

FALL AND WINTER 1905-1906. Alexander's FALL AND WINTER 1905-1906.

QUALITY AND STYLE WILL ALWAYS PREVAIL AT THIS STORE

The stock in the many departments of this old and well known store are now complete (with very few exceptions) for us to say that never in the history of this house was such an assortment of up to the minute in style merchandise showing (is putting it mildly) we go further (without and fear of contradiction) and state that never in the history of this city was such a complete stock of up-to-date goods shown as we show this season. Great care was exercised in selecting the right goods, as a result we have the correct styles and quality and prices are absolutely right.

PEACE CONGRESS

WILL DISCUSS DISARMING OF THE ARMIES AND NAVIES.

Will Also Consider an International Congress to Handle the Questions Which Now Come Before The Hague Conference — "Constructive International Organization" Will Be a New Note for Peace Congress—American Representation at Lucerne Unusually Large.

Lucerne, Switzerland, Sept. 12.—One of the most impressive peace congresses ever held opened here today. The tide of arbitration and peace is now running so high in all the European states that many of the most influential men in all parts of the world are in attendance at the conference to discuss questions of great national importance which are to be presented at the sessions.

Most important among the many vital subjects outlined for the program of the 14th International Peace Congress are the questions of the reduction of the armies and navies of the nation and of the establishment of a stated international congress for the regular consideration of all international matters. Both of these questions will probably also engage the second Hague conference which it is now stated on good authority, will meet as soon as the present hostilities in the east are settled.

A feature of the program which appeals to our own people, is the prominence given to the subject of neutralization. At the Boston congress last autumn, this subject received a degree of consideration greater than that accorded to it at any previous peace congress, and since that time through the declaration of the Massachusetts Board of Trade in favor of neutralization of certain zones across the Atlantic, it has commanded world wide notice. It is a well understood fact that the problem of neutralization applied to the Philippines by the mutual agreement of the great nations would remove many of the most serious obstacles in the way of their assumption of independence. Above all the course of events in the war in Manchuria have brought the subject of neutralization to the front rank among the important questions of the day.

The inspiring note of the Lucerne congress is constructive international organization. With the establishment of the Hague tribunal, international arbitration secured decisive recognition. What now occupies the attention of the peace advocates is proper international organization and construction and that is the fundamental groundwork of the present congress and the subjects brought before it for discussion.

The American representation at the Lucerne congress is much larger than that at any European congress since the revival of the congress in 1889. The American Peace Society, the peace societies of Philadelphia, Cincinnati and other cities as well as various commercial bodies like the New York Board of Trade, are unusually well represented. Besides the number has been augmented by a large proportion of the delegates to the international religious conference held at Geneva during the latter part of August. Altogether, this promises to be one of the most notable gatherings in the interest of universal peace held thus far and in consideration of the present events and conditions, the discussions and their results are of world wide importance.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennett's Ville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Tallman & Co., druggists, sell and guarantee them, at 50¢ a bottle.

BIGGEST LIVESTOCK SHOW.

Largest and Finest Ever Exhibited in the West. Portland, Or., Sept. 19.—The livestock show which opened today at the exposition is the biggest thing of its kind ever held in the west. The enthusiasm manifested, the large number of entries of the best cattle of all breeds throughout the great west, and the amount of the prize money, about $60,000, assures the success of the show. Among the exhibits is a fine lot of Clydesdales, Percherons, and French coach horses, recently imported from Europe and never before exhibited.

W. S. Skinner, superintendent of the National Livestock show in Chicago, has sent a trainload of Short-horns, Herefords, Polled Angus and Galloway breeds for the exhibition. The showing of Short-horns is unusually good, the Oak Hill farm, of North Yakima, leading off with an entry of 21 head. The state of Missouri appropriated $5000 for special premiums to be awarded to the Missouri cattle making the best showing at the fair. All these things combined with the large attendance at the fair for the livestock show today promise a most successful week for the exhibition.

Underwriters Meet.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 13.—The 16th annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters began here today. The attendance was gratifying considering the distance some of the delegates had to travel in order to attend the meetings and the enthusiasm with which they entered into the subject discussed in relation to the prospects and conditions governing the underwriters throughout the country showed the interest taken by the local organizations in the proceedings of the national body.

NEW ROAD MACHINE.

Good Roads Enthusiast Introducing an Inexpensive Method.

Dr. William R. Lee, a good roads enthusiast of San Francisco, is in the city and will endeavor to demonstrate to the people of Marion county, as well as the people of the entire state, the merits of the road dragging idea, originated by D. Ward King, a farmer of Maitland, Mo., says the Salem Statesman. Dr. Lee will go to Portland tomorrow, but will return to Salem in about two weeks, when he intends to give an actual demonstration in improving roads by the drag system.

This method of improving roads is attracting wide attention, and it is said the originator of the idea, who is the expert road representative of the Missouri board of agriculture, is in great demand to explain the new system of road construction, not only in Missouri, but in many other states.

Dr. Lee, who is a friend of Mr. King, has taken up the matter on the coast, and is devoting his entire time in an effort to get the method properly before the people of the western states. His visit to Salem at this time is for the purpose of getting in touch with County Judge J. H. Scott, president of the Oregon State Good Roads association, who is favorably impressed with the road dragging idea, and anxious to ascertain its merits by actual demonstration.

The road drag as invented by Mr. King, is a simple and inexpensive device and can be made by any farmer in a few hours' time. It consists of a split log nine feet in length and from 10 to 12 inches thick. The halves are set on edge 30 inches apart with both flat sides to the front and are fastened together by oak or hedge bark the ends of which are wedged in two-inch auger holes bored through the logs or slabs.

The road drag is said to give a smooth surface to the road, allowing the water in the winter time to run off and to encourage the distribution of travel over the road from side to side. By dragging while the earth is yet moist it is claimed the road will finally become a series of practically water proof layers of puddle earth, each one of which is rolled and pounded by the wheels and hoofs of travel.

The method is credited with being an inexpensive way in which to accomplish excellent results in road improvement and the matter will be given a thorough investigation by County Judge Scott and the other members of the Marion county court.

OCTOBER COSMOPOLITAN.

New Management Reviving Interest in the Popular Magazine. The October Cosmopolitan has arrived, and even a glance at its contents shows it to be more welcome than ever. The new management has certainly done wonders in rejuvenating the old magazine.

Every article has a timely interest or makes a strong personal appeal to the reader. First of all comes an admirable illustrated character sketch of Paul Morton, undoubtedly the most interesting personality in the American business world today.

William R. Stewart contributes an estimate of Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia, which presents him in a new light and makes his recent political movements the more understandable. Other illustrated articles of singular interest in this number are "My Life on the Vesuvian Lid," by Prof. R. V. Matucci, a distinguished Italian scientist, who has lived for years on the crater's edge for the purpose of study and observation. An probably no other living being leads a more perilous existence, the details of his daily life form a truly exciting narrative.

Every woman in the country will want to read "Creating Fashions in Dress," which, with many pictures, tells how the styles are evolved in Paris. Elizabeth Meredith, the writer, shows also what great influence American women exercise in determining the style.

Major Gordon W. Lillie presents, in a short illustrated article, a plan for restoring the buffalo, our typical American big game, to the western prairies—a matter of interest to all sportsmen and lovers of animals. The issue contains an unusual amount of humorous material.
