WILLIAMSON BUYS.

Ex-Congressman Takes Over Sheep Interests of His Partner.

The sheep firm of Williamson and Gesner was dissolved this week, Congressman Williamson buying his partner's interests in the sheep and land owned and controlled by the firm, says the Crook County Journal. The price paid in the transfer of the property has not been made known, and probably will not be until the final details have been arranged and the papers placed on file. As yet the sale has not been perfected, although all arrangements have been completed for the transfer of interests and future management of the business.

The sale includes an interest in the 12,000 head of sheep owned by the firm and some 10,000 acres of land lying on Crooked river some 20 miles southeast of Prineville.

Congressman Williamson and Dr. Gesner have been in business together since 1901 when the firm of Williamson, Wakefield & Gesner was first formed. Two years later Mr. Wakefield's interests were bought by his partners and the new firm of Williamson & Gesner was formed January 1, 1903. The business has grown steadily and has been a paying one since it was first started. The firm only last spring established a record mark for Crook county by a sale of several thousand sheep, the purchase prices of which were the highest which had been paid for crook county sheep for years.

Dr. Gesner intends to move to Portland to join his wife and children who are now living there. It is understood that he will remain in this vicinity, however, until after the lambing and shearing season in the spring when the final details of the transfer of interests will be drawn up and settlement made. He will continue to remain in charge of the business until that time.

Mr. Williamson has recently purchased a residence in the city and his family will probably move here in a short time. At present they are residing in The Dalles.

PUSHING IMPORTANT PROJECT.

Two Hundred Fifty Men at Work on Irrigation Canal Near Lewiston.

The Lewiston-Sweetwater Irrigation company Thursday purchased the Geiser sawmill and will move it from its present location two and a half miles above the junction of Sweetwater creek to the junction, says the Lewiston Tribune. Heretofore the company has operated the mill under a lease, but concluded to purchase it outright. The company has also purchased a million feet of timber in the vicinity to be used on the ditch. The company already owns 250,000 feet. The mill will be operated to its full capacity until the logs have been used up. Four engineers are now working on the ditch and operations on the reservoir will commence as soon as convenient.

Bids for the construction of the reservoir will probably be called for about February 1. It is the intention of the company to put the land on sale about April 1, and as the original intention was not to market any lands until they could be watered, it is presumed that the canal will be finished and in operation by that time.

The construction work is progressing nicely and about three-fourths of it has been finished. The men are now engaged in the heavy rock work. Some of the cuts have proved very heavy and are costing from 10 to 20 thousand dollars a mile. This suggests the magnitude of the important work being done by the company. The pipe for the syphon across the Sweetwater draw has been received and is on the ground. A new camp was started yesterday and 40 men are at work on this section of ground adjacent to it. Another camp will be started as soon as the men are available. There are now 250 men at work on the canal and a large number of teams.

COMPLAINS OF THE TOLLS.

Oregonian Says Government Should Own Oregon City Locks.

The Portland Oregonian, which is a bitter opponent of government ownership of the public utilities, admits the wisdom of government ownership in the following concerning the locks in the Willamette river at Oregon City:

The Oregonian a day or two ago noticed the introduction by Senator Fulton of a bill for the purchase of the locks at Oregon City by the general government, with a view to their being thrown open and the 50 cents charge per ton on freight and 50 cents per passenger abolished.

All know that in 10 years about $300,000 has been paid by the people of the Willamette valley as direct toll. If this were all it would be bad enough. But indirectly this large sum is but a small, a very small, part of what the locks have cost the people.

For the lock toll has added 50 cents a ton to the total of river freight, and, as the river freight is regulated, that same 50 cents a ton has been added to the railroad tonnage as well. Can any one easily calculate the sum? By no means. Only the old books of account of the Southern Pacific could tell the tale.

MAJOR M'KOLIN HERE.

Major J. J. McKolin, formerly Indian agent on the Umatilla reservation is in the city today from his home at Olathe, Kas., where he has been on a short visit.

Uneven Snowfall in Idaho.

The fall of snow in Idaho thus far this winter has been very uneven, according to the weather bureau bulletin, observers in some sections reporting it to have been above average, while those in adjacent districts report it as having been unusually light. The weather of the month of December was characterized by continuously low temperature, without periods of thawing weather, and as a result of this condition the snow now on the ground is relatively light and dry. There has been less than the usual amount of drifting, but in some places mountain gulches are already well filled.—Lewiston Tribune.

Dr. Blakeslee's Family Coming.

Mrs. Lynn K. Blakeslee is expected to arrive in about six weeks from Los Angeles to join her husband, Dr. Blakeslee of this city. They will occupy their home on Water street and their son and daughter will join them after the close of school in Los Angeles in June.

Baker Enjoys Fine Winter.

It is a remarkable fact that this has been one of the finest winters, from every point of view, in the history of Baker county, in a decade, says the Baker City Democrat. Cold weather started in before Thanksgiving and has continued steadily cold without severity up to the present. Plenty of snow in the mountains and a reasonable supply in the valleys gives assurance of water for irrigation and mining. The roads have been in good condition for travel everywhere and livestock today is in better shape than at this season in many years. Feed has been plentiful and cheap with the certainty that spring will find the stock in almost marketable condition.

Carload of Jacks.

A. C. Ruby, of the firm of A. C. Ruby & Co., is expecting the arrival in a few days of a carload of 17 thoroughbred jacks. They were shipped about two weeks ago and should arrive in Pendleton some time this week.
