CON SHEA IN LITERATURE.

The tendency of certain newspapers to scoff at the literary culture of the Hon. Cornelius P. Shea, the leader of the teamsters' strike in Chicago, is unjust, says the Examiner. Mr. Shea, being deported to jail the other day, and thereby estopped from engaged in his usual activities, conversed with a reporter on the subject of literature. He said that one of his greatest pleasures was in reading "Looking Backward," by John Bunyan.

It is possible, of course, that the unthinking might find something grotesque in thus crediting the seventeenth century tinker of England with Edward Bellamy's socialistic romance. But perhaps Mr. Shea is simply fitting himself to become a professor of literature in the Chicago university.

It is recalled that Professor Triggs, who held such a post, only recently testified under oath that he could not recall where the scene of Romeo and Juliet was laid, or the names of the two warring houses involved in that tragedy. Furthermore, he listened with ingenuous wonder and amaze to this quotation:

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, It might have been,"

and informed the wondering judge and astonished jury that he could neither remember the poem from which it was taken nor the name of the poet.

An incompetent lawyer failed to ask him if he could recall the author of "Little Miss Muffet."

As far as we can see, Mr. Shea is not to be ridiculed. "Looking Backward" is a book well worth reading, while to meditate upon John Bunyan in the Cook county jail shows how history repeats itself. It was in a dungeon that Bunyan wrote "Pilgrim's Progress." Mr. Shea's progress, when he comes to write about it, ought to be quite as edifying. The Chicago university should have Shea as professor of literature and Triggs for its chair of sociology.

THE TRUTH ABOUT MARTIN.

The Athena Press states that Pendleton papers "took sides" in the Martin murder case and warped the news to suit the chosen side of each case.

In the case of the East Oregonian this is not true in any sense of the word. Not a word of editorial opinion was expressed at any time by the East Oregonian in its narrative of the murder trial, including the coroner's inquest, but it gave the absolute facts, as produced in sworn testimony; nothing more, nothing less.

The manner in which the East Oregonian gave the testimony has been highly complimented by every one who read the accounts in this paper.

As to the colored and garbled accounts that have appeared in the Morning Tribune, that paper must answer to its readers for that.

As to the merits of the case the East Oregonian has an opinion, and it believes that Martin got off too easy with a verdict of manslaughter.

From the evidence, he not only ruined the character of Preston's young daughter, but he murdered the father for defending his child. All this was proved to the satisfaction of the East Oregonian, both at the coroner's inquest and on the witness stand in circuit court.

In face of the light responsibility placed upon the seducer and murderer it will be necessary for parents to go armed and defend their homes. If juries will not place the proper value on such priceless things.

PAYING THE PENALTY.

Twenty dead on a 70-mile-an-hour train, rushing here and there seeking more gold; half a dozen perished from thirst in the California desert, tramping across the wilderness seeking more gold.

Every day and everywhere the greedy and insatiable American is paying the penalty.

It is not progress nor advancement that actuates such adventures. It is not a love of humankind, nor a desire to add to the glory of the age that actuates men in these mad chases.

It is just plain, coarse greed, nothing else.

Railroad men know that human ingenuity cannot safely run a train at the speed at which the fast trains between Chicago and New York are now running, with present apparatus and present railroad equipment. It is not impossible to move at that speed through space, but it is impossible to avoid accidents. The very weight and momentum of these trains make their accidents all the more harrowing.

If people are murdered in this daring attempt of the roads, remember, it is the public that is responsible, for every life snuffed out.

Since the many colonels making up the National Good Roads association have engaged in a wordy war in open session in Portland, over the question of holding an election in the association, a remark of George A. Hartman, Sr., who presided over the recent session of the good roads association here, is brought forcibly to mind. Mr. Hartman said, in introducing one of the half dozen men with the title of "colonel" attached to their names: "If I happen to address one of you colonels as plain mister, I hope you will pardon me, as we are not used to titles out here in Oregon." It is strange that all the gentlemen associated with the good roads association are colonels and stranger still, to think that men ranking as colonels can engage in a common, every-day wire-pulling scrap for office, like Tom, Dick and Harry of the sagebrush plains.

THE LESSON OF THE RIVER.

I. Here you are a sighin', when the world is half a song; The river turns the mill-wheel, but it's singin' all day long! You never hear it growlin' when the rain's a-comin' down, Or sighin' out its sorrow past the meadow an' the town.

II. Here you are a-mumblin' of the sorrowfullest words, When the wind laughs in the blossoms 'round the breasts of singin' birds! Moanin' in the winter over memories of May, When the halleluia season is with you every day!

III. Get out in the sunshine—see the lilies of the light; Tell the world "Good mornin'," and be thankful for the night; An' quit a-countin' all the clouds on Jordan's stormy banks, While love's banners are a-wavin' o'er the halleluia ranks! —Atlanta Constitution.

COIN DIES DESTROYED.

At the end of each calendar year the three mints controlled by the treasury department destroy the dies. The old custom of defacing the dies by imprinting a cross with a chisel and sledge hammer and distributing the junk as souvenirs of the mint, have been superseded by grinding the engravings into pulp on an emery wheel. This change has been made necessary by the discovery that the dies, when filled in and smoothed over, making them almost as good as new, and permitting the wily counterfeiter to circulate home-made dollars at a discount to the public.

The work of designing the dies used by the government is conducted at the Philadelphia mint, the experts employed receiving high wages. The matter of tempering the steel used for the dies is important, and a fine blue color is required. A standard United States die should make from 50,000 to 150,000 impressions before rehardening becomes necessary, one at the San Francisco mint having made 700,000 impressions. In Great Britain the average number of coins struck by a die is less than 30,000, and runs as low as 17,000, indicating the superiority of the American mint.

"OLD WEST" GONE.

Alas for the good old days of the road agent! Science once more steps in to administer the final blow to the emulators of Slade, "Big Nose" George, "Black Bart" and the rest of that notable crew.

From Bliss, Oklahoma, comes the story that marks the crowning humiliation of the daredevil knights of the

Newbro's Herpicide

VACATION TIME. Vacation time should bring rest, recreation and comfort; and comfort of the solid and pleasing variety means no high collar, no stiff hat and no itching scalp. It is for this last discomfort that Newbro's Herpicide becomes a summer necessity, as it stops itching of the scalp and Prickly Heat almost instantly. Take Herpicide with you on your vacation.

SCALP WARNING. Itching of the scalp is not so much a punishment for past neglect as it is a warning for the future. It shows almost conclusively, that the vine-like, microscopic growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair has entered the sebaceous glands and unless this growth is stopped and kept out of the scalp, baldness will follow.

DANDRUFF IS CONTAGIOUS. The discovery, by Prof. Unna, (ask your doctor about him) that dandruff is a highly contagious disease, is now recognized by dermatologists everywhere. This important discovery, not only proves the worthlessness of "Hair Growers," but it offers an opportunity for scientific hair preservation, in the use of Newbro's Herpicide, the original remedy that "kills the dandruff germ."

WILL NOT GROW HAIR. Newbro's Herpicide is a "Hair-Saver;" it will not grow hair—nature does this—but by destroying the enemies of hair health, it enables the hair to grow as nature intended—except in chronic baldness. Save your hair with Herpicide. Wonderful results follow its use.

HOT WEATHER TROUBLES. During hot weather the minute sudatory glands of the scalp are called upon to perform an extra amount of labor. The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities must be handled promptly as it carries out poisonous and refuse matter that would otherwise clog up the pores of the scalp. Incomplete elimination of refuse matter produces a hot and feverish condition of the scalp, familiarly known as Prickly Heat, for which Herpicide gives immediate relief. Ladies will find Herpicide indispensable. It contains no grease, will not stain or dye. It is an exquisite hair dressing that COOLS, COMFORTS and DELIGHTS.

Destroy the Cause—You Remove the Effect.

KILLS THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Your Newbro's Herpicide is the best dandruff cure I have ever tried. One bottle took every bit of dandruff out of my hair and my scalp is as clean as can be now—while before using Herpicide it was covered with dandruff. Colfax, Wash. (Signed) GREEN CORNELIUS.

SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS.

I find Herpicide superior to anything I have ever used in my barber shop, as a dandruff cure, and I recommend it to all of my customers, who seem delighted with it. Vancouver, Wash. (Signed) W. A. ENRIGHT.

road. An automobile bearing $40,000 in money, laughs defiance to a band of half a dozen armed and mounted desperadoes, distances their fleet horses and bears the treasure to safety.

Receipts from the 101 show given on Sunday amounted to $40,000. The money was counted in an open shed in the presence of a large crowd. Among the bystanders were several known desperadoes, and it was later learned that a plan had been formed to rob the train bearing the money between the Miller ranch and Ponca. Accordingly it was decided to take the money in an automobile instead of in the train. The treasure, placed in ten sacks, was loaded into Dr. Thomas' auto and with four men including the doctor, and his chauffeur, the start was made.

At Cowskin creek, about four miles from Bliss, half a dozen robbers suddenly appeared and made for the auto. The chauffeur at once speeded up the machine and the guards opened fire on the pursuers. The robbers returned the shots, spurring their horses vigorously, but the puffing machine steadily drew away from the racing horses and was soon beyond range. The machine continued its run to Ponca, where the money was safely deposited in a bank vault. None of the men were hurt and the only damage to the automobile was the loss of the speed regulator, which was struck by a bullet. And thus the "old west" passeth!

Rapid Living.

Between 1868 and 1904 the annual death rate from heart disease and Bright's disease in New York city increased from 13.05 to 29.49 per 1000 population. In 1903, with the same ratio to 1904, there was an increase in deaths from these diseases of 2.42 each per 1000. While this is considered an alarming increase in mortality records, the fact that 125 persons died last week from organic heart disease, when the death rate for the corresponding week of 1904 was only 58, has given rise to the belief that New York residents are living too rapid lives. The strain of business cares and the attendant anxiety for the gain of wealth is given as an explanation by physicians. A recent examination showed that 99 out of each 100 persons had stomach trouble.

No Bachelors Among Savages.

In these days of bachelor men and bachelor girls we often imagine that celibacy is a custom recognized in all countries. This is largely because it is a condition made possible by western civilization. As regards savage and barbarous races, bachelors and bachelor girls are unknown, writes Della Austrian in the Chicago Tribune, and nearly every one strives to get married as soon as he or she is able. This is especially true with people of small culture.
