Over 60 fine Pianos Sold in 8 weeks in Pendleton

What the Musical Courier of September 16th has to say relative of the great Eilers Piano House:

"The Eilers firms throughout the Pacific coast have demonstrated that they can dispose of goods without leaders; that they can sell as many pianos as all other piano dealers on the coast combined—sell simply as a commercial proposition, with the twentieth century system applied to it, and the musical and artistic sentiment attracted simply through the laws of natural selection as applied to commerce.

"Here is our line of goods; here are our prices; here are our terms; this is the method in which we conduct our business; here are our references if you need any. We will make good in case of deficiency; and we are merchants. We offer you from this line as great a selection as you may deem necessary for the purpose of securing what you wish."

Eilers Piano House have taken a two years' lease of the store at 813 Main street, where purchases can be made as advantageously in Pendleton as in Portland, San Francisco or Spokane.

Our one-price system is universal and if your purchase falls in any way to prove exactly as represented, it is "money back."

Every purchaser a pleased purchaser is our aim.

We are about to conclude one of the greatest and most successful piano sales ever conducted in the northwest many purchasers securing fine Chickering, Weber, Kimball, Hobart M. Cable, Marshall & Wendell, Schumann Bailey, Milton and other fine makes and at reduction of from $100 to $175 from the regular price. Exceptionally easy terms during this sale.

TO STRICKEN INDIA

ROYALTY WILL REVEL WHILE PEOPLE STARVE.

Prince and Princess of Wales Will Spend at Least $1,000,000 on a Pleasure Junket in India, But They Will Avoid Rajputna District, Where 1000 People Die Each Week of Famine—Entertainments on Royal Vessel Will Cost $5000 Per Day.

At a cost of at least $1,000,000 to the British taxpayers, the Prince and Princess of Wales have left England for India to spend a half year in having a truly good time.

They will combine business with pleasure by making strenuous efforts to stimulate the loyalty of millions of famine-stricken Indians to British rule.

The Princess of Wales will take with her more than 100 dresses, and all of her magnificent jewels, which have been heavily insured against loss.

Wants Easy Sailing.

The royal party will cross the ocean on the battleship Renown. The reason is the proneness of the Princess of Wales to seasickness. She declined to spend a month on the water on an ordinary liner, and so, at great expense, the Renown, which has been built for steadiness in a rough sea, has been fitted up as a huge steel yacht. In the admiral's quarters of the vessel upholsterers for the past three months have padded and quilted the iron cells into a series of boudoirs, reception rooms and sleeping rooms.

Sleep Next to Armor.

The officers' quarters on the warship have been commandeered to make further private rooms for the royal suite, and the officers, during the voyage will have to rest content with accommodations in the gun houses of the warship's huge rifles. The rifles have been removed to provide improvised bedrooms and dining rooms. The result has been to metamorphose the grim fighting machine into a strange effeminate ocean ferry.

In the royal suite will be 123 persons—generals, colonels, nobles and knights almost without end. Most of them will have to go to India on ordinary steamers.

Through India by Rail.

The royal party will land at Bombay on November 9, and will be received in full state by the new viceroy, Lord Minto, and probably by Lord and Lady Curzon.

The prince and princess and their army of attendants will make by railway journey 11,000 miles and will see every city of prominence in the dependency. Two trains will be filled with members of the party and a third will carry their baggage.

Splendid Entertainments.

At Calcutta, the capital of India, the royal travelers will make the greatest efforts at entertainment of their tour. All the hotel room in the city has been taken. At Delhi 50,000 Indian troops under Lord Kitchener, will conduct a sham campaign for five days for the benefit of their royal highnesses.

Amid Famine.

While the prince and his wife are in India, they will be the direct cause of an expenditure of an average of $5000 a day in entertaining and traveling. While they are thus reveling in riches, there will be perhaps 5,000,000 people of India stricken by famine, for indications point to this year being one of the worst in India famine records. The prince and princess are being urged to abandon their route through the Rajputna district, where the famine is expected to record 1000 deaths a week.

SHEEP TO YAKIMA.

James Wright Ships 8000 Head From Walla Walla.

Eight thousand sheep were shipped from the Walla Walla Storage company's stock yards last night to Yakima where they will be pastured for the winter, says the Walla Walla Union. The sheep were the property of J. Wright, of Yakima, who on Tuesday purchased them from William Reser, of this city.

Two carloads of cattle and two carloads of hogs were received here yesterday for the local demand. These animals will be dressed and put into cold storage until needed. The cattle and hogs came from the Walla Walla country and were in prime condition.

Walla Walla valley may have plenty of livestock shipped in this fall for winter feeding, when the concession of the Northern Pacific railway on rates goes into effect. After October 25 the railway company will make a rate of 75 per cent of the normal tariff on stock cattle shipped from any point west of the mountains to the valleys east of the mountains. The shipping of cattle has been a practice for several years and the railroad company intend to encourage it by making lower rates for this purpose.

POOLE'S FAMOUS FEAT.

In Splitting Paper He Went One Better Than an English Expert.

Lucius Poole, a brother of William Poole, the librarian whose name is perpetuated in "Poole's Index," was known throughout the country for his rare skill in restoring and repairing old documents and reprints. He lived for thirty years in a house at the south end, Boston, with three congenial spirits, one a collector of Dickensiana, the second of Napoleonniana and the third a collector of first editions. Poole was a collector, too, of books, letters and programmes relating to the stage. He had a remarkable faculty for matching old paper and could put a corner or a patch on a letter or a playbill so neatly that it could be noticed only under a magnifying glass. Mr. Poole's famous feat of splitting a magazine page into four leaves or layers was brought about by an English inlayer, who showed Mr. Poole a page split in three leaves with the printing on it unmarred. The American said that he could do all that the Englishman had done, and more, and after some experiments produced a page of the Century Magazine split in four leaves. This was taken to London by a book collector, who had gone abroad to add to his library, and after the page had been the rounds of the clubs there it was sent to Paris and caused the Frenchmen to wonder.—Portland Advertiser.

THE SUN AND MOON.

Quaint Folklore Stories Concerning These Luminaries.

The most touching of all folklore stories may be found in Charles F. Lummis' "Fuebio Folklore." It is one of the many myths of the moon and beautifully conceived. The sun is the Allfather, the moon the Allmother, and both shine with equal light in the heavens. But the Trues, the superior divinities, find that man, the animals, the flowers, weary of a constant day, they agree to put out the Allfather's, or sun's, eyes. The Allmother, the moon, offers herself as a sacrifice. "Blind me," she says, "and leave my husband's eyes." The Trues say, "It is good, woman."

They accept the sacrifice and take away one of the Allmother's eyes; hence the moon is less brilliant than the sun. The man finds rest at night, and the flowers sleep.

In Mrs. Leiber Cohen's translation of Sacher Masoch's "Jewish Tales" there is a variant of the sun and moon story derived from the Talmud. Briefly told, the sun and moon are equally luminous. It is the moon who wants to be more brilliant than the sun. Deity is angered at her demands. Her light is lessened. "The moon grew pale. Then God pitied her and gave her the stars for companions."

La Grande Tank House Burned.

Fire was discovered this morning at 8 o'clock in the tank house on the Stover property across the track. The hose carts were taken out and though they reached the spot too late to save the building, the residence was saved. The fire originated from an attempt to thaw out the water pipes, the fire which was started around the pipes getting beyond control. The damage will amount to about $150.—La Grande Observer.

UKIAH is the Place

The highest priced lot in Pendleton, say $25,000.00, was once worth an amount so small that a child's savings bank account could easily have bought it.

Towns have grown into cities within a few years and every one can recall instances of rapid increase in the value of such properties.

Real estate is the basis of all values and an investment in it will come nearer making sure money than anything else. Every one who buys a lot in Ukiah is investing money that is sure to bring good returns and possibly make a fortune.

Energy and hustle are backing the enterprise and ample capital is at hand to build a railroad that will connect Camas Prairie with the outside world. The building preparations are making as fast as time will permit.

Think for a moment! How many chances have you let pass to get in on the ground floor at a price that would have made you a fortune.

We have a bona fide offer and know that it will make you good money.
