AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Lost in the Lava Beds.

The 23-year-old son of Mr. Joe Tofsky of Dubois, is the subject of an experience that will stay fast by his memory for life, having spent four days and nights in wandering around in the lava and sagebrush plains of Idaho without water, food or shelter.

Last Thursday, says the St. Anthony Chronicle, the family came over from Dubois to lay in their spring supplies. When the trading was finished and everything was ready for a start for home, the young man told his parents that he would walk on ahead and, taking the north road, he started out on foot. This was the last seen of him until by chance he was discovered by J. M. Core near his ranch on lower Sand creek. Mr. Core was working on his claim when the boy wandered near by, and his peculiar actions caused Mr. Core to investigate. He went to the young man and found him in a most pitiable condition. His tongue was so swolten and black for the want of water that he could not speak a word and was practically on the point of complete exhaustion. He could not make himself understood and seemed to be completely out of his mind.

Mr. Core immediately recognized what the trouble was and asking the young man to his claim he gave him water in small quantities from time to time and finally toward morning administered a little broth. As the young man did not seem to recover as he should he took his team and brought the young man to the city, where he was soon recognized and placed in the hands of the doctor. His father was sent for and arrived in town to find the boy improving very slowly but gradually.

The doctors say that the young man would have died from thirst and exhaustion inside of three hours more if he had not received help from Mr. Core.

Idaho Wool Moving.

Wool has commenced to move and from now until the clip has been shipped there will be considerable activity in shipping circles. At Mountainhome it is said that the warehouses are rapidly filling up and at other points it is coming in rapidly. Joe Plaisted of the C. M. & St. P., loaded a car at Mountainhome on Monday for Frank Johnson. From Chicago Mr. Vincent gets it for the Erie road. On Tuesday Mr. Plaisted loaded a car at Payette for J. M. Johnson. Both carloads were consigned to Boston parties.—Boise Capital News.

Oil on Roadbed.

The Short Line was so well pleased with the experiment last year of sprinkling the track between Boise and the main line with crude petroleum, that it will be done again this spring. An extra gang will put in a lot of ties at once and surface up the roadbed in good shape preparatory to giving it a coat of oil. The traveling public greatly appreciate the nice, clean roadbed last summer between Boise and Nampa and will be glad to know of the intention of the company to again keep down the dust during the dry season.—Boise Capital News.

Water System for Ontario.

At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening a 10-year franchise was granted to Seymour H. Bell of Sumpter, to put in a water system for the city at a cost of $35,000 in connection with his electric light plant. The city agrees to put in 15 hydrants for fire protection. Work will commence within the next 60 days on a deep well to be bored 250 feet to furnish pure water to supply the system.—Ontario Democrat.

Big Real Estate Deal.

A Spokane real estate firm has closed a deal for 38,000 acres of North Yakima land at $4 per acre: $152,000. The land is all wild and slightly rolling, and is in a section where many artesian wells have been struck. The firm resold four sections to a St. Paul man who will sink a well on every 80 acres.—Goldendale Sentinel.

Will Be Hop Shortage.

If the figures which have come into possession of a local hop dealer do not fabricate, and if all of the hops that at present exist in the hands of growers and dealers remain in the United States, the prospect is that the supply will fall short of the demand to the extent of 48,777 bales of hops this year, says the Salem Statesman. This statement is based upon figures received from the United States departments of internal revenue and agriculture, which show that the total amount of beer brewed by the brewers of America during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, upon which taxes were paid, aggregated 48,208,133 barrels, requiring over 38,000,000 pounds of hops, or an average of .82 pounds of hops to the barrel, a fraction over four-fifths of a pound.
