I cannot comprehend and if President Roosevelt were here he would find all the strenuousness he wants. I am proud that it is an American land and delighted to notice the progressive spirit prevailing everywhere."

Very Rich and Very Poor.

"One thing seems to me to be a drawback, although perhaps it is inevitable and that is the holding of the wealth of the country by a small class of people. You have only two classes of people here, speaking generally. The very rich who are a small minority and the working classes, universally poor, which compose the great majority of the population. There does not seem to be any middle class and this, you know, is and should be the backbone of every country. But, then, it is true that in a certain way Hawaii is a new land, and that perhaps a few years more will see the islands peopled with American farmers and American artists."

"Of course, the labor question is a very delicate one. I am, myself, a large employer of labor and have always stood a friend to the working men in my employ, but I should not like to express an opinion upon the situation here. Conditions are so different, radically different, I might say, from those under which we live on the mainland, that a stranger who has but, at best, a superficial view of things should not be justified in expressing a dogmatic opinion upon so delicate a subject. I have full confidence, however, that the business men of Honolulu and Hawaii are entirely able to cope with any situation that may develop and that a few years hence Hawaii will be in a position to be welcomed heartily by all Americans into the sisterhood of states."

"The volcano is really one of the wonders of the world; it is worth coming from the uttermost ends of the earth to see. I came, I saw, was conquered and am certainly coming again. Mrs. Taylor is just as enthusiastic as I am and who would not be? The Volcano house is just such a place as it should be."

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have nothing but the highest words of praise for the reception given to visitors at the Volcano house and in this they are corroborated by their fellow tourists. They will depart for the coast on the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia, due here on the 24th.

Included in the party which visited the Volcano last week were: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Moore, Marshalltown, Iowa; L. Christian, Minneapolis, Minn.; O. R. and T. W. Sturgis, Ventura, Cal.; M. Guheen, Dubuque, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. E. Fuhr, Hill; J. C. Lusch, Ackley, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Moore, Le Mars, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Taylor of Pendleton, Oregon.
