IN FRUIT HARVEST

1000 PICKERS WILL BE EMPLOYED AT FREEWATER.

Three-fourths This Number Are Residents—Earliest Crate of Strawberries in the History of the District Were Marketed May 8—Crop Will Not Be as Large as That of Some Previous Years—Three Companies Will Ship 15,000 Crates.

Freewater, Or., May 22.—The strawberry harvest will soon be in full swing. The touch of brilliant red of the ripe strawberry against its green background of leaves, is already to be seen on all sides. Here and there are to be seen tents by ones and twos and in groups of half a dozen, showing that pickers from outside points are here to help take care of the annual strawberry harvest. During the season probably 1000 pickers are employed, of which number fully three-fourths are local people, the other 250 pickers coming from Walla Walla and from Weston and other Umatilla county points. The acreage is constantly increasing and in time the strawberry picking may become to this county what hop-picking is to the Willamette valley.

The first crate of strawberries to be brought in this year came in on May 8, this being the earliest crate to be marketed since the introduction of the strawberry industry at Freewater. The next earliest year was in 1895, 10 years ago, when a crate was brought in on May 10, two days later than this year. The first crate brought in this year brought $4. Though the season for ripening is earlier than usual, the cool, cloudy weather has retarded the ripening and they are coming in more slowly than usual. The crop will not be as large in quantity as some years, as when the weather is chilly the blossoms are not fertilized as they are in warmer weather, and a smaller proportion of the flowers develop into berries.

A considerable quantity of asparagus and early peas has been shipped this season.

S. S. Shields, of the Shields Fruit company, of Freewater, in discussing the crop outlook, said:

"Strawberries will be excellent in quality, but a little short in quantity. Cherries around Freewater and Milton will be up to the average in yield with good prospects of a brisk demand at good prices, as the crop of cherries near the state line was frozen as was the case also around Pendleton. Peaches will be about half a crop, but those we have will be extra large as the trees will not be overloaded, as is the case some years."

"Apples, pears and blackberries will make a good crop this year, from present indications. Probably not over 15,000 crates of strawberries will be shipped this year from the three companies represented here. In addition to this there will be a good many peddled throughout the county. There are three companies here handling fruit. All three of these companies make their own crates and boxes. The strawberry boxes come in the knocked-down form from the sound and are purchased in carload lots. They are fastened together with a wire stitcher. To show how expert the workmen become in making the boxes, Frank Shields has made 3500 boxes in a forenoon without a helper. He holds the record for the greatest number of boxes made in a day, in any of the Freewater factories."

N. W. Mumford estimates that his company will ship about 7000 crates of berries this season. Berries are bringing $2 a crate at present. The principal variety grown here is the Hood River berry.

FRED LOCKLEY.

NORRIS & ROWE COMING.

Well Known Circus Will Be in Pendleton June 5.

Until the present season Norris & Rowe's greater circus made no attempt to make a special feature of riding acts. Their contention was that until they could secure the very highest class of equestrians to present to their patrons, they would not offer inferior acts of this nature.

There are but few, indeed, of the expert equestrians in this country, and it took a correspondence of over three years to arrive the lady and gentlemen riders. Norris & Rowe have with them this year.

However, continued offers of unusually large salaries finally won the day and the young circus owners now take more than ordinary pride in introducing such celebrities of the arena as Miss Rose Dockrill of the celebrated Dockrill family; Mr. George Holland and Frank Miller, the acknowledged leaders of horsemanship; Austin Kning, champion jockey and hurdle rider; Dolly Miller, William Sutton, Joseph Haines, Mlle. Julien and Estelle Settler, all expert bare-back riders.

The beautiful horses, under the guidance of the equestrians, seem to possess almost human intelligence, and it is a genuine artistic treat to witness what trained athletes can accomplish by kindness and gentleness toward their dumb companions when they love. While going at racing speed, the equestrians turn somersaults upon the horses' backs; lightning leaps from the ground and from one horse to another. The display is thrilling in the extreme and must be seen to be fully appreciated. The Norris & Rowe greater circus exhibits at Pendleton on June 5.

Indiana Masons in Session. Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge F. & A. M. of Indiana, convened at the Masonic Temple in this city today. Representatives were present from more than 500 lodges throughout the state. The reports showed that six new lodges were added during the year with a net increase in membership of about 1500.
