The government has brought an action against the Bessemer Coal & Coke Co., to restrain it from mining coal which lies directly beneath the Monongahela river, which is navigable at that point. STORY OF OREGON'S LARGEST VINEYARD

The following article from the Rogue River Courier on the subject of grape growing will give some valuable information to Umatilla county people who are interested in grape growing. A. H. Carson, whose vineyard it describes, is said to be one of the best vineyardists in the northwest.

The Courier says:

A. H. Carson, member for the first district, which embraces the southern Oregon counties, of the Oregon state board of horticulture, was in Grant's Pass Wednesday from his Redlands fruit farm on Applegate. Mr. Carson in addition to growing largely of other fruits, is the largest grape grower in Oregon, he having 31 acres to grapes.

Mr. Carson grows several varieties, but most of his vineyard is to Tokays, Emperors and Black Ferreras. The Emperor is similar in size and bright color to the Flaming Tokay, but it is a better keeper and is a good shipper. The Ferrera is a black grape similar in appearance to the Concord, but is better flavored than that grape and is a fine table grape and it has the further good quality of being a good shipper.

Mr. Carson has found grape growing quite as profitable as any other line of farm product and he will continue planting until he has 100 acres to grapes this winter and has the 10,000 cuttings rooted and growing in fine shape with which to do the planting. Mr. Carson is firm in the belief that Southern Oregon will become one of the great grape districts of the United States, for the soil and climate are exceptionally adapted for producing a grape of fine texture and flavor.

The failure that so many have made in the grape business in Rogue River valley is due to a number of causes that Mr. Carson states are easily overcome. The first is to grow the grape that the market demands, which is thus the best seller.

Plant on suitable soil, red clay hill land being the best for grapes, and elevation, put the vineyard above the frost line of low, wet bottom lands. Cultivate the vines thoroughly, and the dryer the ground the more cultivation, but only on the surface. But in the picking and packing is where so many growers fail, for grapes that are jammed into a box and not sorted, graded and neatly packed will not sell.

Mr. Carson takes special care that not a defective or under-sized grape gets into a box and the greatest precaution is taken to pack the grapes so they will have a uniform and attractive appearance. The boxes are all labeled with his name and that of his fruit farm, and a person getting a box of his grapes of a dealer, if pleased with them, knows what to call for when more is wanted.

Last fall, as in previous years, Mr. Carson was unable to fill all the orders that came to him for grapes, and at prices that were very satisfactory. He thinks that other growers would have no difficulty in finding a profitable market if they would give more care to the growing and the picking and packing of their grapes.

WORD FROM JALISCO

BLUE PRINT OF DRAWING TO BE SENT OUT.

Holders of Tickets in the Jalisco Lottery Are Again Hopeful That They Will Receive a Tract of Land—H. E. Bickers Now in Jalisco and on His Report Will Depend Future Actions of 85 Members in Pendleton.

The hopeful purchasers of lottery tickets in the Jalisco townsite and colonization scheme will soon know their fate.

The company has just sent out circular letters stating that a blue print of the entire town site will be sent to each holder of numbers in the scheme, showing the individual drawing made by each and giving all the desired information concerning the future plans of the company.

About 85 Pendleton people invested in the Jalisco town site scheme and many of them are still hopeful that they will receive a tract of land in the drawing, which it is said has already taken place, but notices of which have not been received as yet.

There are said to be 10,000 acres in the town site, divided into tracts of various sizes, from one 1000-acre tract down to lots 50x100 feet. H. E. Bickers, formerly of Hotel Bickers, is now in Jalisco, investigating conditions, and upon his advice and report will depend the future actions of many holders of numbers in the scheme in this city.

If Mr. Bickers reports favorably upon it many of them will immediately go to Jalisco. But if his report should be unfavorable they will abandon such a plan and await the increase in the value of their Jalisco holdings, which it is hoped will make them small fortunes.

In the meantime each ticket holder is awaiting impatiently the coming of the blue print which will designate the location of each individual drawing in the town site.

IDAHO BROOM CORN.

Employment Given to a Number of People by New Industry.

E. J. Thurber, proprietor of the Lewiston broom factory, returned yesterday from the lower Snake river, where he has been engaged in harvesting his grain crop, says the Lewiston Tribune. Mr. Thurber states that he will harvest 500 acres of broom corn that will be used in the manufacture of brooms here. The factory will be operated on a larger scale in the future than ever before, and Mr. Thurber will devote his entire personal attention to the management of the plant and the marketing of the product.

The Thurber farm is located near Pennewawa and the conditions along the river are very favorable for the maturing of a fine grade of broom corn. Mr. Thurber after demonstrating this fact by the operation of a small factory at home, decided to enter a larger field and located the factory at Lewiston. The brooms instantly found a fine market and much machinery was added. The output of brooms is marketed at all points in the Lewiston region and a bright future for the industry is assured.

CATALOG BEING ISSUED.

Pendleton Academy Will Use No Advertising Matter in Catalog This Year.

The annual catalog of Pendleton academy now being issued from the press of the East Oregonian marks a decisive advance in the history of that institution.

For the first time in the history of the institution the catalog will be issued free from advertising matter, there being nothing but facts and statistics concerning the academy in the entire book.

This is in keeping with the progress made by the larger schools of the United States and is a decided step in advance for the Pendleton institution. While the advertising matter in catalogs pays the cost of issuing them, yet it is not considered as artistic or in keeping with the spirit of the school to make its catalog a commercial affair and in answer to this higher call the academy will sacrifice the income for the better appearance and make the catalog a straight catalog with no advertisements whatever in it.

DAIRY COWS INFECTED.

Sensational Reports Given Out by Oakland's Milk Inspector.

Oakland, July 19.—Dr. R. A. Archibald, city veterinarian and milk inspector, made the statement today that more than 30 per cent of the cows that supply milk to the people of Oakland are affected with tuberculosis. Dr. Archibald asserts that he believes the only remedy for the condition is through state legislation. He thinks all cows shown to be affected should be destroyed at the expense of the state.

Archibald cited that in one dairy he recently visited 53 out of 57 cows were afflicted. The inspector said a cow could be condemned, but no provision was made in the law to destroy the diseased animal. He estimates that within 15 years, the present rate being maintained, more than one-half of the cows in California will be tubercular.

SEND FRUIT TO EAST.

Snake River Landowners Send Large Number of Crates to New York.

Large shipments of fruit are being made from the Snake river country to the East.

The land owners along the Snake river are very well pleased with the fruit growing industry and are devoting much of their time to it. This year has been an exceptionally good year and more fruit is being shipped than ever before.

W. L. LaFollette, one of the largest fruitgrowers and who has 250 acres in orchards, has shipped 10,000 boxes of cherries this year.

Most of the shipments are made to New York. The boxes weigh about 10 pounds and sell at 50 cents a box.
