REMODELING COURT HOUSE.
Extensive Improvements Will Be Made in Near Future.
At last the court house is to be fitted with a new roof, and the upper floor remodeled. This forenoon the commissioners were in consultation with Architect C. E. Troutman, and the latter was directed to prepare plans for the work.
A new roof has been made necessary because the present one is badly sagged and also leaks. During the recent session of court it rained one afternoon, and as a result two streams of water were soon descending through the roof, falling just outside of the court railing.
It is the intention to rearrange the upper floor of the building, as was outlined some time ago. The court room will be reduced to the size of 47x45, whereas it is now 76 feet in length. The rooms at the east end will be removed, thus extending the court room to the east wall. The west end of the present room will be made into two offices, one of which will be used as a supreme court room, the room that is at present used for that purpose being taken by the circuit judge.
Also the court house will be replastered wherever needed.

WRITING BOOK ON UMATILLA.
Lou Rodman Teeple, of Harrison, Idaho, Expects to Visit Major Moorhouse to Learn Indian Lore.
Lou Rodman Teeple, of Harrison, Idaho, has written a novel, the scenes of which are laid upon the Umatilla reservation, and that she expects to visit this city in a short time to secure historical data and photographs for the same.
She is a contributor to the Pacific Monthly and other western magazines and Major Moorhouse will assist her in securing the best possible data and pictures for her forthcoming novel.
Never before has this section of Oregon attracted writers and travelers as it has within the past year and the advertisement being received from this source is world wide and of the highest possible value. The letters and Moorhouse photographs sent to eastern papers and magazines by Charles N. Crewdson and other writers have given Pendleton and the Umatilla reservation a national prominence.

GRAND AND GLORIOUS.
The Monster Carnival Will Start Promptly at 8 O'Clock Saturday Morning at the Great Eastern Store—Bewildering Spectacle Presented and Astounding Low Prices Offered.
The great carnival at the Great Eastern Department Store will open tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, when a bewildering scene will present itself in this big store. Bewildering will be the view that the callers behold and bewildering the low prices offered in all departments. The store is closed today while the goods are being marked down and arranged so that callers can be their own judge of the tremendous values given and select with ease the articles they desire.

The grand carnival, which will be in full blast commencing tomorrow morning, will be the greatest and most glorious sale that has ever been held in eastern Oregon.

Fifty salespeople have been engaged to wait upon the trade and show the callers through the exhibition, which will be enjoyable to all. Music will be rendered tomorrow evening.

While not mentioned in the large advertisement, every pair of ladies', gents', misses', boys' and children's shoes are included in the terrific marking down of prices which prevails in each and every department of the great store.

Make all your plans and arrangements to enjoy the carnival and profit by the greatest event in Pendleton's mercantile history, an event that will equal even the gorgeous sales of the large cities.

Bear in mind the gorgeous carnival starts in all its splendor Saturday morning, July 15, at the Great Eastern Store, and rain or shine, will go merrily along. Carnival starts promptly at 8 o'clock.

NEW LANDS OPENED.
300 Will Settle on Lands North of Hoquiam.
Seattle, Wash., July 14.—Three hundred intending settlers are in the city to file on land contained in a district thrown open for settlement today, north of the present Quinalt Indian reservation, and 50 miles north of Hoquiam. These settlers began to arrive in Seattle from the coast on Tuesday and last evening there were between 250 and 300 registered at the local hotels.

The land upon which locations are to be received include all of township 25, R. 12 N., and the biggest portion of township 25, R. 13 N., in all about 60 full sections. In many instances the locators have lived upon their sites for several years, and the country is quite well settled up. Many will take advantage of the timber and stone act and secure their locations under that clause, believing the property richer for its timber and mineral resources than from agricultural possibilities. The settlers in many cases have waited a long time to get permanent papers of ownership under the homestead entry act.

FREEMASONRY OF THE CHINESE.
Mongolian Secret Societies Differ From the Masonic Body.
The installation of a grand master of the Chinese secret orders in the United States, popularly known as the "Chinese Free Masons," has aroused interest in the question of the connection between the Chinese secret societies and the Masonic body. Allusions to "Chinese Free Masonry" appear periodically in the newspapers, though according to the cyclopaedia of fraternities there is no such thing as Free Masonry among the Chinese, says the Washington Star.

The only Masonic lodges in China are in the foreign concessions at the seaports. Their membership is composed exclusively of others than Chinese, and they are conducted under foreign warrants. The rites of the Chinese secret societies bear some resemblance to those of the Free Masons, which account for the popular supposition of a connection between the two. The similarity, though more apparent than real, is remarkable in view of the antiquity of both, and the impossibility of either to have been patterned after the other.

China is filled with secret societies, most of which have for their object the overthrow of the Tsing dynasty, with a pretended benevolent purpose to veil the political significance of the organization. The most powerful of these societies, the Kalao Hui, numbers more than 1,000,000.

The cyclopaedia of fraternities contains an account of an initiation ceremony at a Chinese lodge in Spokane, Wash., at which four white men, Free Masons, were present by invitation. The lodge represented a benevolent branch of the Kalao Hui. There were references to the "immortal three," circumbulation, four stations at which questions were asked and answers returned, kneeling on crossed swords, tea drinking, burning incense, a traditional season of refreshments and signs in which the head and hands were unable to detect anything that resembled the Masonry with which they were familiar.

The same authority gives this account of the secret signs used by the Triad society, which was at the bottom of the Taiping rebellion.

"Members always halt on entering a house, and then proceed with the left foot first. When sitting they place their toes together and spread their heels apart. They also recognize one another by the way they place their tea cups on the table, and the manner in which they hitch their trousers. Their motto is 'Drive out the Tartar.'"

Treason is punished by lopping off the ears of a minor offender. The final punishment is beheading.

May Build into Central Oregon.
It is said the Booth-Kelly Lumber company is negotiating for the holdings of the Military Wagon Road company through Central Oregon, and if the property is acquired, that the lumber company will extend a line of railroad from the terminus of the Corvallis & Eastern into Central Oregon to reach the large tracts of timber and to furnish a means of transportation to the interior districts.

Pocatello's New Hospital.
Pocatello can have a $10,000 hospital provided they raise $500 in cash among the citizens. For this purpose a number of the best rustlers have been organized into a committee, and the funds will be gathered in a few days. The hospital is as good as secured.—Pocatello Advance.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER.

Tallman & Co. Say Hyomei Will Give Relief—Sold Under Guarantee.

The season for hay fever is almost at hand, and many people feel that they will be obliged to go away in order to avoid the sneezing, watery eyes, and other annoying symptoms of this disagreeable summer disease.

Tallman & Co. wish to announce that when Hyomei is used as a preventive, or a cure, there will be no hay fever. They advise daily treatment for two or three weeks before the usual time for the annual appearance of hay fever. If this is done, the attack will be prevented. However, if the preventive treatment is not started soon enough, and the disease makes its appearance, use Hyomei six or seven times daily, and relief will be given at once.

There is no stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its medicated air reaches the minutest air cells, killing all germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, extra bottles 50 cents. It is the only treatment for hay fever sold by Tallman & Co. under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

POET AT THE FAIR.

Joaquin Miller Says the Exposition Is a Dream.

There is no one perhaps to whom the Lewis and Clark fair has appealed more strongly than to the venerable poet of the Sierras, Joaquin Miller, says the Oregon Daily Journal. Last night the old veteran stood on the grand stairway and gazed out over the lawns and trees radiant with a thousand lights and as with a poet's appreciation, exclaimed:

"This is grand, my son, grand. You know," he continued, stroking that long beard, "this fair is just my size. After all, I love best the shorter poem that is born of the heart rather than the mighty epics that stir only the intellect. This fair is a small, but exquisite poem, more interesting to me by far than the great world exhibitions that I have attended in the past."

And Miller knows, for he has been to them all on both continents, having begun the round with the Centennial at Philadelphia.

There will be a reception in honor of Mr. Miller at the Oregon building on Saturday afternoon, at which time he will read a number of his favorite poems.

A man is known by the things he seeks, rather than by those he finds.

Mr. R. F. Payne, (Payne's pharmacy) Idaho Falls, Idaho, writes: "We have just sold the last cure, (TRIB), and one-half dozen at once. Trib has cured five of the hardest kind of cases. One man here used it last September, and cannot smell wine, liquor or beer now without making him sick. He had been a hard drinker for 15 years."

Father Desmarais, pastor of the Roman Catholic church, The Dalles, Ore., writes: "I know of good results obtained by the use of your Trib in curing liquor and tobacco users."

The East Oregonian is Eastern Oregon's representative paper. It leads and the people appreciate it and show it by their liberal patronage. It is the advertising medium of this section.

Repairing watches here receives the careful attention it deserves. No matter how delicate or expensive a movement you may have, you can leave it to be repaired or cleaned with full assurance that the work will be done in the most skillful manner possible and at the very lowest prices.
