So here's to the friend who stands by you. Tho' foul be the wind and weather; Whose eyes look love and whose heart beats true. As you tread dark ways together. For he lends you strength from his strong right arm, And you build new faith on his heart-beats warm. While you laugh at fate and its threats of harm. On your way o'er the storm-swept heather. —Will M. Maupin in Commoner.

DON'T KICK, BUT VOTE RIGHT.

The Seattle Star makes a loud howl about rich Seattle people giving away $25,000 for foreign missions, during the recent sessions of the board of foreign missions of the Congregational church in that city while at the same time, hundreds of poor families in Seattle are in actual need and many of them know not where the next meal is coming from. This may be true. But if it is true, it is all right. The rich people of Seattle who gave away this money have become rich through the ignorant, heedless and prejudiced voting of the very men who are suffering for the necessities of life, yet who go to the polls and whoop for up for plutocratic, grasping, selfish men because they wear the brand of one of the political parties upon them. Let the rich give away their money to suit themselves, as long as they earn it in their own shrewdness and manipulation of the masses.

The East Oregonian has deep sympathy for suffering and poverty, especially among families, but where poor people forge their own fetters and burn their own fingers through prejudice and ignorance in the face of proffered enlightenment and wisdom in their own interest, it has but little patience. Experience will teach them the way, perhaps. If poor people who lack the necessities of life in the large cities would vote right and kick less, refuse to be torch-bearers in plutocratic political processions, refuse to take a few paltry dollars to boost their enemies into office, and would unite and stand firm in the workingman's cause, there would be more equal distribution of wealth and less suffering. More stomachs would be filled and more souls saved under such a plan, than under the present one. But matters can only be made right by intelligent voting. Kicking is no remedy.

THIRSTING FOR SENSATION.

The reading world hungers for sensation constantly. No sooner is the Lawson expose finished, than the readers of Everybody's magazine demand a series of exposures of the land frauds of the west. The conviction of a United States senator, congressman and others, is food for the sensation-loving public, and it demands details and close-range view of the subject. Probably the next great subject to be made a leader in eastern magazines will be the land frauds, in all their intricate and complicated ramifications. Interest is lagging in the beef trust exposition. The Lawson articles are beginning to drag. The story of post-office frauds has been threshed out. Life insurance steals are commonplace. So the gigantic land frauds of the west coast will probably be exploited in a masterful manner by some writer. The true picture of land stealing, in its many forms, will make intensely interesting reading for a year. The investigation has only fairly begun in Oregon. After officials have been investigated, individual entries will come in for a merry whirr.

FEDERAL JUDGE NEEDED.

The delay in appointing a federal judge in Oregon is an injury to the state in many ways, although people appreciate that the delay is prompted by a desire to secure the best man for the place.

When it is considered that the federal judge in Oregon is busy, ordinarily every working day in the year, in meeting the enormous business of his office, it may be understood what sort of congestion of business is occasioned by a total stoppage of business for five months, as has been the case in Oregon.

Judge De Haven did nothing but hear land fraud cases. Other business was deferred. Judge Hunt is hearing only land fraud cases. Other business is still deferred. Thousands of dollars are tied up in litigation which should be disposed of. Personal liberty is abused by the delay, as many men are now in jail in the state awaiting trial, but cannot be heard until a judge is appointed.

The people of Oregon want the best man for the place, but the delay is becoming tiresome and costly. Certainly from among the many capable and honest men suggested, the president can find one fit for the place. In justice to the business interests of the state, the appointment should be made at once.

The office of federal judge is burdened with work, at best, and the state should be divided into two districts at the coming session of congress. Eastern Oregon furnished sufficient work for one judge and in justice to the people of this section, many of whom must travel 500 miles in reaching Portland, from the far interior of the state, a new district should be created.

AMERICAN OPPORTUNITY.

The opportunity for a great increase of American trade in the orient is the text of all communications which now come from our consuls in Japan and China. Other nations, notably Germany and Great Britain, are alive to the situation, and the experts of the department of manufactures in Washington advise Americans to go in and get their share.

With the cessation of war, commerce has suddenly revived. Every day there is some new indication of the industrial revival in the far east.

Last Monday word was received of an inquiry from China for 100,000 barrels of flour; another inquiry comes for rice, and still another for modern stoves to be used in China.

Trade conditions in Japan are reflected in the reports for the past six months, which show that imports from the United States have increased from $13,328,000 in 1905, to $31,921,000. So exports from Japan to the United States have swelled more than a million for the same period.

ACRES OF DIAMONDS.

Dr. Russell H. Conwell of Philadelphia tells the story of the wealthy Persian in India, Ali Hafed. One day a priest told him of the value of diamonds, and Ali was riven no longer for he was touched with discontent. He wanted to find a mine of diamonds.

"I want to be rich and place my children on thrones," he said. "All you have to do is to go and search till you find them," said the priest.

"How shall I know when I have found the place?" questioned Ali. "When you find a river running over white sands between high mountain ranges, in those white sands you will find diamonds," answered the priest.

The discontented Ali Hafed sold his farm for what he could get, and went to search for the treasure. He traveled through Palestine and Egypt, he wandered for year after year, but found no diamonds. When his money was gone and starvation stared him in the face, ashamed of his folly and his rags, poor Hafed, disheartened and broken, threw himself into the sea and was drowned.

The man who bought his farm, one day, leading his camel out to drink, noticed a flash of light in the white sands of the brook. He picked up a pebble, and, pleased with its brilliant hues, took it into his house and laid it on the shelf and forgot all about it. One day the old priest of Buddha, the same who had filled Ali's heart with discontent, called upon the new owner of the farm. He had no sooner entered the house than his eye caught the flash of light from the gem on the mantle.

"Here's a diamond! here's a diamond!" shouted the old priest in great excitement. "Has Ali Hafed returned?"

"No," said the farmer, "nor is that a diamond. It is but a stone."

They went into the garden and stirred the white sand, and behold! other diamonds more brilliant than the first gleamed forth in great number.

Thus were discovered the famous diamond mines of Golconda.

A WOMAN NEVER DOES.

A loafer on the street, whose wife was probably at home getting out a neighbor's washing to make money to buy the children shoes, asked a busy man the other day if he ever saw a bald-headed woman.

"No, I never did," replied the busy man. "And I never saw a woman waiting around town in her shirt sleeves with a cigar in her teeth and running into every saloon she saw. Neither did I ever see a woman sitting all day at a street corner on a dry goods box, telling people how the secretary of the treasury should run the national finances. I have never seen a woman go fishing with a bottle in her pocket, sit on the bank all day and go home drunk at night. Nor have I seen a woman yank off her coat and say she could lick any man in town. God bless 'em, the woman are not built that way."—Kansas City Journal.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.
