"The longer I live and the more I see Of the struggle of souls to the heights above The stronger this truth comes home to me: That the universe rests on the shoulders of love— A love so limitless, deep and broad, That men have renamed it and called it God." —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

THE TRIBUNE'S STANDARD.

The Morning Tribune sneeringly refers to "woman's rights" as if such a thing were a disgrace.

Did anybody ever hear the Tribune object to the thugs, gamblers, tin-horns, "macques," or other of its supporters and friends, having a right to vote and assist in making laws under which it must live?

All these classes of people are law-breakers, yet no one ever heard the Tribune or any of its ilk, objecting to these parasites taking part in government.

But if mention is made of the mothers, wives and daughters of the land taking part in the making of laws, it sneeringly and insultingly refers to such as a disgraceful thing.

This is the standard of the Tribune according to its own statements and actions. The people may judge it to suit themselves.

The East Oregonian believes that woman is just as intelligent as man, just as capable of thinking, just as capable of acting, just as capable of saying what laws shall be made and enforced, and under God's plan, is as much entitled to say what her legal surroundings shall be as man, the self-asserted tyrant and dictator.

If the Tribune has any female ancestors of which it is ashamed, it is excusable, of course, for its belief as to woman's rights in the government; but for a sane man, of good morals, the possessor of an intelligent wife, the associate of intelligent women, an educated man, withal, living at the dawn of the twentieth century, in the possession of all his faculties and senses, to object to women taking part in civilized government, is one of the wonders of the world.

This belief of the Tribune is responsible for many other of its queer notions on government and society. Of course, it is not supposed to see clearly from this twentieth century point of view, with its mental vision so obscured and its feet so tightly bound to the shattered doctrines and beliefs of the dark ages.

Burning witches at the stake would have been the Tribune's chief pastime, had it lived a century ago. As it is not allowed to practice this pet pastime in this enlightened age, it resorts to that other equally as blind and narrow fanaticism, of declaring that woman is man's slave and property, inferior in intellect and stability and not capable of making laws under which her sons must live.

IS THE GOVERNMENT HONEST?

If the government really desires to preserve the forests for future, as is the avowed object of the present system of forest reserves, it should remove the duty from lumber, in order to admit Canadian lumber and relieve the strain on American forests to this extent.

This infamous tariff is robbing the builders of homes while it stultifies the forest reserve idea, by forcing the government to yield to the importunities of the great timber syndicates in granting them the right to invade the very forests that should be preserved.

The demand for timber was never more sharp than now, when so many new settlements are springing up all over the West. The supply is constantly being reduced, while the government is instituting a makeshift forest policy which only tightens the bonds on the consumer of lumber by reducing the visible supply to this extent and increasing the cost of production.

Canadian forests are yet practically untouched. The tariff on lumber maintained by the United States has forbidden the introduction of Canadian lumber into this country, while the demand in Canada has been merely nominal.

This vast empire of timber just across the border is awaiting a market while the builders of homes just this side the border are being robbed by the American tariff which forbids them to cross the line and secure cheap lumber.

If the government is honest, if Western senators have the interests of the country at heart, if they are not tied hand and foot by the sawmill corporations, they would undertake to remove the tariff on this necessity. Canadian millers would gladly send their product here, but they cannot do it at present. American consumers would gladly welcome the Canadian product, but the tariff stands between them and the Canadian forest.

The lumber industry in this country is no longer an infant industry. It no longer needs this protection. Wages in the lumber mills of the Sound are lower than they were 15 years ago, and yet the price of lumber has doubled in that time.

The only true forest reserve policy is to remove the tariff and allow Canadian lumber to come and relieve the pressure on our own forests.

EARMARKS OF THE CALLING.

The city council of Athens has ordered the manager of an Athens saloon to resign from the position or the license of the saloon would be revoked because the joint had issued a lot of obscene literature and was circulating it among the boys and young men in that community.

This is an index to this disgusting calling. Its sole object and purpose in business circles is to prostitute, to lower, to degrade everything and everybody with which it comes in contact. It is not enough to make drunken sots and loafers out of respectable boys; it is not enough to violate all the known laws; it is not enough to maintain boxes, dives and dead-falls for young people, but it must print degrading stuff to be carried into the very homes to contaminate and lower the standard of manhood taught and inculcated by parents.

Did any one ever hear of a hardware merchant, a dry goods dealer, a grocer, a blacksmith, a barber, hotel keeper or other respectable calling being called down by a city council for distributing obscene advertising matter? But this is part of the business of the dive keeper. It is one of his objects in life. If such things do not inflict prohibition on Umatilla county, nothing will.

LAW SHOULD STAND.

For the benefit of Oregon stockmen and farmers the East Oregonian hopes the law taxing outside sheep for grazing in Oregon, proves to be valid and constitutional.

This thing of being eaten out of house and home every year by outside stock is becoming tiresome. Oregon stockmen pay taxes to support the state government and California and Washington sheep have heretofore occupied many of the choice watering places and ranges during the entire summer season, leaving the state only for a few months during winter.

The law is just and is needed for home protection. Where sheep range in Oregon for nine months in the year, they should be taxed to help pay expenses. The same is true of migratory bands in counties. It is only just that sheep grazing out of their home county should pay a proportionate tax in each county. This thing of living in Oregon during the summer and fall and paying taxes in Washington and California is not just, and the East Oregonian hopes that the case now being brought to issue sustains the law.

Take It Easy.

'Bout the time you get to thinkin' that you're gettin' on a bit, An' you jingle of your money as you stroll and strut about,

Better keep your peepers open, for your life ain't over yet. An' there's always lots of danger when the chest is swellin' out.

'Bout the time you git to lookin' at your neighbors with su'prise, An' a-feelin' sorry fer 'em cuz you've left in the press,

Then's the time fate's lokin' for you with a club of mighty size, An' you'll feel the rungs a-breakin' in the ladder of success.

Governor of Alabama Endorses Pe-ru-na.

Other Prominent State Officials Add Their Praises.

ONE of the most wonderful events in the history of medicine is the multitude of endorsements which Peruna is receiving as a catarrh cure from men of national importance.

The most distinguished men of the United States have no hesitation in lending their influence to assist in letting the public know of the merits of Peruna.

Nearly one-half the people are in some way affected by catarrh. Therefore it is almost a national curse, and it is of national import that the people should know of Peruna.

Catarrh is an American disease. Peruna is an American remedy.

Catarrh is a result of changeable climate. Peruna is a result of long and careful experimentation.

Catarrh enters the system through the nerve centers and affects the mucous membranes. Peruna enables the nerve centers to repel and expel the catarrh from the system.

Catarrh is a systemic disease and curable only by systemic treatment. The remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does.
