MACARONI.

One Story of the Origin of the Name and the Dish.

A great many stories are in existence about the origin of the word "macaroni" and the invention of the dish so designated. According to one authority, a drunken chef employed by one of the popes was responsible both for the name and the dish. He was preparing a soufflé for the papal soup, and, having taken considerably more than a drop too much, he went on stirring the flour until the soufflé was of the consistency of hard tack. The assistant chef, knowing that his holiness was not overpatient about things pertaining to the table, ventured to call the attention of his chef to this fact, and the latter, being a resourceful man, decided to make a paste instead of a soufflé.

He waited the result with some anxiety and responded to a call to appear before his holiness with considerable perturbation. Visions of a stay in the papal dungeon rose before him, and when the pontiff asked, with a smiling face, for the name of the wonderful paste served in the soup he was too nervous to think of a name. "My caro" (my favorite) he replied at last, and the pontiff, not catching the words exactly, said: "Macaroni? Well, in future never serve me a meal without a dish of macaroni."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A BRAVE TOREADOR.

One of the Most Thrilling Incidents of the Bull Ring.

The famous Spanish toreador Reverte figured in one of the most thrilling incidents ever witnessed in the arena. It was at Bayonne. After disposing of two bulls Reverte had twice plunged his sword into a third of great strength and ferocity, and as the beast continued careering wildly the spectators began to hiss Reverte for bungling. Wounded to the very quick of his pride, the Spaniard shouted, "The bull is slain!" and, throwing aside his sword, sank on one knee with folded arms in the middle of the ring. He was right, but he had not allowed for the margin of accident. The wounded beast charged full upon him, but the matadore, splendid to the last, knelt motionless as a statue, while the spectators held their breath in horrified suspense. Reverting his victim, the bull literally bounded at him, and as he sprang he sank in death, with his last effort giving one fearful lunge of the head that drove a horn into the thigh of the kneeling man and laid bare the bone from the knee to the joint. Still Reverte never flinched, but remained kneeling, exultant in victory, but calmly contemptuous of applause, till he was carried away to heal him of his grievous wound.

UMATILLA PICTURE

VALUABLE ADDITION TO HISTORICAL EXHIBIT.

Mrs. B. F. Swaggart Will Permit Use of a Painting of Willow Springs Indian Fight, Which Took Place on Butter Creek During the Bannock War—Painting Sold Once for $50 But Mrs. Swaggart Repented and Bought it Back.

The historical exhibit from Umatilla county at the Lewis and Clark fair will be enriched by a painting of the Willow Springs Indian fight which took place on Butter Creek in June, 1878, during the Bannock Indian war. Mrs. B. F. Swaggart of this city, is the artist and arrangements are now being made by the exhibit committee of the Commercial association to secure this picture for the historical building.

The picture was painted from the actual scene of the battle, Mrs. Swaggart visiting the battleground and making her sketches from nature. The picture sold in this city several years ago for $50, but Mrs. Swaggart repented having sold it and bought it back again and will not part with it now at any price. She has consented to allow it to be exhibited in the historical building as part of the Umatilla county exhibit, however, and it will form a valuable addition to the collection of subjects from historical Umatilla.

Mrs. Swaggart is painting a duplicate picture of the fight which she prizes very highly. It is possible that a print of one of her pictures will appear in a short story of the Bannock war now being written by Mrs. Oglesby of Cottage Grove.

Superior Judge Albertson, of Seattle, holds that a consumptive tendency—hereditary or acquired—on the part of a person pledged to marry, is sufficient ground for the other party to break the engagement, and the consumptive can have no recourse in a suit for breach of promise damages.

A PENDLETON MAN IS SKEPTICAL

But Is Quickly Convinced

AN INCIDENT WHICH OCCURRED AT ALLEN & GILBERT-RAMAKER'S PIANO HOUSE, UNDER THE BOWMAN HOTEL, IN PENDLETON.

A Brother Paid $500 to a Local Firm For a Piano of the Same Make and Style That Allen & Gilbert-Ramaker Co. Now Furnish for $375.

"Ever since the first announcement of your opening sale," said a prominent business man of Pendleton yesterday, "my wife has been urging me to examine your stock of pianos. But there's so much humbug in advertising that I did not take much stock in it until I found yesterday that our bookkeeper had secured a piano from you for $375 of the same make and style for which my brother paid $500 to a local house a year ago. That is why I visited your store Friday morning, and that is why I bought my piano from you."

The reason for this great difference in price is easily explained—we sell direct to the customer and save the purchaser the middleman's profit. We could cite other cases of the same nature, and fully realize that several families want pianos today, but on account of the high prices quoted by the regular dealer they do not feel that they can afford to purchase a high-grade piano. To these parties we will say that we can save them from $100 to $150 on a first-class instrument.

Call and investigate our easy terms of selling.
