CADET CORPS WALKING TO THE EXPOSITION.

Sixty-seven strong, the Eureka Congregational College Corps is Slowly Marching Northward, Expecting to Reach Portland July 17—Boys Are Orderly and Well Behaved and Are Enjoying Their long Tramp.

The Eugene Guard gives the following account of the arrival of the Eureka cadet corps at that place. The corps consists of 67 young men and boys of the Eureka (Cal.) Congregational College, who are marching from Eureka to the Lewis and Clark fair. The Guard says: Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning (Saturday) the city was aroused by the rat-tat-tat of a drum and in a few minutes a large crowd had gathered in the streets ready to welcome with outstretched arms the 67 boys who compose the Congregational Cadet Corps from Eureka, Cal. Because the command is under the Congregational name it does not necessarily hold that they are all members of that denomination, for in their ranks are Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, etc.

Tired, dusty and clothes in bad shape, these plucky young fellows came marching up Willamette street to their camping grounds across from the Gross hotel, and many were the signs of relief as the place was reached. A large bundle of mail was awaiting the boys arrival and the faces of the youngsters just shone as they received fond messages from home. From Eureka to Eugene is 388 miles and this ground has been gone over in 28 days by these fellows who are bound for "Portland or bust."

It was really a treat to see so many young Americans abstaining from the use of tobacco and liquor and using no profanity in their speech. It was really marvelous how each boy had a kind word for everyone and how each did the others bidding. The command is in charge of Captain Emory, U. S. A., while the first lieutenant is Joe Moore, second lieutenant, Wallace Mulland, third lieutenant, Fred Brown. In the command there is one lad of 19 years who has marched all the way, while there are several few years older, and all are under 19 except the officers.

Most of the boys have never seen a steam engine and more have never been away from home until this novel trip which was planned a year ago, the funds being secured by performances, etc. This plan is also being carried out now and so far they have succeeded in paying all expenses and providing for every comfort and luxury.

The cadets left Creswell this morning at 5:30 after remaining overnight there and giving an excellent entertainment. They remain with us until Monday morning when the trip to Portland will be resumed, which place is to be reached by the 17th, on Humboldt day at the fair.

BIG PARADE OF ELKS.

Over 20,000 in Line at Buffalo This Morning.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 12.—This was the big day of the Elks' national convention and reunion. This forenoon 29,000 members of the antlered tribe paraded through the downtown thoroughfares and received the applause of the thousands of spectators who lined the sidewalks and filled every available door and window. The parade was one of the biggest things of its kind ever seen in Buffalo. The paraders represented every state and territory of the Union and many were garbed in fantastic or picturesque costumes typifying the section of the country whence they came. Forty bands were included in the line.

The parade formed at 10 o'clock in Franklin street near Huron and proceeded to the Terrace and thence through Main street, passing in review before the grand lodge officers and invited guests who occupied a stand erected in Lafayette Square.

Statehood Convention.

Oklahoma City, Okl., July 12.—There was a gratifying attendance today at the opening of the single statehood convention, representative men being present from all parts of Indian Territory and Oklahoma. The convention will memorialize congress to relieve Oklahoma and Indian Territory from any alliance with New Mexico and Arizona as proposed in the Hampton bill, and which it is believed will prevail in the new bill which will be introduced when congress convenes this fall. The convention was called to order by C. G. Jones, chairman of the single statehood executive committee, and the address of welcome was delivered by I. N. Holcombe, John W. Noble, ex-secretary of the Interior, Senators Bailey of Texas, and Warner of Missouri, and Representatives Curtis and Calderhead of Kansas. Stephens of Texas and Hamilton of Michigan are scheduled to address the convention.

Want Grand Jury System Abolished.

Des Moines, Ia., July 12.—Prominent members of the bench and bar of Iowa to a total of several score, are gathered in Des Moines for the annual meeting of the Iowa Bar association. The proceedings are to last three days and promise to be of exceptional interest. One of the most important matters of discussion will be the report of the committee on law reform recommending that a constitutional amendment should be adopted providing for the abolition of the grand jury and for placing parties upon trial upon information.

Sons of Temperance.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 12.—Following closely on the heels of the great gathering of teachers here last week another convention has attracted to Asbury Park a host of visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada. The present gathering is that of the National Division of North

A HEALTHY FAMILY

Is the one that can rightfully boast of pure blood. When the rich, red wine of life is coursing through the veins it imparts vigor and strength to the body and healthy action to all parts of the system. A healthy family is a wealthy family; it may be poor in worldly goods, but possessed of a priceless jewel that all the riches of earth cannot buy. A healthy family may not carry in their veins the blood of titled nobles or distinguished ancestors, but vigorous health is always an evidence of the best and purest blood, for the vital fluid contains all material necessary for the making of bone and muscle and the growth and development of the body, and upon its purity rests our chances for good health. When the body is fed upon weak, sickly blood the system languishes, growth is stunted, disease enters without hindrance, and the simplest maladies are apt to develop into serious sickness. In so many ways does the blood become contaminated that the fewest number succeed in keeping this life-giving, health-sustaining fluid in a pure and natural state. We inherit the disease-tainted blood of ancestors, parents transmit to their children such impoverished and weak blood that their lives are a continuous battle against disease, and from earliest infancy are harassed by sores and the most dreadful skin eruptions, and heirs to some old family disease. No one has a right to throw upon the shoulders of posterity a disease that might have been cured, or allow the blood to remain impure without an effort to restore it to health. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula and many of the severest forms of skin diseases are frequently inherited, and only the most thorough constitutional treatment can remove them. Bad blood is responsible for more ill health than all other causes combined; it absorbs the poisons that gather in the system, and the germs and microbes floating in the air find their way into the circulation, and old sores and ulcers, Eczema, Boils, Malaria and a long train of other diseases follow.

If you do not come of a strong and vigorous family and your blood shows evidence of impurity, nothing will so quickly bring it back to a healthy condition as S. S. S., the most widely known and popular blood remedy on the market. It purifies and builds up weak, sluggish blood and stimulates the circulation, and thus rids the system of impurities. S. S. S. contains tonic as well as blood purifying properties, and builds up the general health, improves the appetite and digestion, and tones up the nerves while ridding the blood of all poisons and humors. Nothing reaches old chronic blood troubles like S. S. S., and being a strictly vegetable remedy can be taken by old and young without any bad after effects or injury to the system. As a blood purifier and tonic at this season S. S. S. has no superior. It puts the blood in good order, removes all poisonous accumulations, invigorates all parts of the system and prevents that debilitated, tired feeling common to this time of year. Keeping the blood healthy is the secret of all healthy families. Write us if in need of medical advice, which our physicians will furnish free of charge. Book on the blood and its diseases mailed free.

NEWARK, OHIO, May 28, 1905. Some ten years ago I used your S. S. S. with the most satisfactory results. From childhood up I had been bothered with bad blood, characterized by skin eruptions and boils, especially bad in the summer. For five or six summers I had boils ranging from five to twenty in number each season. Our local physicians prescribed for me, but nothing they gave me did away with the annoying skin eruptions or prevented the boils from appearing. The burning accompanying the eruption was terrible, and I had as high as six boils at one time. My condition was truly a pitiable one when I began S. S. S. It seemed to be just the medicine needed in my case. It drove out all impurities and bad blood and restored the circulation to its original strength and purity, giving me a permanent relief from the skin eruption and boils. This has been ten years ago and I have never had a return of the disease. I would state also that my husband has taken it with good results. MRS. J. D. THEERTON.

Want Civil Service.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—A movement to have the railway mail service placed with the general postoffice system under civil service rules was endorsed today by Division No. 10, National Association of Railroad Postal Clerks, in annual session here. The association also adopted a resolution favoring the making of steel mail cars a part of the government requirements of the service, as numerous wrecks have shown the dangers to which the railway postal employees are subjected in wooden cars.

Groton Celebrates.

Groton, Mass., July 12.—Groton's quarter-millennial celebration, for which preparations have been in progress for nearly a year, took place today and it proved a red-letter day in the history of the old town. The literary exercises took place this morning in the First Parish church, the historical address being delivered by the Hon. Samuel A. Green, of Boston. Afterwards dinner was served in a large tent and there were speeches by several prominent citizens and sons of Groton.

RESCUING MONTANA FROM ROAD AGENTS

It was a thrilling incident in the career of Colonel Wilbur F. Sanders of Montana, whose death has just been announced, when he secured the conviction of the road agents who were the plague of the mining territory which was then producing gold in abundance.

The story is admirably told by Colonel A. K. McClure, of Pennsylvania, the distinguished journalist and statesman, who was one of the first to describe graphically the Rocky mountain country. In this city which is blessed so closely with the history of the far west the episode will be read with interest. It is as follows:

"When Sanders came to Montana, Plummer was in the zenith of his power and the whole energy of the law was paralyzed by desperate and corrupt officers charged with its execution. Crime was supreme and defiant. Murders were committed in open day without fear of retribution and robberies were almost of hourly occurrence.

"A reign of terror spread its dark pall over the camps and settlements of Montana and none dared to demand the punishment of the criminals who publicly gloried in their evil deeds.

"In the fall of 1883 the forbearance of the better class of citizens was exhausted and the resistance of crime took form in the organization of a vigilance committee. The desperados were confederated by oaths and signs; they knew their men and could command them at any point in the shortest possible period ready for action. But the very perils which beset the effort to redeem Montana from the thralldom of crime made strong men stronger; and with the highest resolve to do and dare for the right.

"George Ives, one of the desperado leaders, was arrested and arraigned before a court of the people. Several thousand spectators were present, all armed; but how many of them were ready to obey the secret signal of Plummer's band and murder the chief actors, no one friendly to order could judge.

"With their lives in their hands they erected the new order of justice, selected a jury of 24 true men to pass upon the guilt of the prisoner and call for a prosecutor. It was the most perilous of all the positions in the court and men naturally hesitated.

"A young advocate, (Wilbur F. Sanders,) tall and slender in stature, but with intelligence and determination written in every feature of his face, came forward and in the name of the people charged that George Ives was a murderer and unfit to live.

"His bearing told more eloquently than could language that either himself or the criminal must die; and his clear voice rang out over the plain as he pleaded the cause of order with a fervor and ability that thrilled the audience and paralyzed the majority who had come determined to save their companion by fresh murder if necessary.

"The jury rendered their verdict, declaring the prisoner guilty. It was confidently expected by his friends that the most the court would dare to do would be to pronounce the sentence of banishment; but they little knew the earnestness of the citizens. While the desperados were clamoring for the submission of the sentence to the audience the tall, gaunt form of the prosecutor appeared on a wagon, and with his eyes flashing his invincible will removed that George Ives be forthwith hung by the neck until he was dead.

"Before the well organized friends of the accused recovered from this bold and unexpected movement the motion was carried and not until the sudden click of the guns of the guard were heard simultaneously with the order 'fall back from the prisoner' did they appreciate that their comrades was doomed to die. With matchless skill the advocate for the people had carried his case to judgment and the murderers were appalled as in less time than it takes to tell, they saw Ives drop in the death noose.

"The people clad in the strong armor of justice had triumphed in the very presence of the heroes of crime and the execution of the stern judgment foreshadowed the fate of all the robbers' band. Before another autumn chilled the mountain breezes not one Ives drop in the death noose.

NO MORE BEER PICNICS.

Seattle Anti-Saloon League After the Beer Gardens.

Seattle, July 12.—Picnics at which beer bars have been the most conspicuous attraction are doomed this summer, if the Anti-Saloon league is successful in a campaign which it has begun against such celebrations. Believe, a pretty little summer resort on the east shore of Lake Washington, has heretofore been notable for the frequency with which it has entertained such picnics. Beer has been sold there by the barrel over a bar. No license has been paid, and the revenue secured has been large.

The same practice has been tolerated at the lakeside parks in this city. Barrels of beer have been sold over a bar, the excuse being that it was carried to the lake for consumption.
