GROWING APPLES

METHODS WHICH MADE HOOD RIVER FAMOUS.

E. H. Shepard Writes Entertainingly of the Manner of Making a Success of Hood River's Red Apples—Growers Found Certain Kinds of Apples Adapted to the Soil and Gave All Their Attention to These Kinds.

The following article from F. H. Shepard, of Hood River, gives a clear insight into the methods of fruit-growing practiced in the Hood River district, and which have made Hood River apples famous around the world. Mr. Shepard says:

Nature has favored Hood River with a soil full of potash, phosphates and other minerals necessary to produce high quality fruit, of good size, fine color, excellency of flavor and No. 1 shipping qualities; an ideal climate for perfect development, warm days and cool nights; the ever-shining sun kissing our fruit by day, giving it color, while Mt. Hood and Mt. Adams, 11,000 feet high with their snow-capped peaks, cool our atmosphere at night.

I will now tell you as best I can how we have done our part. By investigation some years ago we ascertained that Spitzenburg and Newtowns were not only high quality fruit, but always in demand. We found by experiment that they grew to perfection in Hood River soil and climate. We observed that these two varieties could be grown successfully in few districts and these comparatively small. We then decided to plant and grow them and have been continuing so to do ever since.

The point I wish to bring out here for the benefit of everyone is, that each individual, each locality, is particularly adapted to some one thing. To do that one thing well and better than anyone else will surely bring success and a rich harvest.

To illustrate, Los Angeles and vicinity is famous for oranges and lemons, Fresno for grapes, Vacaville for apricots, Sacramento river for peaches. In Colorado, Grand Junction and Paonia are celebrated for apples, Rocky Ford for cantaloupes. Parts of Missouri beat the world on our old friend, Ben Davis, and, by the way, don't forget it is a grand state and supplies the government with more and better mules than any other state in the Union.

But to return to our subject. I would say, do as Hood River and other districts have done, find out something you can grow to perfection for which there is a good demand, and give it every care and attention. Nurse it, cut with it, sleep with it. We began it the beginning by buying the best trees, the price being no object. We buy them from reliable nurserymen, who we know select their scions from parent trees known to be bearers and producing fruit of fine color and excellent quality.

We cultivate with unceasing care and in our orchards you will always find the moisture dust mulch and no weeds. We prune and shape the trees with the same care and fondness we would prune our child of bad habits and shape its character.

We spray thoroughly for every disease or insect pest our orchards have or may have. Spraying now is practically a definite science, and by utilizing energy and eternal vigilance every orchardist can grow a clean crop of apples. From the success achieved last year with five and six sprayings with arsenate of lead, we are convinced that this number of sprayings is sufficient. If properly done at the following times, to insure a clean crop: Once before the blossoms have fallen; next 10 days later, and two weeks after for the first brood.

Two sprayings two weeks apart are sufficient for the second brood, the time to be determined by brooding cages. Should there be a third or partial brood, give one spraying and determine the time in the same manner.

I do not mean to say that a less number of sprayings would not be sufficient, but I do mean to say that spraying as I have outlined it will give and has given us practically clean apples with less than two per cent of worms.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.

"I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. IDAHO EDITOR PASSED AWAY.

Had Owned the Caldwell Tribune for Thirteen Years.

Caldwell, Idaho, Feb. 21.—Reese H. Davis died this morning about 3 o'clock, at the age of 49 years, after an illness of about 10 days. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon. He leaves a widow and five children.

Mr. Davis was a man known over all the state from his activities in politics and his life in the newspaper field. He came to the state when a boy and has lived with it. He was born in Wales and his parents moved to this country when he was 10 years of age. In 1886 Mr. Davis launched into the newspaper field by purchasing the Oneda Herald, the name of which he changed to Malad Enterprise. He was elected a member of the Idaho legislature from Oneda county in 1887.

He removed to Caldwell in 1893 and purchased the Caldwell Tribune from the Steunbreg brothers and had been editor and publisher of that paper since. He has become widely known for his versatility in writing, and has wielded considerable influence in county and state politics. The Pioneer Irrigation district sprung to life by his initiative. He held the office of commissioner of immigration during former Governor Morrison's administration.

FRUIT TREES TO CHINA.

Walla Walla Nursery Sends Order to the Orient.

The Northwestern Nursery company of this city has just made a substantial shipment of fruit and shade trees to the orient, it having left Seattle on the steamship Lyra last week, says the Walla Walla Union.

The orders are for Rev. G. S. Candlin of Hentsin, and Dr. Ts'ao of Peking, China, and were received through the offices of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions.

One interesting phase of the order is the data in regard to the climate, which was deemed necessary so that the nursery might not send varieties not adapted to the conditions prevailing there.

The year is divided into two periods—one embracing the wet months, and the other the dry months. The wet period only includes the months of July and August, and the rest of the year is designated as dry. The average temperature for the summer months is between 70 and 80 degrees Fahrenheit, while the temperature in winter seldom goes below zero. There is little snow, but plenty of cold, dry winds.

Among the fruit trees ordered were apples, pears, cherry, peach and plum.

The Northwestern Nursery company made a very successful shipment to Manchuria last year, and reports received later were to the effect that every one of the trees grew and thrived.

All old-time cough syrups bind the bowels. This is wrong. A new idea was advanced two years ago in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy acts on the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs and loosens the bowels at the same time. It expels all cold from the system. It clears the throat, strengthens the mucous membranes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. Sold by Tallman & Co.
