OWL TEA HOUSE

COMMENCEMEN OF HIGH SCHOO

FRAZIER THEATER WAS PACKED TO THE DOORS.

Class Attended, One Being Absent -Forcible, Practical and Deeply Interesting Address by Superintendent Ackerman - The General Program Was Interesting, and House Nicely Decorated.

With the Frazer theater packed to the doors with friends and relatives tories, the matter is summed up thus; of the graduates, the commencement exercises of thae Pendleton high school were held last night. The stage and front part of the opera house were nicely decorated with palms and green boughs, and the whole made a charming scene, with class this year, but one, Miss Serita Howland, was absent because of a death in her household. The nine upon the stage were Effie Smith, Mary Rust, Elva Turner, Louise Grey, Mary Williams, Josephine Cameron, Smith, Albert Warner and Fred Milne.

Foreible, Practical Talk.

The commencement address was delivered by State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman, and was a forcible, practical talk. In his address the modern trend of education was discussed, and the history of the various changes that have been made in the common school courses was given. All of these, according to the state superintendent, showed that the schools followed and did not lead, that they were changed and improved to meet the needs of the world. Also, that the additions to the various branches to the school course all came as the result of outside pressure and against the will of the teachers themselves.

That culture may be derived from the study of things that are practihave no such bearings was upheld by Mr. Ackerman, and this he declared was the keynote of modern education.

In conclusion he admonished the members of the class not to despair of they broke no records and if they did meet with success, to remember that their path was made smooth by the labor of parents and educators.

Following Mr. Ackerman's address a few brief remarks were made by City Superintendent Conklin. and fol-

"The heat of hot springs may be due: First-To the internal heat of the earth, which meteoric waters acquire by penetrating the rocks, after which they come to the surface as thermal springs.

"Second—Ordinarily, this heat is simply due to the regular downward increase of the earth of one degree the graduates as the center of inter-est. There are 10 members of the temperature may be lower or higher. according to the depth penetrated. "Third-In regions of mountain cor-

rugation thermal springs are of higher temperature than in uhdisturbed regions, probably because mechanical movement attending plication in-creases the amount of heat, and fractures caused allow water to penetrate

"Fourth-Thermal springs occur pre-eminently in regions of eruptive rocks, recent or ancient, and no boiling springs are found outside of volcanic areas, proving that in such area downward increase of heat in rocks is greater.

'Heat increases with depth generally, but may be to a certain extent in-dependent of depth.

Shower for Miss Thompson

Mrs. John Vert was hostess for two pleasant affairs this week on Friday afternoon and evening. Each were shower parties given in honor of Miss Thompson. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and wild blooms. In the reception hall marguerites and green ferns were tastefully arranged. The color scheme of pink was carried out in the living m, with La France roses and green foliage as a decoration. The dining was very attractive in yellow broom. The electrollers were Scotch broom. oded in the corresponding shades of the different rooms, and with the light of day excluded, made a pleasing picture.

The dainty tied parcels for the shower were tied together with pink ribbons and suspended from the arch in the form of an alcove. Here Miss Thompson was seated when the ribbons were drawn and the numerous gifts were showered upon her.

A feature of the afternoon pleasure was the reading poetry suitable to the occasion, composed by the guests.

Mrs. Minnie Stillman was awarded the prize as having the best composition, which was as follows:
