Where it Pays to Trade

Caldwell Grows.
Caldwell is on the advance. New buildings are being constantly erected, new lots leveled and improved, new street laid out and beautified. And now comes the electric railroad to connect this place directly with the capital city of our state. Then C. W. Cooper and other capitalists, are going to build and equip a large planing mill; Jack Goodwin is going to erect machine shops and a wagon factory. Plans for a new flour mill are rapidly maturing. J. C. Rice is building a handsome block. R. W. Oakes is going to build one, and Cooper, Davis and Froman are just finishing up their handsome structure. A new school house is to be erected immediately, and if the people do the right thing, a new court house is assured. Caldwell is riding on a wave of prosperity and progress. The people have confidence in her and she's bound to be a city of 25,000 within the next decade.—Caldwell News.

Spokane county for the first time in 12 years is to have a grand jury. Its purpose includes the investigation of charges of bribery, gross extravagance in public officials, and moral laxity. Jurors were summoned for last week, but because of the death of the mother of Prosecuting Attorney R. M. Barnhart, the jury was not impaneled until Tuesday.
