The Marble Bible of Burma.

Great as has been the amount of labor expended on the various Bibles of the world, the palm for execution must be given to the Kutho-daw, which is a Buddhist monument near Mandalay, in Burma. It consists of about 700 temples, each containing a slab of white marble on which the whole of this Buddhist Bible, containing over 8,000,000 syllables, has been engraved. The Burmese alphabet is used, but the language is Pali. This wonderful Bible is absolutely unique. The Kutho-daw was erected in 1857 by Mindon-min, the last king but one of Burma. The vast collection of temples together form a square, with a dominating temple in the center. Each of the marble slabs on which the sacred text is inscribed is surmounted by an ornamental canopy in pagoda form.

Cook Island Laws.

There are some strange laws in the Cook Islands, in the eastern Pacific. The population is Maori and each island legislates for itself. The island council of Manihiki, one of the group, has in force an ordinance to regulate village life within the island. It begins by re-enacting "the ancient law of Manihiki as to dogs" and sentencing to death any dogs on the island. Pigs are not to wander at large, and any person going about after 9 p. m. may be arrested and taken to the courthouse to explain his reason for being abroad. No debt incurred by a native inhabitant is to be recoverable in any court. Selling or giving intoxicating liquor to any native inhabitant is punishable with a fine of $50.

Funerals in Scotland.

In Scotland the custom still prevails of taking down the window blinds at a death and hanging white sheets across the windows. The custom also prevails in the north of England, and in many families a special sheet reserved for the death chamber is kept for the purpose and often used from generation to generation. In many parts of Scotland, too, it is still customary for the nearest relatives of the deceased to lower the body into the grave and wait by the side until the grave is filled up.—Westminster Gazette.

Bret Harte as a Consul.

Bret Harte's consulship at Glasgow was a sort of joke. William Black told me that once when he was returning from a tour with Harte as they slowly entered a city Bret said, "What huge, ugly place is this?"

"It is," said Black, "the city in which you have been consul four years."—Monocure Daniel Conway's Autobiography.

Postponement Inevitable.

"If yoh husban' beats yoh, mabbe yoh kin hab him sent to de whippin' pos," said Mrs. Potomac Jackson.

"If my husban' ever beats me," said Mrs. Tolliver Grapevine, "dey kin send him to de whippin' pos' if dey wants to, but dey'll have to wait till he gits out'n de hospital."—Washington Star.

In After Years.

Old Foggy Father—My father never supplied me with money to squander on fast horses, theater parties, late dinners and the like. Up to Date Son—Oh, that's all right, dad. You must remember that I come of a more aristocratic family than you did.—Chicago News.

Uncanny About the Boy.

"How is your boy Alfred succeeding at college?"

"I'm afraid we'll find out pretty soon that he's been running in debt. He's writing to us once a week now."—Chicago Tribune.

Osteopathy

He who squanders health is the spendthrift of happiness. All medicine in the world cannot be substituted for exercise.

Skilled Osteopaths not only cure and prevent disease, but they teach the art of keeping well.

Osteopathic treatment never forces, but removes barriers from nature's pathway.

If you would escape the annual attacks of hayfever and asthma, anticipate the season by beginning osteopathic treatment which will remove the cause of over sensitive nerves.

Save your kidneys and heart through Osteopathic treatment and thus avoid dropsy, constipation, rheumatism and other ills.

For 12 years Osteopathy skillfully applied, has been transforming broken down nerves and mental wrecks into sound, healthy and vigorous types of manhood and womanhood.

An old time saying, "It takes a rogue to catch a rogue," applies to internal drugging. The rogue is seldom, if ever caught and the sufferer is burdened with two rogues instead of one to hamper nature in recovery.
