

AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Indians Will Celebrate.

The Indians of Lapwai are preparing to hold the greatest Fourth of July celebration of the tribe here this year they have ever held, and are already training their horses for the war parade which they promise to be the most spectacular ever witnessed on any Indian reservation. The camp grounds are being cleared and it is expected that at least 200 lodges will be erected before the day of the celebration. The preparations for the big barbecue are under way and the Indians propose to give a big free dinner for all who will accept of their hospitality.

The celebration this year has been prompted by a general feeling among the tribe, that all factions should be united to join in a demonstration following the election of a chief to succeed the late Chief Joseph. This election will be held at Nespelem this week and a part of the celebration will be a ratification of this election. The Indians will make a feature of the war parade which will be the grandest in the history of the tribe. The war dance following the parade will be participated in by more than 50 braves.—Lewiston Tribune.

Drunk, Fell in; Sober, Swam Out.

Ed Peak, a carpenter of this city, had a miraculous escape from death by drowning yesterday afternoon. About 5 o'clock Peak, who was somewhat intoxicated, went to the wagon bridge over the Snake river and climbed up on the guard rail, sat down and fell asleep. He lost his balance and fell into the river. At the point where he fell in the river at this season of the year is about 20 feet deep and running like a mill race. The cold water woke him up and he attempted to reach the piers to climb up. Falling in this Peak, who is a good swimmer, now thoroughly sobered, began making attempts to reach the bank. The place where he fell in was about 100 feet from the Idaho shore. By hard work, partially swimming and partially floating on his back, he managed to reach the Oregon shore about a mile below the bridge.—Weiser Signal.

Artesian Water in Harney.

Assessor Logan arrived home the first of this week from the southern portion of the county, where he had been listing property for some time. During his visit to the Wild Horse section his attention was called to a number of fine flowing artesian wells that had lately been sunk in that section. The artesian fluid is struck at a distance varying from 47 to 167 feet, there being four wells on one ranch that have an excellent strong flow.

One six-inch well forces the stream several feet above the ground. The volume of water is all that can be forced through the hole and shows no sign of decreasing.—Huron Times-Herald.

Boy's Neck Broken.

Walter Sharp, 10-year-old son of James Sharp, a ranchman living on Poverty flat, near that place, lost his life yesterday as the result of a mishap while racing horses with a young friend at Glendale, about 10 miles from Halley. While the two lads were racing their horses along the highway, a cow that was lying down beside the road, suddenly rose and frightened the horse ridden by young Sharp. The boy was thrown from the horse and his neck broken. He died within a few minutes after the fall. The funeral will be held today.—Halley News-Miner.

Asotin Wool Clip.

The sale of the wool clip of Asotin county has been practically completed and a large sum of money distributed among the shepherds. The clip for Asotin county will aggregate more than 250,000 pounds and the sales have ranged from 15 to 20 cents. Those contracting their wool last year received from 15 to 16 cents, while those selling in the open market received as high as 20 cents per pound. The average fleece weighed eight pounds, while some bands averaged as high as 10 pounds.—Asotin Sentinel.

War on Weeds.

For some time past the street commissioner has been waging a determined war upon the weeds of the city. It has been decided that all the vacant lots must be cleaned up, as well as the front lots, on either side of the sidewalks. In some instances the weeds have been allowed to grow until they almost meet in the center over the walks, making it very disagreeable for passersby, as well as presenting a most unbecoming appearance for strangers either riding or walking about to see the city.—Boise Statesman.

New Opera House at Long Creek.

C. R. Davis this week began the construction of a new opera building, to replace the one destroyed by fire last winter. The building now under construction is 24x48, two stories high, with two rows of bedrooms on the ground floor and an opera hall above. Paul Gruppe and Theodore Miller are doing the carpenter work.—Long Creek Ranger.

Saved $2000.

M. McDonald, one of the leading sheepmen of this part of the country, is among the few in this locality who did not contract their wool last winter. On last Saturday he sold 40,000 pounds at 20 cents, thus realizing $2000 more than if he had contracted it last winter at 15 cents.—Bickleton Record.
