MORROW COUNTY HAPPENINGS.

Narration of Events Compiled From the Times.

Prewett Cox, who has been a Pendleton visitor for some time past, returned Friday last to accept a position as freight agent with the O. R. & N. at Heppner.

Vawter Crawford has accepted the position of assistant cashier of the Bank of Heppner. But in taking this position Mr. Crawford informs the Times that he has no intention of resigning his position as county clerk.

The wool balers at both Heppner ware houses were started up the first of the week and shipments of wool will soon be on the road to the east. Wool is coming in now quite rapidly and the balers will be kept constantly going for several weeks.

Since last Friday there has been shipped from the Heppner stockyards about 100 cars, or four trainloads of sheep. This makes about 200 carloads that have been shipped from here during the past two weeks, and there is probably as many more to be shipped.

E. G. Noble, E. C. Ashbaugh and Otto Friederich have been elected delegates to the grand lodge from Willow Lodge No. 66, I. O. O. F., and Mrs. D. O. Justus, Mrs. J. W. Rasmus and Mrs. J. L. Yeager have been elected delegates to the grand assembly by Pine Tree Rebekah lodge.

F. P. Farnsworth returned the latter part of the week from an extensive trip through Washington, visiting Spokane and other towns of the eastern part of the state. Mr. Farnsworth tells the Times that he has recently bought a band of sheep and expects to buy another, thus entering into the sheep business even more extensively than heretofore.

R. F. Hynd informs the Times that he bought a clip of 89 fleeces of wool of L. A. Florence the other day for which he paid 20 1-2 cents a pound. Each fleece netted Mr. Florence $2.36 or $219.02 for the 89. This is another evidence of the advantages of running sheep in small bands. Two of the fleeces, each of which weighed 14 pounds, were sent to the fair as part of Morrow county's wool exhibit.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE MEETING.

Miss Mary N. Chase Will Speak at M. E. Church Monday Night.

Miss Mary N. Chase, a national organizer of the Woman's Suffrage association, and president of the New Hampshire association, will speak on the subject of Woman's Suffrage, at the Thompson Street M. E. church, on next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Judge S. A. Lowell will preside at the meeting and will also make a brief address on the subject.

Miss Chase is now in the east end of Umatilla county, where she has been working in the interest of equal suffrage during the past week.

An effort will be made to organize a club in Pendleton and all who are interested in the subject are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Petitions asking for the submission of the equal suffrage amendment to the Oregon constitution will be circulated, and the matter will be voted on again at the coming state election in June, 1906.

MILTON WILL VOTE MONDAY.

Local Option Election Will Be Held June 5.

Baffled once by a technicality that crept into the records of the local option election held last November in Milton precinct, the people of that town are determined that nothing shall be left undone to secure them in their wishes on next Monday, when a local option election will be held there.

Every precaution has been taken to comply with the law to the letter and the people are confident that both North and South Milton precincts will carry "dry" and consequently close up the Freewater saloons.

Great interest is being taken in the matter and a full vote will be cast.

Admiral Rojestvensky stated in an interview at Sasebo that he hoped to get his fleet clear of Tsu island and into the open Japan sea during a fog, but a stiff wind arose and disclosed his position.

He Did Not Stop to Think.

The amount of energy people sometimes expend in making a bad matter worse is illustrated by the story of a chance encounter in a street car told to the World by a New York man.

It was on a Broadway car, and there were few passengers. A man boarded the car and sat down by my side. His clothing was muddy and torn, and he had a handkerchief wrapped round one hand.

"I guess I am the biggest fool in town," he remarked. I looked interested, and he continued:

"See that car four blocks ahead? Well, I ran a block to overtake it and gave the conductor a dime. He handed me a nickel, which fell from my hand to the street. I yelled for him to stop the car. He did not do it, and I jumped off and landed all spraddled out like an old saddle. See my clothes? Well, the jump did it."

I asked the man if he found the nickel.

"Oh, yes, I found the nickel, but what good did it do me? I could not overtake the car from which I had jumped, and so I boarded this car and gave the nickel to the conductor. So I skinned my hand, spoiled my clothes and risked my neck just to find that five cent piece and give it to the street railway."

All the Transfers She Had.

As a bevy of laughing girls rose to get off a street car the other day at a point where transfers are given they were followed by a demure young woman who had been absorbed in a novel. Just before she alighted she asked the conductor for a transfer, and he, thinking all the girls were of one party, gave her six, which she took without noticing and held in her hand as she stood on the corner waiting for her car, the other girls having gone on walking. When the reader got her car she took a seat and was soon lost again in her novel. Then the conductor came up, and she held out the slips. He took them, counted them and then looked around with a puzzled expression. "Where are the others?" he asked. "Oh," replied the young woman, looking up a moment from her book, "that's all he gave me."—Philadelphia Record.

The First Phonograph.

The first words reproduced and uttered by a phonograph are naturally a matter of historical interest. When Edison was at work on his first phonograph many weeks were consumed in experiment. It is said that when the talking machine was first discovered it was as much a surprise to its inventor as to the world. The Wizard was working on some telephone receivers and was led to put a piece of tinfoil on a cylinder. It recorded sound, and Edison was convinced that the human voice could be recorded and produced. When the time came to make an actual test Edison, with his mind on mechanical details, absentmindedly tested his contrivance with the familiar phrase, "Mary had a little lamb." The verse was the first record taken by the machine.

Strengthening the Nerves.

Self control or nerve force is the great lesson of health and therefore of life itself. To understand how to relax is to understand how to strengthen nerves. Hearty laughter is a source of relaxation, as are also all high thoughts, as those of hope, beauty, trust or love. Relaxation is found in diversion. An occasional outing or holiday is necessary. As there are conscious and unconscious thoughts, there are conscious and unconscious nerve tensions. Women when shopping do not know the very tight grip they give their parcels until, on reaching home, their hands fall relaxed in their laps, and they say they are so tired.—Health Culture.

The Emerald.

An emerald that has no flaw in it is typical of the purest love. Some people say that, as few such stones can be found, purest love is necessarily rare. An emerald was always thought to possess the power of discovering treachery in the shape of alleged friends. The emerald is exceedingly popular in courtships and in marriages. After marriage it is supposed to bring harmony into the household and to further domestic joys in every possible way. To lose an emerald is said to bring business misfortunes and disaster.

A Helpless Woman.

"My wife's the most helpless creature," growled Cady; "simply can't do anything without bothering me to help her."

"Yes?"

"Yes. Only last night I had to reach up and get a candle off the shelf of the pantry for her so she could go down cellar and bring up a scuttle of coal."—Philadelphia Press.

Disgusted.

Arthur—Weren't you awfully frightened when you saw the burglar in your room? Theodore—I was worse than frightened; I was disgusted. He said if I said a word I was a dead man. Absurd, don't you know. A dead man couldn't talk.—Boston Transcript.

Nothing to Flee From.

Mother—So your little playmate is sick. What is the matter with her? Little Dot—I don't know, but it's something with an awful long name, so I guess it's a real respectable sort of disease. May I go to see her?

His Main Duty.

Employer (to new office boy)—Has the cashier told you what you are to do this afternoon? Office Boy—Yes, sir; I'm to wake him when I see you coming.—Scraps.
