LOSSES BY PESTS

BULLETIN ON "WORMY APPLES" IS ISSUED.

Washington Agricultural College Gives Information on Fruit Pests—Over $200,000 Lost in Inland Empire Last Year Through Pests in Fruits—Formula for Spraying Apple and Pear Trees.

A. L. Melander of the zoology department of the state college of Washington, has just published a bulletin on "The Wormy Apple."

Last year 1500 carloads of apples, valued at $600,000, were carried by rail from the Inland Empire and this was less than one-half of the amount grown. Those not shipped were wormy and were left to rot or to be consumed at home. It is figured that the farmer lost $200,000 to the worms on last year's crop.

The codling moth is the cause of the wormy apples though not many fruitgrowers are willing to believe it. The borer which destroys the apple is the larvae, or worm form of the moth. Wherever the apple can grow the codling moth can live also.

The apple is essentially the food of the codling worm. In some sections of the state two generations of worms occur each season. The worm of the first brood is hatched from a tiny flat egg laid by the mother on or near the young apple. When it hatches it seeks shelter in the calyx of the apple. Now it proceeds to burrow into the apple feeding as it goes, remaining there for two or three weeks, or till it is grown, then it emerges and seeks another hiding place.

When a suitable place is found it spins a cocoon and in this it pupates, that is, it changes to the brownish, legless worm. After two weeks it is again transformed to the moth. Now eggs of the second brood are laid on the apples and when hatched the worms burrow through the skins of the apples. Again this second brood cocoon and remain over winter as larvae.

Spraying, if done at the proper time, is the effectual remedy for getting rid of these pests. The time for the first spraying is just after the blossoms have fallen and before the calyx cup has closed; but as the blossoms fall about two weeks before the majority of the worms enter the apple, it is necessary to spray a second time two weeks after the first treatment.

These two sprayings usually prove an effectual campaign against the first brood; however, if a spraying is needed for the second brood it should take place about a week after the moths appear to allow for the incubation period of the egg. Even a fourth spraying may be necessary two weeks later. It is essential to spray well and at the proper time.

The formula for spraying solution for apple and pear trees stands: Paris green.....1 pound Lime.....1 to 2 pounds Water.....150 gallons

A Lincoln Story.

Colonel William H. Crook, who in 1862 was appointed a special body-guard to President Lincoln, and who is now the disbursing officer at the White House, says: "Mr. Lincoln used to say many funny things. He kept me laughing at his stories. I remember one evening, just before the close of the civil war, that he had some visitors at the White House, among them some senators and members of congress. One of the guests asked the president what he would do with Jefferson Davis if he were captured. Crossing his legs and looking at his friends with the peculiar twinkle in his eyes, he said: 'Gentlemen, that reminds me of an incident of my home in Illinois. One morning, when I was on my way to the office, I saw a small boy standing on a street corner crying as if his heart would break. I asked him what was the cause of his sorrow. He said: 'Mister, don't you see that coon?' pointing to a poor little beast that he had tied to a string. 'Well, that animal has given me a heap of trouble all the way along, and now he has nearly gnawed the string in two. I wish to goodness he would gnaw it in two and get away, so I could go home and tell my folks he had escaped from me.' Gentlemen, this homely story carries its own lesson and answers your question.' Everybody knew that Mr. Lincoln had no feeling of bitterness against the people of the South, and that he always advised tenderness and leniency in dealing with those who surrendered to the Union cause."

Will Soon Be a Billionaire.

It is said that if John D. Rockefeller lives 10 years longer he will be worth $1,000,000,000, at the present rate of increase of his fortune. The New York Commercial, a business and financial paper, estimates the value of his present possessions at $550,000,000. Although his name appears in but one corporation, the Standard Oil, as an officer or director, he is the largest stockholder in railroad and industrial companies in the United States and probably in the world. His yearly income is put at $50,000,000, which is four times greater than that of the Czar of Russia and 20 times that of the King of England.—Sacramento Bee.

THE FAIR

A GIRL'S NATURE.

Little Signs That, if Seized, Reveal Phases of Character.

Much of a girl's nature is betrayed by the little act of brushing a speck off a man's coat. If she picks off the thread or imaginary bit of lint very carefully between the thumb and forefinger it is an indisputable sign that she is a woman of a very practical and executive character.

On the other hand, if a girl should brush the coat lapel of her fiancé very softly and tenderly with the second and third finger of her hand in her endeavor to remove an invisible speck it is a sure sign that she is more sentimental than practical. The man who marries her will live in a continual atmosphere of romance and bad house-keeping.

There is still another type of girl who will brush the speck off a man's coat with a broad sweep of the hand in which all the fingers and thumb play a part. She is in all probability an athletic girl who excels at tennis, golf and the links and who will prove a high spirited, strong minded woman after marriage.

Then, again, the girl who puts a flower in a man's coat with her hand held jauntily upturned from the wrist and the flower held in the tips of her fingers is sure to be something of a coquette, while the maid who gives you only the tips of her fingers when she greets you in the drawing room or public street is probably an ambitious girl.—Chicago Journal.
