Put on a fretful face— Scowl at the world—you'll find it shows The very same grimace. The world is like a looking-glass. And if you wish to be On pleasant terms with all you pass. Smile on them pleasantly; Be hopeful, generous and true. And very soon you'll find Each face reflected back to you. An image bright and kind. —Selected.

LET US KEEP OUR PLEDGE.

The word of Umatilla county is pledged to the Open River association for a $5000 donation to the portage deficit fund.

By May 15 this fund will be needed and should be forthcoming. So far over two-fifths of it has been subscribed and something should be done to guarantee the remainder, either by personal guarantees of a few private citizens or by actual donations collected by solicitors among the farmers of the county.

At any rate, the full amount should be available by the time it will be needed. It may not all be needed, but under the terms of the agreement with the Open River association, all of the fund must be pledged and whatever is not used will be redistributed, pro rata, among the subscribers.

The word of Umatilla county is as good as the gold.

Let us keep our pledge and be ready to bear our share of the burden. We will be the beneficiary of the portage.

NOW FOR PAVEMENT.

The best exhibit Pendleton can make to the passing homeseker is to pave Main street from the bridge to Bluff street, as partially determined by the city council last night.

No other exhibit would speak such volumes to the prospective investor as this.

Property owners all along Main street should be heartily in favor of this plan. Speaking for itself, the East Oregonian is delighted to see this work begin and has long agitated such a move. It would have paved the street abutting its property years ago, had adjoining property holders been willing to undertake the work.

Then after deciding to pave the streets, cause every property owner to place concrete sidewalks in front of the buildings. The day of the wooden sidewalk on main streets is past. It is almost as antiquated as a clapboard roof among the brick blocks of a modern city.

Then after deciding definitely to pave the street, make some provision for a park or a resting place and a resort for the people in the summer evenings. The $10 reward for a public seat in Pendleton is still posted.

DOES PORTLAND MEAN IT?

Letters from the Portland Chamber of Commerce, to the different newspapers of Oregon, inquire what industries are most needed in the different localities, and state that while the first object in making these inquiries is to place investors at the Lewis and Clark fair in touch with communities needing capital, yet the ultimate and chief object of the inquiry is to help develop the isolated districts of Oregon.

What a long time it has required to bring Portland to her senses in these matters! Had she begun sending out such letters 20 years ago, and had she followed them up with actual capitalists looking for investments, Oregon would now have 1,000,000 population and 3000 miles of railroad reaching into every nook and corner and the valuation of property of the state would be $300,000,000 instead of less than $2,000,000.

Does Portland really mean it? It is too good to believe.

THE THRUST OF A COWARD.

An alleged commercial traveler, speaking to the Baker City Herald about Ashland, from the standpoint of a temperance town, says that while there are no saloons in Ashland, that drunkenness is more prevalent than when saloons were allowed and that the drug stores sell whiskey by the barrel.

This is the testimony of a moral coward and a prejudiced liar. In the first place, a letter published in the East Oregonian from M. H. Lee, of this county, and written from Ashland a few days ago, spoke emphatically of the good moral conditions of Ashland and had there been any drunkenness noticeable it would have been mentioned by this correspondent who was looking over Southern Oregon for a place to locate permanently.

In the second place, Ashland is a railroad town and every year the companies are shutting down more closely upon drunkenness and it was the railroad men themselves who made prohibition possible in Ashland. The fact that railroad companies publicly post rules against employees even frequenting saloons, habitually, is a striking testimony to the public that the traffic is dangerous, else railroad companies would not care for drunken engineers and conductors handling the lives of the public. If it is dangerous for this class of employees, why not for others?

In the next place drug stores do not furnish a loafing place where crowds may gather and "soak up" gradually. A man who buys liquor at a drug store usually takes it home and if there is any evil effects from that bottle it is confined to the drinker's home and is not paraded on the street.

And even if Ashland drug stores do sell more whiskey than before the saloon was abolished, prohibition has not reduced the peach crop, the mineral wealth, the lumber traffic, the apple yield, nor the shipment of hogs and cattle to San Francisco markets, upon which Ashland depends for its support.

Idle Portland capital could have builded a railroad into Klamath county 20 years ago, thereby opening up the entire central Oregon district and clinching all the tributary trade for Portland. Now that San Francisco is tapping that district, Portland forever loses a large hunk of Oregon territory.

Since the teachers of normal schools can draw their pay, appropriation or no appropriation, it is expected that the Portland Oregonian crowd will get out an injunction against these salaries being paid as other state salaries are paid, with promptness and regularity.

It is safe to say that any apparent success of the Russian fleet is erroneous. The wireless currents were evidently "crossed" when the loss of five Japanese vessels was sent out by the Russian consul at Hong Kong.

It would be a shame to call President Roosevelt away from his hilarious wolf hunt for a day or so, to order Castro whipped.

SERMON ON BROTHERHOOD.

When a hog eats an ear of corn, all the other hogs will trot along behind and beg and are ready for a bite; but just let that hog get his head in a crack and every son of a sow will jump on and help tear him to pieces. Just so it is with men. As long as one is prosperous and has money, he can't keep his friends off with a baseball bat. The moment he is unfortunate and his money gone, he is not only snubbed by his former friends but they begin to do him all manner of harm possible. When a man starts down grade the world steps aside and greases the track.—The Dallas Chronicle.

TO FORM A NEW STATE.

It is reported from Washington that at the next session of congress in December a bill will be presented to form a new state out of East Tennessee, Southeastern Kentucky and Southwest Virginia. The bill, it is said, will be pushed by Representative Brownlow, of Tennessee; Slemp, of Virginia, and Edwards of Kentucky. All three of these men represent the territory included in the boundaries of the new state. The region was the old stronghold of the Southern loyalists during the Civil War, and is republican in sentiment. It furnishes practically the entire republican representation in congress from the South. It was from this region that "Parson" Brownlow, the famous Union governor of Tennessee, came, and the Brownlow who is to support and introduce the bill is his nephew. Aside from partisan considerations, the region has always been out of sympathy with the other sections of the three states. The scheme, it is said, contemplates the location of the capital at Knoxville.

James Malloy, a fisherman of Bartonsville, N. Y., started across the Hudson in a rowboat at that place last night with six Poles and before reaching the other shore the boat capsized and Malloy and four Poles were drowned.

CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from all that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity."—B. F. Floner, Rosanoke, Ill.

A Real New Fangled FLAT IRON

Now Being Introduced in Pendleton for the First Time—is Different From All Others.

H. P. Carver Manufacturing Co., of Racine, Wis., have their representatives in the city canvassing for one of the very latest and most improved smoothing irons and polishers ever invented. It is a unique contrivance that is attractive as well as it is useful. There are many varieties and kinds of flat irons in existence, but this is something entirely different of any that has yet been put on the market.

The exterior is a nickel-plated box resembling the original flat iron, highly polished. The iron proper is inside of this box and is a malleable chunk, weighing less than three pounds. It is made with space in the center to prevent its expansion beyond the cavity in which it is designed to work and at the same time radiates all the heat that is possible. It is so made that it can be placed in the open fire and heated to red heat.

When it is put inside of the nickel-plated enclosure it holds the heat for a period of 30 minutes and the metal of the enclosure is oxidized so that the heat, while it is very intense, does not radiate, and there is no more warmth than comes from the ordinary flat iron when hot enough to be used. One side of the iron is finished for a polisher and does all kinds of work in that line as neatly as any laundry in the city.

It is reversible and one side can be used as well as the other. It is a contrivance that unquestionably meets a long felt want and is its own best recommendation. Agents are now canvassing the city and expect to open headquarters for the remainder of the season.
