STOLEN HORSES SENT TO CUBA

Under the terms of the law all sheep brought into this county for grazing purposes are subject to a tax of 20 cents per head. However, when the law was recently tested in the circuit court Judge Ellis held that it was unconstitutional. While there is little prospect of having this decision reversed, the sheepmen desire to have the matter fully settled, so that when the next legislature meets they may ask for the passage of a law which will stand.

Death of Earl Wall.

Charles Wall, of the Rader furniture store, received a telegram last night that his brother, Earl Wall, had just died at Newport, R. I., upon the United States gunboat Columbia. He was but 29 years of age and had been in the service only a short time. The body will be taken to Kingman, Kan., for burial.

RETRACE OLD TRAIL.

Ezra Meeker Arrives in Portland With Ox Team.

Ezra Meeker, Oregon pioneer of 1852, arrived in Portland last evening. He made his entry into the city with an ox team, says the Oregon Daily Journal. He is en route east with his outfit, a counterpart of means of locomotion in vogue on the Pacific coast more than a half century ago. The route Mr. Meeker intends to travel toward the rising sun is the same one that he tramped beside his ox team when he followed the sitting sun more than a generation ago.—The Oregon Trail.

In honor of his presence in the city the Oregon Pioneer association and the members of the State Historical society will tender Mr. Meeker an informal reception at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the committee room on the second floor of the city hall, when he will exhibit a number of stereoscopic views which he proposes to make use of on his eastern trip. The public generally is invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to the members of the historical society.

Mr. Meeker's camp is pitched on the block bounded by Market, Mill, Seventh and Park streets. He will be pleased to meet any of his pioneer day associates there.

Mr. Meeker's proposed trip back east over the famous Oregon trail has been extensively advertised throughout the country and preparations are being made to receive him along the route.

Here is an extraordinary coincidence: the island lying between the American fall and the Canadian fall at Niagara is called Goat island. What is now called Livingston island at the Victoria falls in Africa is called Kempongo by the natives, and this signifies "goat island."

TEXAS THIEVES ENTER THE EXPORT TRADE.

Houston Post Declares That a Regular Business of Shipping Stolen Horses From Texas Into Cuba Is Carried on—Hundreds of Texas Horses Are Stolen Each Year.

American horse thieves are extending their operations into the field of export trade. The Houston, Texas, Post, gives the following account of stolen horses being shipped from that state into Cuba. The Post says:

Sheriff Anderson is authority for the statement that a great many horses are being stolen in and about Houston and shipped to Cuba. At least, he states, a great many horses are being stolen in this immediate vicinity and shipped out. He concludes that they are being shipped to Cuba from the fact that horses are in big demand there and that it is about the easiest and quickest place to reach by those who desire to run stock out of the country in a hurry.

During the past several months many scores of horses have been stolen from people in Houston. The sheriff always, upon notification, gets busy and wires and sends postal cards over the country, as well as publishing descriptions of the missing animals in the sheriff's department of the Post. In many instances the horses have been found, but in many instances the animals disappeared so suddenly, leaving no trace whatever behind that Mr. Anderson has found the only solution for it, that they are being shipped to Cuba.

He states that he believes he has a line on the situation, and has learned enough to convince him that there is a regular organized gang of horse thieves operating here, and that the gang has connections in different portions of the state.

Houston is not the only place that has suffered at the hands of these gangs. It would appear, for during the past several months hundreds of animals have been stolen all over the state. There is hardly any doubt in the minds of the officials that the bulk of the horses stolen over Houston and from the rendezvous shipped over to Cuba. Should Sheriff Anderson be correct in the belief that he has a line on the gang operating here and should he be successful in running this gang down, it will doubtless have the effect of breaking up the many other gangs in the state.
