NEW COMPANY FLOURISHING.

Oregon Insurance Corporation Growing Steadily Under Management of L. Samuels.
L. Samuels, manager of the Oregon Insurance company, is in the city today in the interest of the new company, and is delighted with the progress made all over the state.
The people are well pleased with the prospects for a home insurance company and the patronage accorded it is very flattering. It is made up entirely of Oregon capital, stock being held by people in all parts of the state, and it will be in absolute control of the policy-holders and will be conducted as the policy-holders wish. With the shaking up of the old companies and the exposures of corruption in their practices, the new company is finding great encouragement in this state.

WASCO COUNTY SHEEP.

Total of 134,572 With But Two Small Bands Having Scab.

One of the greatest, if not the greatest, industries in Wasco county, is the sheep business, and though lack of range has caused many to abandon what has always been one of the best paying industries open to residents of the county, there are still a large number who are gaining in earthly goods by sticking to the wool, says the Dalles Chronicle.
Some idea of the extent of the business may be obtained from the semi-annual report of Stock Inspector P. J. Walsh, from which we find that there are 79 bands in the county, and a total of 134,572 sheep.
Mr. Walsh says that in examining the various bands he found two bands infected with scab and, in accordance with the law, had them dipped twice, so that all sheep in the county are now free from disease.

COMING TO PORTLAND.

Moffatt Road Said to Be Building to the Timber Belt.

A special from Denver says concerning the Moffatt railway:
David H. Moffatt, who is building a railroad through northern Colorado and Utah to Salt Lake, today made the following announcement:
"I intended to extend the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific railroad to Portland, Ore. I want to get up in that section for the timber as well as for an outlet on the Pacific ocean. I will begin the extension when I am through Utah."
The construction of the Moffatt road to Portland would put Denver on a direct Pacific coast-Gulf of Mexico line.

Worthy of Consideration.

The production of Oregon wheat, wool, hops, fruit, fish, lumber and gold brings millions of dollars into Oregon each year. All these vast millions do little to permanently enrich the state if the money is sent away for commodities made elsewhere. The only way to build up this state is to give preference to Oregon made goods. Life Insurance premiums drained its last year of more than one million dollars. This money can, and should be kept here. The Oregon Life Insurance company is a well-organized home concern managed by well-known Oregonians. Every dollar paid for premiums is invested in safe Oregon securities, and the interest or profits on these securities are also invested here.

Coming to the Fraser.

Manager Parker announces a partial list of attractions coming to the Fraser theater in the near future as follows:

"The Girl From Sweden," January 12; "The Sho Gun," January 15; "Murray & Mack," January 21; "Her Marriage Vow," January 23; "Black Crook," January 25, and Mahara's Minstrels, January 28.

CAVE OF THE WINDS.

The Vision Carved in Stone Under Its Hills of Dakota.

The great wind cave has the form of an eight story house, each story, or stratum, containing a distinct formation of its own and each containing chambers of a size and magnificence of decoration such as have never been found in any subterranean cavern of the world.

It is a dream, a nightmare, a vision, carved in solid stone under the green hills of Dakota, stone as white as the milk the hired man used to give us to drink in the dawn of a happy June morning, stone as red as the heart of the first bloodroot that you dug in the spring when the world was all spring to you and stone that is blue with a blue that all the painters who have ever painted Venice have tried to get for generations and have failed.

Frozen fountains are there, white with the leaping foam of untold ages, sculptured cats and horses and great monsters to be dreamed about of nights and feared in dark corners in the daytime, organs built by the hands of giant gnomes for a Titan to play wild hymns of praise upon, a kitchen for the cooking of weird dishes never thought of up here in the sunshine, all manner and all kinds of rooms, ninety miles of them, down there under the boofs of the gallant little range horses who pound the grass into hay the year round, up there in South Dakota.

ICE FOR HEATING.

One of the Oddities of Our Modern Civilization.

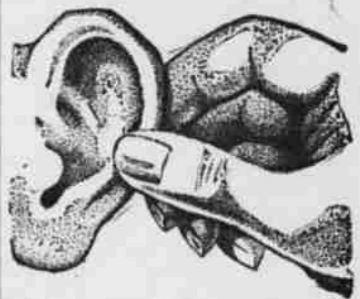

The use of ice for heating purposes is one of the oddities of our modern civilization. Often it happens that a train carrying fruit from the south to the northern market encounters a cold spell while en route. If the temperature goes below a certain point the perishable merchandise will be ruined. But such a misfortune may be prevented by covering the fruit car with a coat of ice, a thing easily accomplished by turning a hose upon it and allowing the water to freeze until the whole vehicle is enveloped in a glassy and glittering blanket.

It may, indeed, be appropriately called a blanket, inasmuch as it prevents the radiation of heat from the interior of the car. The ice being a good non-conductor the warmth is retained and the fruit, or possibly it may be vegetables, goes on its way unspoiled even by zero weather.
Cars used for transporting oranges and other fruit from California to the east are often provided nowadays with large cylindrical "ice stoves," as they might be called, at each end, which, while useful in summer time for refrigeration, are filled with ice during a cold spell in winter. When the temperature outside is at zero or below, the ice, at 32 degrees F., is comparatively warm, and thus the "stoves" described act as heaters.

Physiognomy.

Dr. Barnardo, the great London child savor, was once discussing crime and criminals with a Scotland Yard expert and expressed his disbelief in the theories of heredity and criminal physiognomy. He produced two photographs of two well known men and showed the faces only to the expert. "One," he said, "is that of a once notorious criminal, and the other is that of a notably good man. Tell me which is which." Without hesitation the expert designated one of the photographs as that of the notorious criminal. Dr. Barnardo was triumphant. The expert criminologist had chosen the photograph of an archbishop of Canterbury.

The World Publishing Co., at Wenatchee, Wash., has bought out the Wenatchee Advance and consolidated it with the former.
