BETTER CLASS OF RAILROAD MEN

LEWIS AND CLARK ARE STRANGERS IN TEXAS.

"Blinky" Morgan, formerly of This City, writes to the East Oregonian that he sees no Lewis and Clark Fair Literature Along the Rock Island Road—Longs for Oregon and Will Come Back as Soon as Possible.

The Pendleton.
That the Lewis and Clark fair is not thoroughly advertised in Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma, is shown by a letter from an enthusiastic Oregonian now working at Dalhart, Texas, and who has recently traveled all over the three states mentioned.

"Blinky" Morgan, the well known locomotive engineer who has worked for a number of years on the O. R. & N., writes the East Oregonian from Dalhart, Texas, where he is running an engine on the Rock Island, that in all his travels after leaving Colorado, he saw but two posters or other advertising circulars concerning the Lewis and Clark fair and a majority of the people in that country are comparatively ignorant of it.

"I am coming back to the Northwest," writes Mr. Morgan, "as soon as possible. I have been all over Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, and the Northwest railroads are 20 years ahead of this country."

"On this division on which I am running out of Dalhart, is one stretch of track 75 miles long, without a curve in it. Passenger runs here pay $250 per month, and are from 150 to 200 miles in length. The engines are all simple engines and they make good time, their passenger trains having schedules of from 50 to 60 miles per hour."

"This country is all as dry as a barnyard and is nothing like old Oregon. The weather is now hot on the Texas prairies and the creeks are drying up."

"I did not find a place in Kansas, Texas nor Oklahoma where a good Pendleton meal could be bought for less than 50 cents. Eggs are still 40 cents per dozen down here and fruit is out of the question."

"A man who can find standing room in Oregon is foolish to try to find a place to sit down in Texas."

Investors are Here.

S. J. Johnson and E. Lucas, both of Jennings, Louisiana, are in the city in company with Col. R. C. Judson, of the industrial department of the O. R. & N. These gentlemen are from the rice district of Louisiana and are looking over the Northwest states with a view to locating, if conditions and opportunity suit them. They are well pleased with the appearance of Pendleton and express surprise at the wonderful resources of Umatilla county of which they had heard somewhat before coming to Oregon.

Bee Hunting in Adirondacks.

There is a charm about bee hunting peculiar to this particular spot, and it can be enjoyed wherever bees locate. There were flowers about the camp, over which we had often noticed honeybees hovering, and the guide said he had been watching their maneuvers and it was about time to give them a chase. Our outfit was very simple, consisting of a box about four inches square, divided into two parts by an ordinary slide, the lower compartment containing a piece of bread or honeycomb saturated with a sirup made of sugar and water boiled. The slide was pushed into place and the decoy was ready for the bee family. It is easy to trap a honeybee if one only knows how.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Thoughtful Empress.

One evening Catherine II. of Russia had dined in one town and was to return to her palace in another some miles distant. These journeys were made with much ceremony and magnificence. The great sleighs were ready to start for home. Catherine sat alone in the imperial sleigh. She inquired if the drivers and the footmen had had dinner. Receiving a negative reply, she at once left her sleigh. "They have as much need of dinner as we," she said to her party. And she waited patiently until the servants had dined.

Cholly—it was the first time I'd met Crabbe, mind you, and he actually called me a fool. Hadn't been talking to him ten minutes, don't you know. What sort of fellow is he, anyway? Miss Peppery—Well, he's awfully slow, for one thing.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Indirect Action.

Hix—Did that trip to Europe relieve your mind of your family troubles? Dix—Indirectly, yes; it emptied my pocketbook so successfully that I was obliged to take my mind off my family for awhile to replenish it.—Detroit Free Press.

On the Pullman.

"Let's get out at the next station and stretch our legs."
"Oh, leave that to the porter."—Cleveland Leader.

Shining in Society.

Jim—Scrags is shining in society. Jam—So? Jim—Yes; private bootblack for the Gouldberilts.—Princeton Tiger.

A little sorrow may teach more than many sermons.—Chicago Tribune.

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world—A Mother's Love; the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this love she could not endure the agonies incident to childbirth; appreciative of this love, Mother's Friend was devised to lessen the pain and anguish of childbirth, that her love might not be strained to the breaking point. Mother's Friend does all this and more—it enables the fond mother to speedily recuperate from the labors of maternity, enables her to regain her lost strength, preserves her youthful lines of beauty, and makes pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

is applied externally, is most harmless in its consistency, most happy in its results, and is of such merit that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdominal muscles during pregnancy, and by its use their tonicity and power of contraction is greatly enhanced, enabling them to sustain the great strains brought to bear on them at this time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to recommend it to all who expect to be mothers. OSTEOPATHY.

"What do you do, just rub?" "How can you cure 'this' by rubbing?" These and like questions clearly reveal the ignorance of the quizzier of Osteopathy and the principles underlying it. Deplorable it is that this ignorance or wilful deception is often displayed by the medical doctors and promulgated in the medical journals.

Succinctly told, Osteopathy is pushing slightly displaced bones to position with thumb, fingers, hand or knee, loosening and straightening stiff and curved spines and ribs, loosening contracted muscles and ligaments, and not rubbing, kneading, patting, pulling, as misguided people often believe.

Its growth is testimony of its scientific basis and successful practice. Eleven years old, four thousand practitioners, fifteen hundred students, ten colleges, practitioners in every state, recognized by laws in twenty-seven states (ratified in Oregon through opposition of medical doctors in senate), the accepted system of treatment for all ailments wherever understood, and often called to save when medicine has given up, numbering with its adherents, several United States senators, and representatives, governors, Mark Twain, Ella Wheeler Wilcox and other notables.

The East Oregonian is Eastern Oregon's representative paper. It leads and the people appreciate it and show it by their liberal patronage. It is the advertising medium of this section.
